That ten minute break between classes. . .

Allen County Public Library
900 Webster Street

Fort Wayne, IN 46801-2270

Have you ever seen Purdue
in one wide sweeping glance?
Seen the buildings and the lions and the football games on weekends or a V^2 in the Music Hall
a Christmas Convocation
a brand new batch of freshmen or a pair of senior cords? . . .
Have you heard the noisy clatter
in the Sweetshop every morning or the gong of the bell when class is out or the hushed stillness
of the campus in the evening
or the crackle of a fire outdoors? . . .
Have you felt the deep frustration of a wholly fruitless effort or the satisfaction of a job well done or the warmth of a lasting friendship or that certain feeling for someone . . .
Can you see all this
in but one swift glance?
The answer is simple; of course you cannot!
For the view is too broad, the eye too slow to see even a portion of the whole
To see it, takes years, four to be exact . . .
To see it takes joys, angers, frustrations —
and one must be alert, for it comes but once,
and then passes on, unable to return.

ADMINISTRATION

President Frederick L. Hovde—An outstanding leader.

THE PRESIDENT

At the Ohio State game, President Hovde dedicated the Reamers' new, specially made, Boilermaker III.

A man of great stature in the field of education and service, Purdue's President, Frederick L. Hovde has served devotedly as head of the University since 1946. Dr. Hovde, a Rhodes Scholar, received his undergraduate degree in Chemical Engineering at the University of Minnesota, and now holds six graduate degrees. Although the duties of his office occupy a great deal of time, Dr. Hovde still manages to serve as head of many committees and organizations. Ability, diversity, character, and diligence, applied in service, have combined to make Dr. Hovde one of the nation's foremost educators and public servants.

Pausing to enjoy Purdue's Loeb Fountain, President Hovde relaxes and jokes with an admiring student.

Back Row: Mrs. Harriet Van Ness, Mrs. Lucille Morris, Assistant; A. W. Kettle; J. Ralph Thompson, Vice President. Front Row: J. Hobart Creighton, Donald R. Mallett.

The members of the Board of Trustees meet formally once every three months in the Executive Building.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees of Purdue University may well be called the pivotal cog in the University's mechanism of operation. This body, which is composed of nine members, controls dispersion and co-ordination of the vast sums of money involved in the operation of the University. Of its nine members, two are prominent agriculturists, two, outstanding industrialists and two, designated as "citizens of character and distinction." The other three are elected by the Alumni Association. Approving expansion projects, accepting grants, and passing on campus policy are among the Board's many functions.

Back Row: William A. Hanley, President; Miss Mary Elizabeth Skinner, Secretary; Edward Gabbard, Assistant to the Vice President and Treasurer; R. B. Stewart, Treasurer. Front Row: President Frederick L. Hovde; Hassil E. Schenck; Roger D. Branigin; Lytle J. Freehafer, Assistant Treasurer.

Purdue's Vice President and Treasurer
R. B. Stewart

Dr. R. B. Stewart, Purdue's Vice President and Treasurer, is a "man on the go" in the truest sense of the expression. Besides handling all financial and legal matters of the University, Dr. Stewart is responsible for all usual University operations and proposed development projects. He also supervises the operation of University housing. Since Dr. Stewart's duties cover such a wide area, it is necessary for him to spend a good deal of time on the road consulting experts in many fields. When on the campus, Dr. Stewart can usually be found in his office rendering further service to Purdue.

EXECUTIVE DEAN

Dr. Donald R. Mallett, among the most outstanding men in the field of counseling for young people, holds the position of the Executive Dean of the University. A man of vast experience in the area of student guidance, Dean Mallett's chief duties are concerned with administration and public relations. He assists and advises President Hovde on matters of University policy. Dr. Mallett, who is a native of Iowa, has been a physics teacher, an athletic coach, and has held several administrative positions. A member of Purdue's faculty since 1945, Dean Mallett is also active in many national and local organizations.

Donald R. Mallett

Lytle J. Freehafer

BUSINESS MANAGER

Mr. L. J. Freehafer, Purdue's business manager and assistant treasurer, has a full background in the field of economics. A graduate of DePauw University, Mr. Freehafer has served the State of Indiana in several capacities, among which are Chief Clerk, Supervisor of Audits, Deputy Auditor, and Director of the Budget. During World War II he served as Procurement and Physics Officer with the army, and retired with the rank of Colonel. Mr. Freehafer came to Purdue in 1953. His chief function as business manager and assistant treasurer is responsibility for all budgeted business operations of the University.

Helen B. Schleman

DEAN OF WOMEN

Purdue is quite fortunate to have such a highly qualified person as Miss Helen B. Schleman in the position of Dean of Women. A recognized leader in the fields of counseling and guidance for young people, she has developed her ability in these areas through experience in educational institutions and in the military service. She was director of the U. S. Coast Guard Women's Reserve, in which capacity she attained the rank of captain. Dean Schleman came to Purdue as Director of Women's Residence Halls in 1934, and, in 1947, was named to succeed Dr. Dorothy Stratton as the University's Dean of Women.

O. D. Roberts

DEAN OF MEN

O. D. Roberts, Purdue's personable Dean of Men, has had vast experience on both the college and high school levels, as well as in private industry. He has served as a teacher, coach, and counselor in several high schools, and has done considerable sales work in retail stores, steel mills, factories, and recreational fields. Before coming to Purdue in 1952, Dean Roberts was a member of the staff of the University of Oklahoma. Although the duties of his office are many, Dean Roberts finds time to serve as a leader in numerous local and national civic organizations, among which are the YMCA, United Fund, and Red Cross.

THE PURDUE RESEARCH FOUNDATION

Experimenting with different specimens, the Biology Department delves into nature's complexities.

The rapidly growing Purdue Research Foundation is one of the University's most important organs. With assets in excess of nineteen million dollars, the Foundation has the responsibility of locating sources of support for various University research projects, and helping the University discharge its educational, research and service functions. In the year 1959, fifty-three M. S. degrees and eighty-five Ph.D. degrees were granted by the University under Foundation-sponsored research projects. Though the Foundation has no facilities of its own, it is an important body in the field of research.

By using the Fabry-Perot interferometer, the Physics Department can determine precise wave lengths.

Research, the foundation of the achievements of man, begins in reflection and pensive thought.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION AND ALUMNI SCHOLARSHIP FOUNDATION

The Purdue Alumni Association, founded over forty-five years ago, has become the coordinating organization for the more than one-hundred Purdue Alumni Clubs, which are located in nearly all of the fifty states, as well as several foreign lands. Other activities of the Alumni Association include publication of the monthly Purdue Alumnus and sponsorship of such alumni functions as "Gala Week." The Alumni Scholarship Foundation has provided financial aid for thousands of Purdue students through funds which are solicited from the Foundation's many Alumni and friends.

POPULAR PROFESSORS

Over three thousand professors, instructors, and staff members are employed by the teaching, research, and extension departments of the University. For the third consecutive year, the Purdue student body honored six outstanding faculty members through the Debris Popular Professors Contest. Once again the services of the Exponent presented the ballots to the student body. This campus-wide poll is designed to bring students and faculty closer together and this year gathered response from a large cross-section of the University's schools and colleges. These pictures show the winners with their hobbies.

Professor Thoma's love for music has recently led to this new addition to his living room.

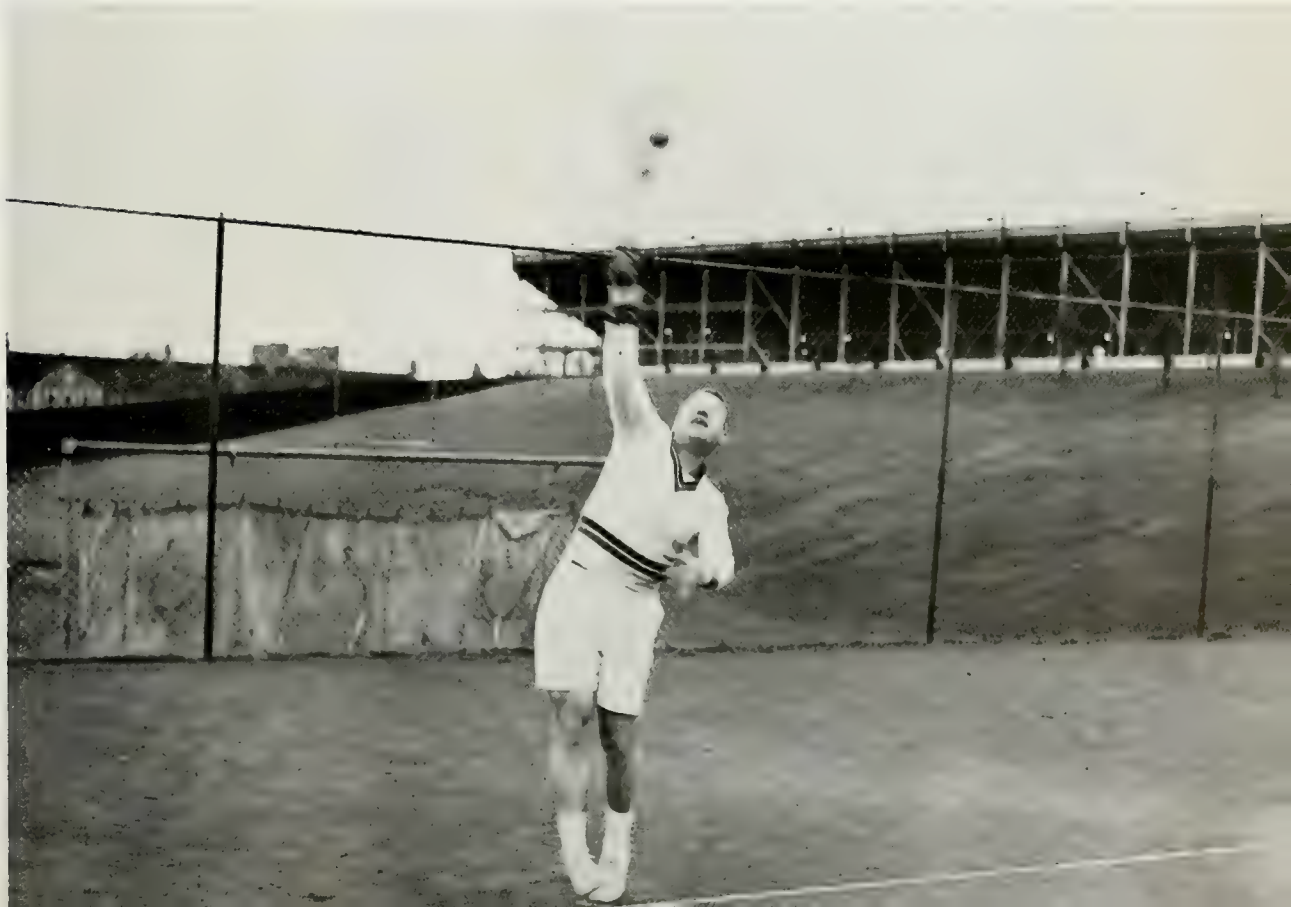

Professor Den Uly's name means "family of the owls" as is apparant from a sample of his large collection.

Professor Hess enjoys the rewards of many hours spent in developing his high fidelity system.

After class hours Professor Crook can usually be found on the Varsity Courts practicing his favorite sport.

Maintenance training in the second year of construction includes live aircraft of the multi-engine types.

AVIATION TECHNOLOGY

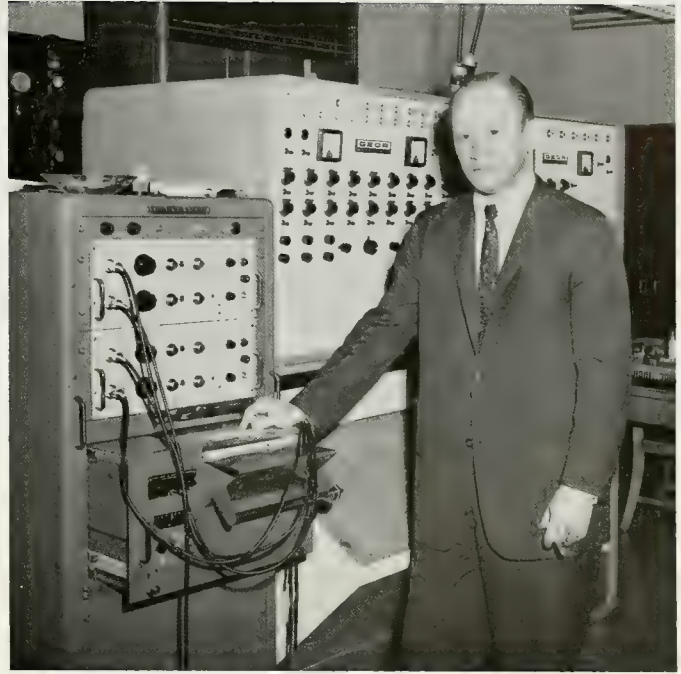

J. R. Maris

An aviation technician fulfills the vital function of liaison between engineers and the skilled workers on the line. To perform this work successfully, the technician must possess a knowledge not only of the machine tools of the worker but also of the aeronautical principles which are the tools of the engineer. The program offered by the Department of Aviation Technology provides a balance between class study and laboratory work. Courses in mathematics, physics, technical English, and drafting are stressed in the classroom, while 60 per cent of the two year course is spent in the laboratories.

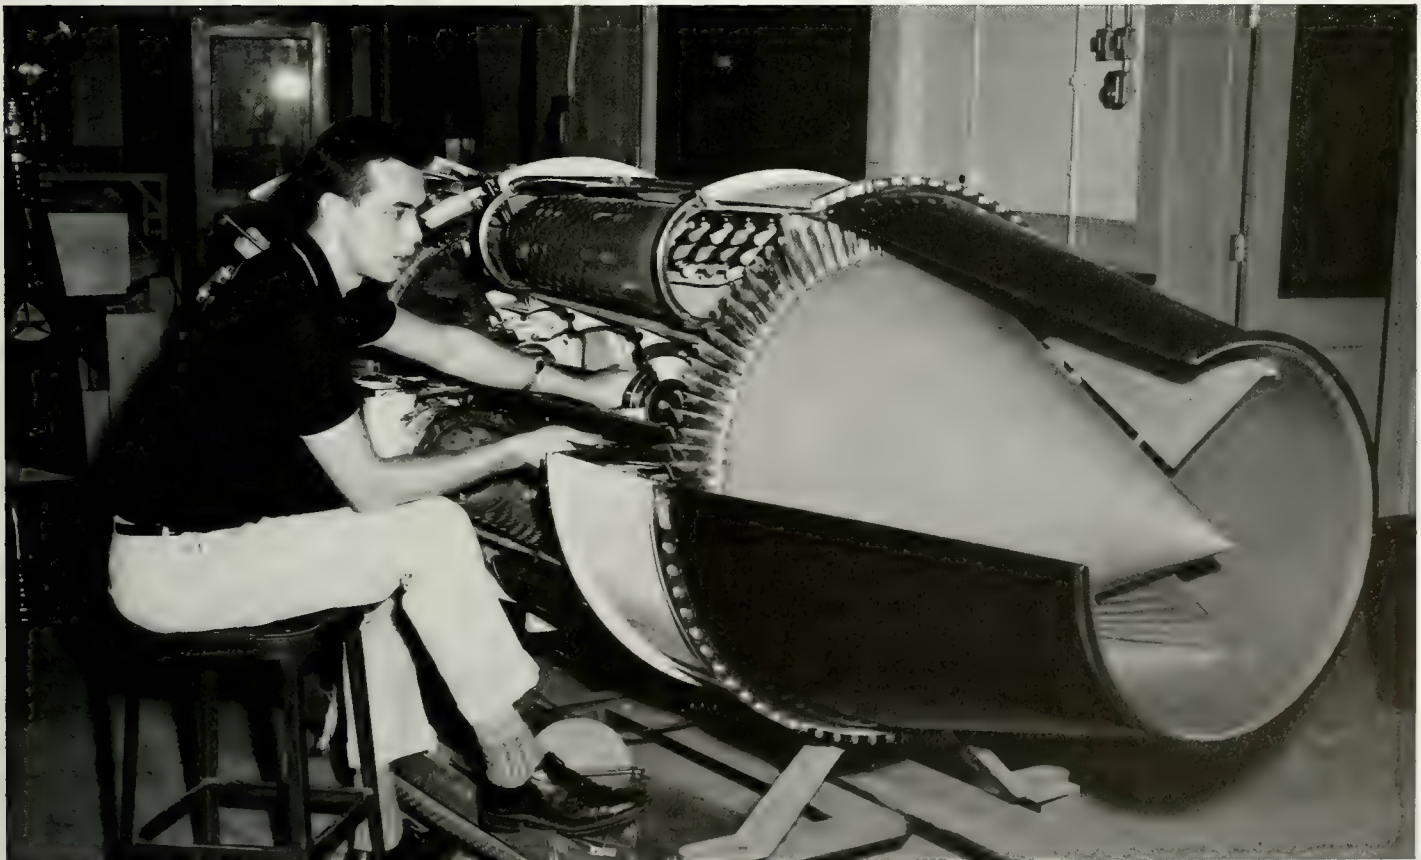

AERONAUTICAL AND ENGINEERING SCIENCES

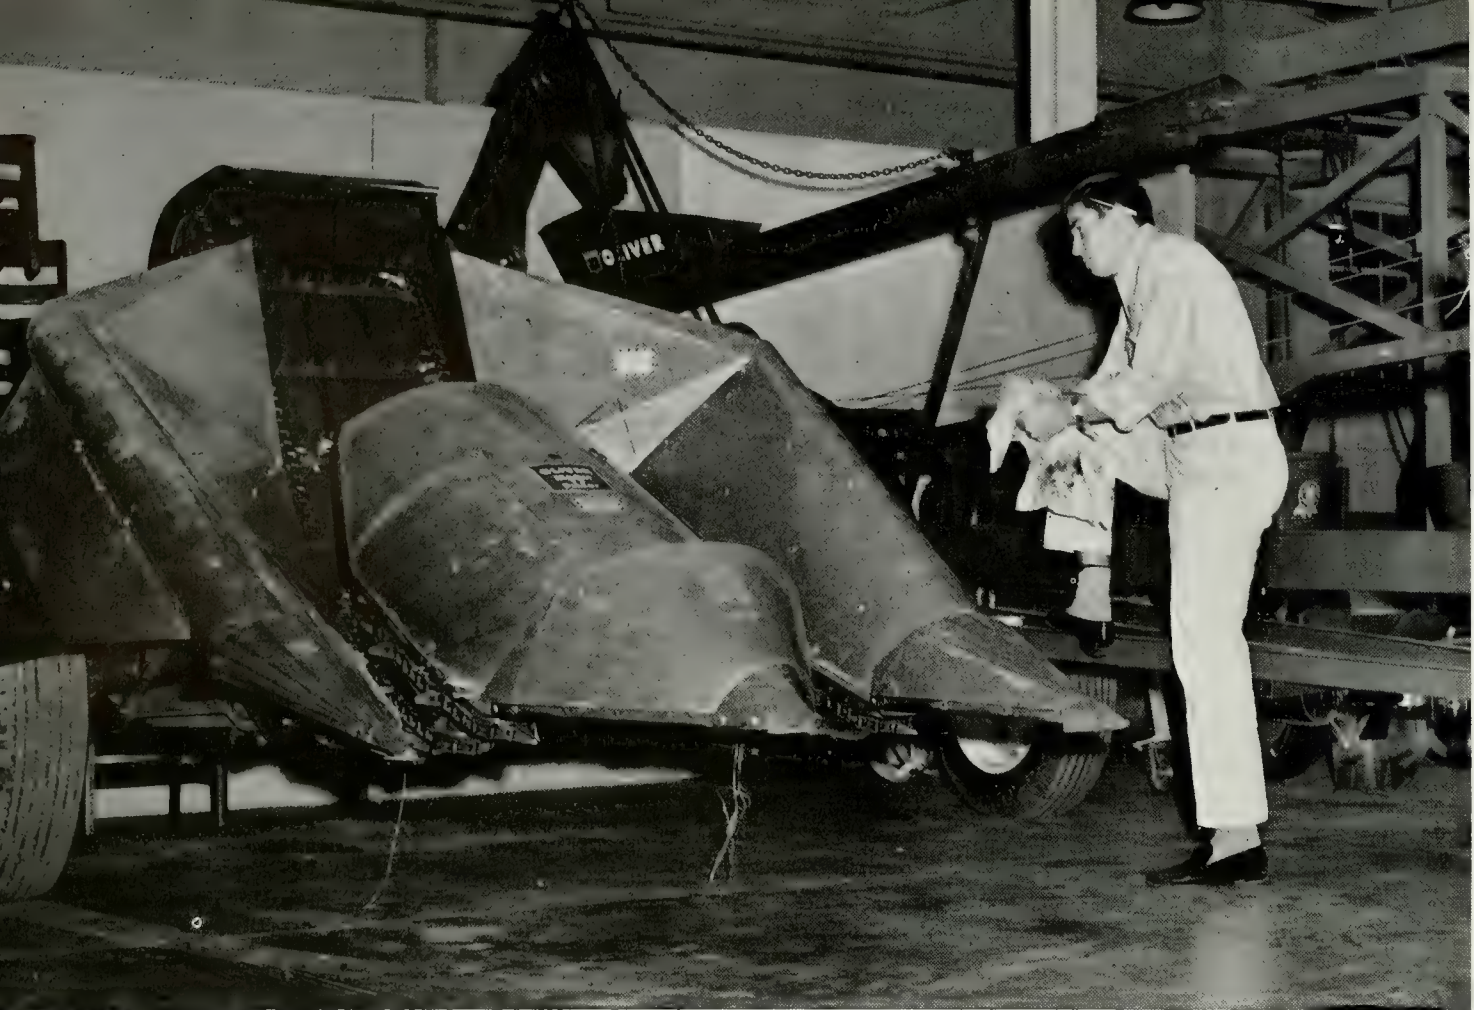

In anticipation of increased emphasis upon graduate study in space technology and industrial research, the Division of Engineering Sciences and the School of Aeronautical Engineering this year merged to form the School of Aeronautical and Engineering Sciences. In addition, an Aero-Space Sciences Laboratory has been established for graduate research. The combined faculty represents an extraordinary scope for theoretical and practical instruction. Above and beyond the former curriculum, the new program will introduce a study of the earth's environments through such subjects as meteorology.

H. M. DeGroff

The Heavilon Hall laboratories house several full-scale engine models which are used for both lecture and lab work.

By using advanced farm implements such as the automatic corn picker, agricultural engineering emphasizes progress.

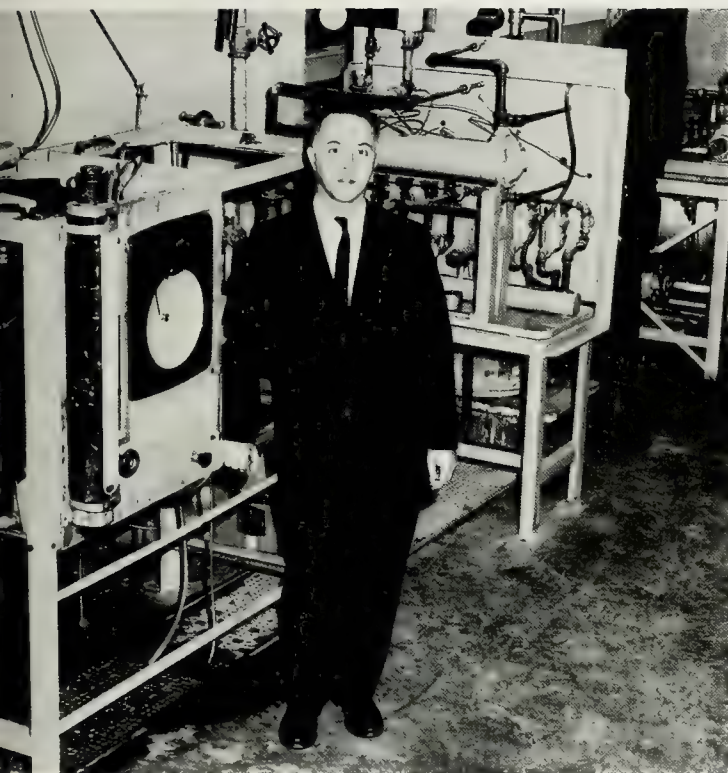

AGRICULTURAL ENGINEERING

The agricultural engineer has been a major factor in the development of America's modern farm system. His knowledge of mechanical power and equipment has contributed greatly to today's increased farm production, and his research in the areas of drainage, irrigation, erosion control, food processing, farm structures, and many other fields of research has advanced the position of farming to that of a science. Purdue's curriculum of agricultural engineering functions jointly with the Schools of Engineering and the School of Agriculture, and affords training as an engineer and agriculturist.

G. E. Spencer

CHEMICAL ENGINEERING

B. Goulding

Chemical engineers play an important part in many new and expanding industries. Consequently, chemical engineering is one of the fastest growing of all the branches of engineering. The chemical engineer is interested in the design and operation of chemical processes, rather than the study of small-scale chemical reactions, which is the concern of the chemist. A thorough knowledge of chemistry and its application, combined with study in economics, physics, and market and cost analysis opens many fields to the chemical engineer, such as production, sales engineering, and management.

Study of complete chemical manufacturing processes is performed in the lab with pilot-size equipment.

CIVIL ENGINEERING

Since it was one of the earliest types of engineering that developed, civil engineering is quite naturally a fundamental branch of this profession. Some areas in which the civil engineer is concerned are sanitation, transportation, materials, hydraulics, construction, architecture, surveying, and soil mechanics. All of these fields of application require both general and specialized training, along with considerable practical experience. Purdue civil engineers, whose education meets these requirements, are given emphasized economics instruction, as well as training in required technical subjects.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

T. F. Jones

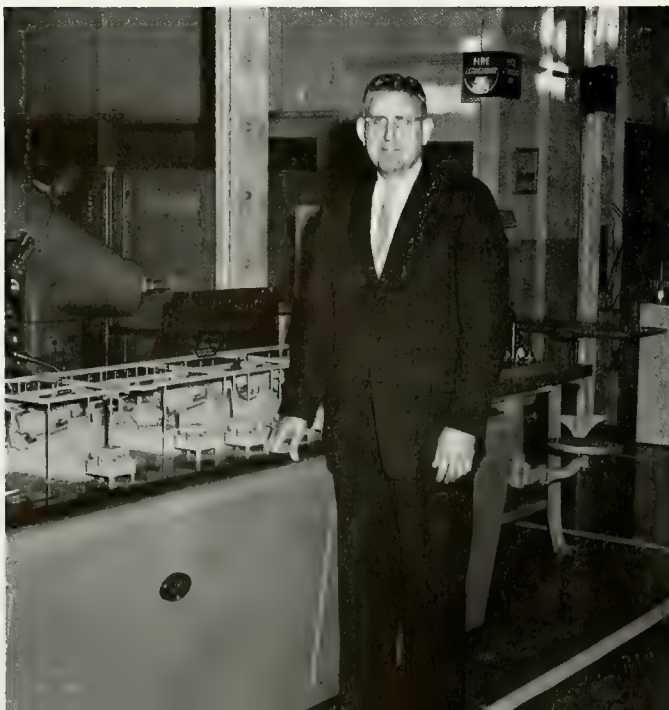

Electrical engineering is that branch of engineering technology which pertains to automatic control, electronics, communication, information processing, and the generation, distribution, and use of electric power. These general areas of application contain many sub-areas of specialization. It is clearly necessary for the successful electrical engineer to be versed in a specialized field as well as in the general field of electrical engineering. Since all major industries seek electrical engineers, Purdue's undergraduate curriculum places heavy emphasis on diversity of subjects to be studied.

An industrial engineer must know not only why, but also how processes are run on the production floor.

INDUSTRIAL ENGINEERING

H. T. Amrine

The complexity of modern industrial organization has necessitated the growth of a new phase of engineering. The industrial engineer is primarily concerned with production and the human and economic factors which affect production. The selection and layout of manufacturing equipment, the correct product design for optimum production, and design and installation of systems for product control represent general I. E. problems. To cope with this vast field, Purdue's four year course includes fundamentals in physics, chemistry and math and specialization in the junior and senior years.

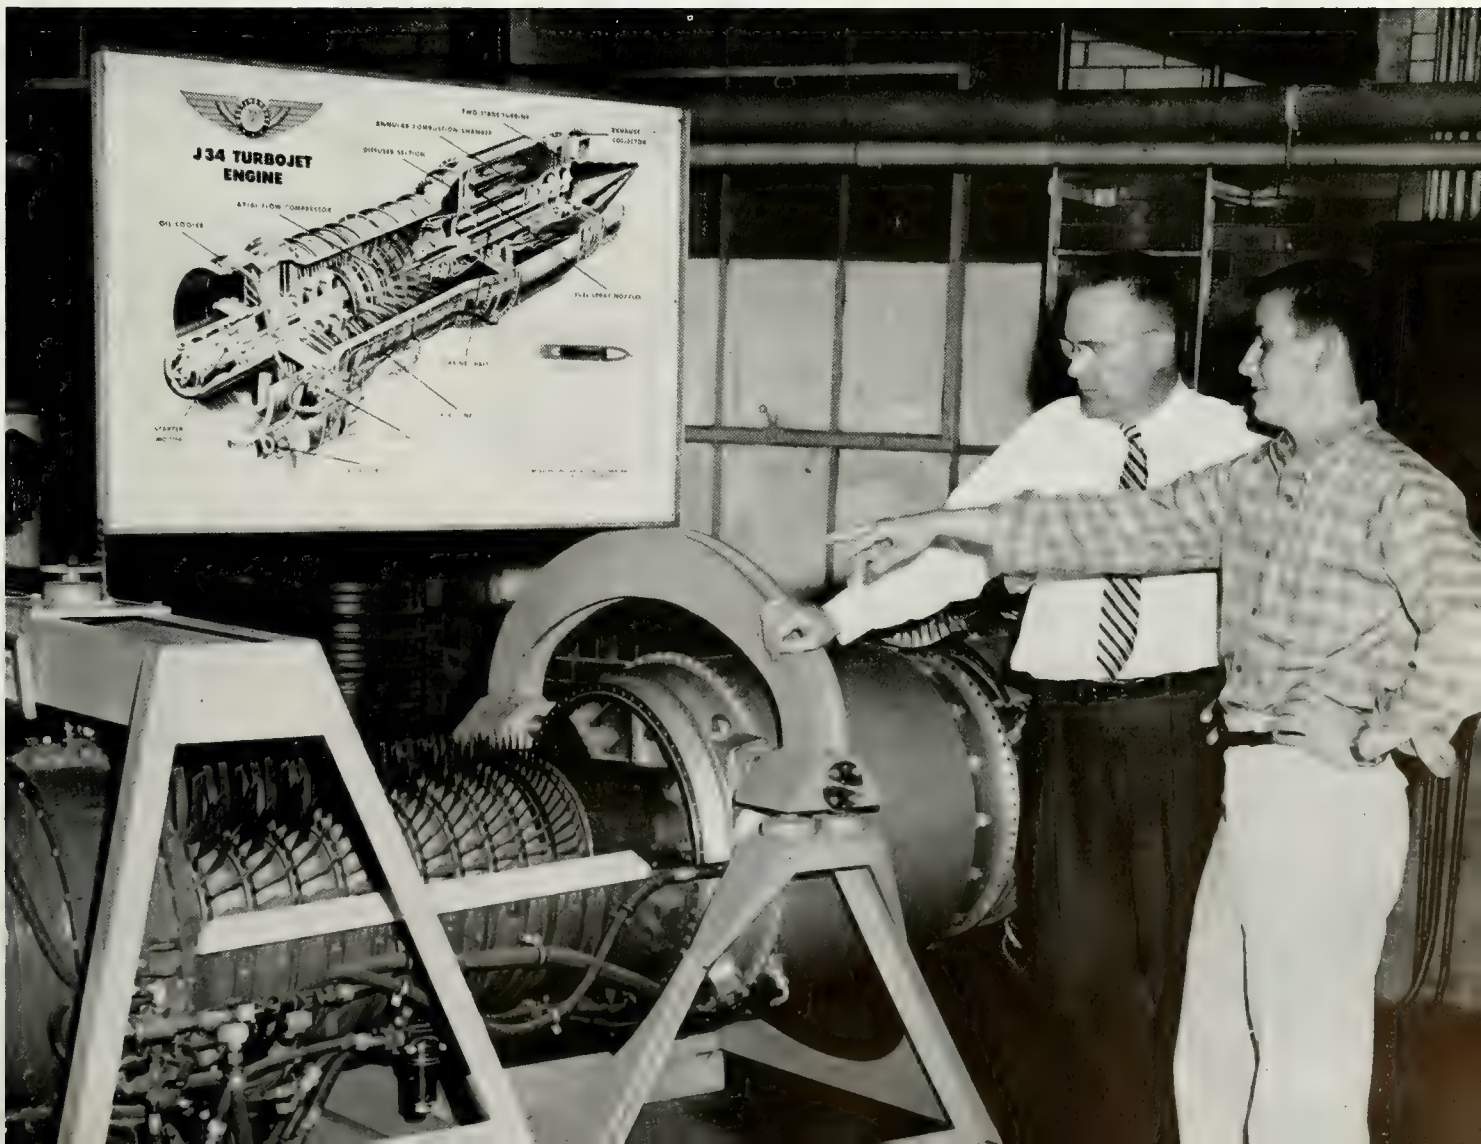

The largest single branch of engineering, mechanical engineering, occupies a position of extreme importance, both on campus and in industry. The ME curriculum at Purdue places emphasis in the areas of thermodynamics, heat transfer, fluid flow, stress analysis, vibrations, and control systems. Many mechanical engineers enter the field of management, while others work toward advanced degrees in their own areas of specialization. Purdue's school of Mechanical Engineering, whose faculty is composed of outstanding technical experts, is rated by authorities to be one of the finest in the nation.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

The unsolved problems of jet propulsion and thermal barriers pose a challenging study in the M. E. laboratories.

METALLURGICAL ENGINEERING

Isolation of the ore in its natural state is only one of the many steps to the final product.

R. Schuhmann, Jr.

Nature has separated metallurgical engineering into two functional divisions: extractive metallurgy and adaptive metallurgy. The extractive science is concerned with mining the raw ore and separating the pure metals from the impurities. Adaptive metallurgy then takes over and develops the pure metal to a particular use. Each year new metals such as tetanium, zirconium, uranium, and germanium undergo extensive research. Accordingly, the metallurgical engineering curriculum puts special emphasis on the physics and chemistry of the solid state and the adaptation of these sciences for tomorrow's growing technological needs.

AGRICULTURE

Agriculture today is an extremely broad field, which is illustrated by the many courses of study offered by Purdue's school of Agriculture. Students are trained for practical work as farm operators or managers, or for scientific work in such fields as animal science, botany, forestry, and horticulture. Managerial positions in agricultural businesses are often filled by agriculture graduates. In fact, agricultural courses fit men for a variety of jobs in educational, scientific, and commercial work in institutions and industries closely allied with agriculture and its applications.

E. L. Butz

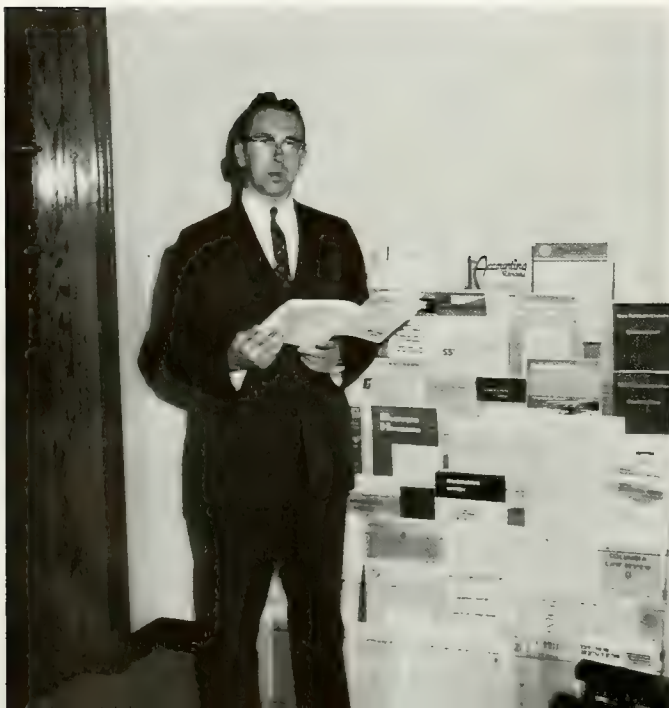

Differences of opinion on Industrial Management case problems are often argued long into the night.

INDUSTRIAL MANAGEMENT

E. T. Weiler

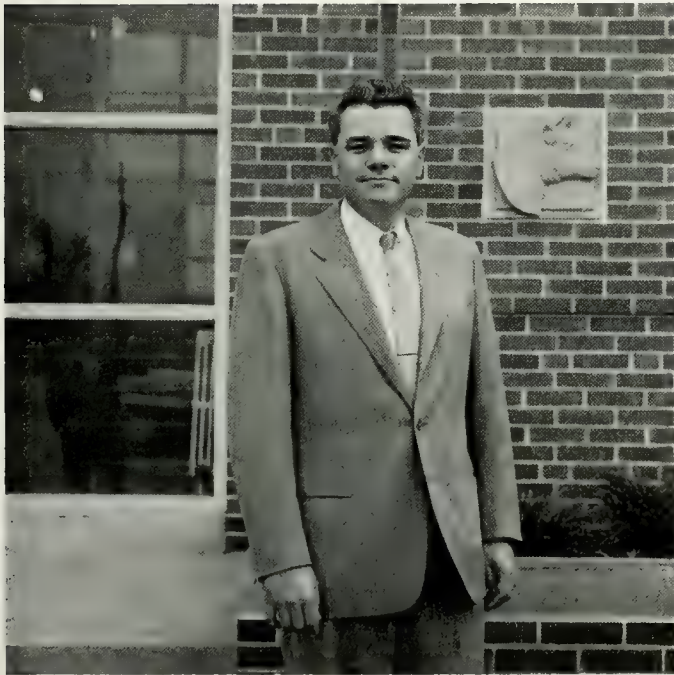

As modern society makes increasing use of technology, management must keep abreast both to handle its own job effectively and to be able to understand and cooperate with the technical specialist. Purdue, in its industrial management curriculum, offers the undergraduate the opportunity to avail himself of its excellent courses in science and technology, and thereby receive training necessary to be a modern, efficient manager. Composed of about one-fifth general studies, two-fifths technical courses, and two-fifths management courses, this program produces America's industrial leaders of tomorrow.

VETERINARY SCIENCE AND MEDICINE

A preliminary step in arriving at the diagnosis is a thorough physical examination of the patient.

Since the School of Veterinary Science and Medicine was created by an act of the Indiana General Assembly, more than five million dollars and three years of planning and construction have been dedicated to the promotion of Purdue's veterinary facilities and curriculum. Each year animal parasites and diseases claim a toll of nearly two and one-half billion dollars of the national livestock income. One of the many purposes of the new school is to provide research into the cause and prevention of these maladies. In this decade it is estimated that thirty thousand graduates will be urgently needed.

E. V. Morse

The field of home economics offers a variety of positions to both men and women. Since the scope of training in this new field is relatively broad, men and women graduates, alike, have an opportunity to initiate and develop new ideas in this field. As a result of the large demand for persons trained in the home economics field, graduates are able to choose from a number of positions, provided they are qualified. It is the aim of Purdue's School of Home Economics to qualify its graduates to become competent home economists in the fields of teaching, research, and home management.

B. V. Gillespie

Every student of sculpture enjoys a special satisfaction as creative work emerges from many hours of endeavor.

To one ten-thousandth of a gram, pharmaceutical measurements demand a high degree of precision.

PHARMACY

G. L. Jenkins

Pharmacy is the art and science of preparing, from natural and synthetic sources, suitable and convenient materials for use as drugs. Included also in this profession is the compounding and dispensing of drugs according to prescription, as well as many other operations with drugs, medicines, medicinal chemicals, and biological products. Purdue's school of Pharmacy requires a year's pre-pharmacy training in the school of Science, Education, and Humanities. The subsequent four-year program includes instruction geared to prepare the pharmacist for a position in the pharmaceutical profession or in industry, research, or teaching.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

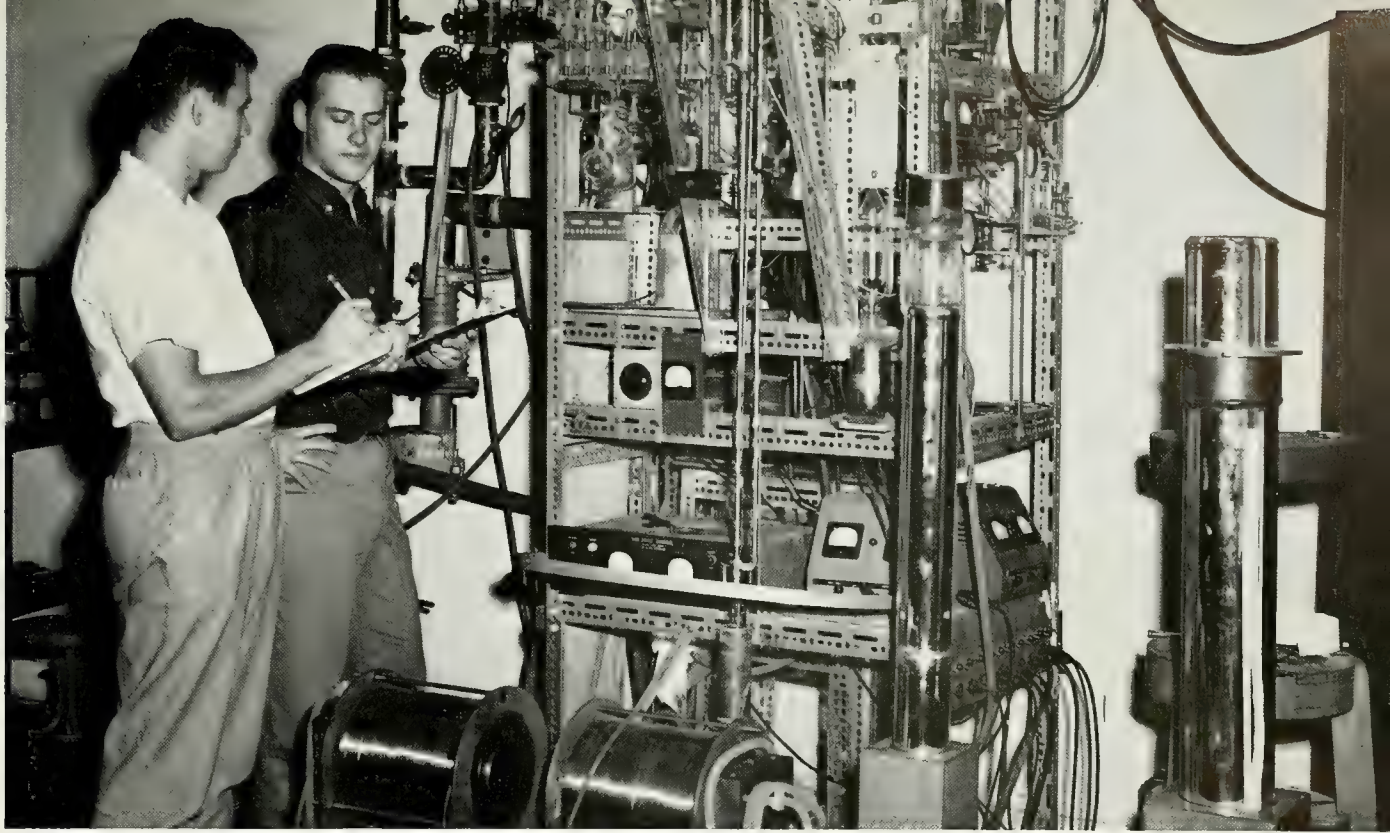

Perspiration finds its way to the brow of many, as practice is an integral phase of learning.

The Department of Physical Education for Men not only offers a curriculum composed of several options for those students who wish to major in and receive a degree in physical education, but it also offers a separate curriculum which leads to a Bachelor of Arts degree in recreation leadership. The Department of Physical Education for Women is one which offers courses to women in all schools. Major instruction lies in the areas of recreational leadership and personal hygiene. Both these departments help students to gain maximum personal development from systematic physical activity.

G. J. Mackey

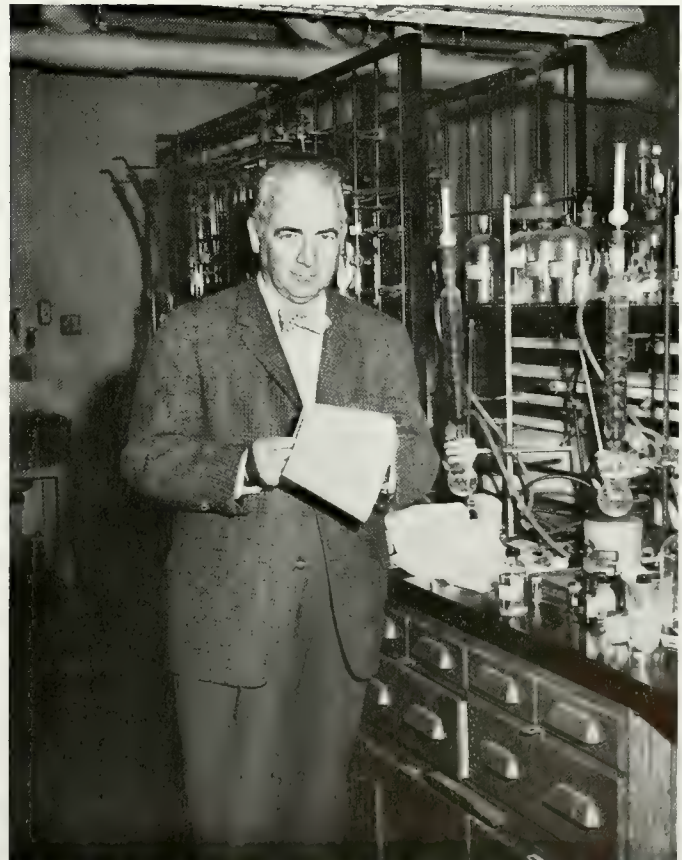

This project in the Physics lab lowers the temperature of a semi-conductor to a fraction of a degree above absolute zero.

SCIENCE, EDUCATION AND HUMANITIES

W. L. Ayres

Purdue's school of Science, Education and Humanities offers typical liberal arts opportunities which are often overshadowed by the University's fine reputation as a technical school. In the college of Science, Education and Humanities, for example, one may major in history, English, economics, or a score of other fields. Every freshman prepares for general education or for liberal arts. This basic approach opens the door toward careers in medicine, dentistry, law, and teaching as well as positions in industry, business, government services, and many phases of social work.

CAMPUS LIFE

Boy met girl, girl met boy, and then they listened to the popular Salty Dogs at the Freshman First Nighter.

Old and new fans put forth an enthusiastic cheer at the Green Guard picnic.

ORIENTATION WEEK

To introduce the freshmen to life on campus, Purdue sponsored Orientation Week. Through convocations, panel discussions, and more informal gatherings such as the freshman picnic, First Nighter, and Green Guard Picnic, doubts were erased, questions were answered, and friendships were established. The Block P section gave new students their first taste of activities and Big Ten sports enthusiasm. In this week climaxed by talks by the Deans of Men and Women and President's Convocation, the freshmen came to feel at home in the start of their four-year journey through Purdue.

As the panel faced questions from newcomers, the frequent query was, "Why the beard, Mr. Senior?"

Young men who only want to mee—er, help, come to the aid of many a new girl moving into the dorms.

Upperclassmen, showing most suave and sophisticated manners, set examples for the freshmen.

Three lost souls, new to Purdue, stand on the corner appealing for help to find that next meeting.

Seniors climb aboard the Special, oblivious to Freshmen waiting to "get those derbies!"

Cord Day, celebrated with the coming of the first football game of the season, is a particularly exciting and colorful occasion, especially for the seniors. Suddenly the stadium is alive with bright yellow cords decorated in all sorts of colors, black derbies, canes, and bristling beards. Many an unsuspecting upperclassman, while parading around the field, is the target of some ambitious freshman. Climaxing this event is the Senior Cord Dance where trophies are given for the best beard, the most artistically decorated cords, and for the school with the largest per cent representation in the Parade.

CORD DAY

Freshmen pots on a waving cane, painted cords, derbies, and a colorful float symbolize that day long awaited by Seniors.

Dad's Day, a time eagerly awaited by both the fathers and the offspring, was more fun than ever in 1960. Dads were enthusiastically escorted on tours of the campus by their children, taken to the pep rally, or perhaps to Smith Hall for some ice cream prior to the game. After the exciting game, a trip to the student housing unit for refreshments and relaxation was needed. Later in the evening, the Victory Varieties show enticed father and children alike. Parties after hours and talk into the early morning concluded a rigorous, but enjoyable, once-a-year experience for the Dads.

DAD'S DAY

After an exciting game, time out to relax is needed by both Dads and offspring.

Purdue's Block P salutes the visiting dads with a greeting prior to the game.

Dad and Mother enjoy both refreshments and some friendly chatter at an open house after the game.

Many Homecoming displays included sound effects which further enticed passers-by to stop for an admiring look.

Homecoming festivities attract grads

Connie Heath looks a bit surprised as the loud speaker announces that she has been chosen queen.

Under the sign of their year, many alums meet old friends and also several new ones.

As the alumni return for Homecoming, they anticipate a weekend full of activities and renewing friendships. The pep parade, Homecoming signs, and the football game festivities bring back memories of not-far-distant college fun. After the game, old friends meet and reminisce on the football field and at open houses in their old residences. Seeing old friends, watching an exciting football game and the crowning of a lovely queen, attending an outstanding show in the Music Hall, and viewing the new developments at ever-changing Purdue all add up to a busy weekend.

Phi Gams, past and present, enjoy coffee and doughnuts at an open house after the game.

Old Masters bring experience to Purdue

Now in its eleventh year, the Old Masters Program at Purdue has grown both in size and student interest. The Old Masters, many of whom are Purdue alumnae, are nominated and selected by a board of students and faculty. Representing outstanding achievement in such fields as business, journalism, politics, and diplomacy, the Old Masters spend three days at Purdue. During this time students are given the opportunity to meet successful people who can impart to them the wisdom gained from their past experiences. Escorted by hosts and hostesses chosen from the Student Body, these prominent men and women visit campus housing units for informal group discussions. Each Old Master answers philosophical questions to challenge and stimulate the students to form their own values and views on important issues, and uses his own experience for illustration, application, and further development of the topic. Purdue is proud of their unique and rewarding position as the only school with the Old Masters Program.

The 1960 Old Masters were:

General and Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel Biddle: he is Adjutant General of the Pennsylvania National Guard and she is Chairman of the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services.

Carl F. Boester: Single family housing consultant. Brigadier General Paul S. Emrick: USAF, Deputy Director of the Net Evaluation Subcommittee, National Security Council, Washington, D.C.

William K. Frankena: Head of the Philosophy Department at the University of Michigan.

Herbert A. Harrington: President of Development Consultants, Inc., in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Wilson Hicks: past Executive Editor of Life Magazine and presently Lecturer in the Department of Journalism, University of Miami in Florida.

Mrs. Oscar M. Ruebhausen: Chairman of Women's Africa Committee and UN observer for that committee.

John Henry Stibbs: Dean of Students and Professor of English, Tulane University.

At a reception held in the Union, students talked informally with Old Masters.

Interested young people questioned the Old Masters about success formulas.

MILITARY BALL

Congratulations were given and received at the reception for the Scabbard and Blade pledges.

The Military Ball, given in honor of the ROTC units on campus, appropriately fell on Armistice Day this year. Opening the winter formal season at Purdue, the dance was planned well in advance by industrious workers to insure its success. The guests enjoyed the dancable music of Skitch Henderson and his orchestra in the ballrooms while Dixieland fans cheered Purdue's own Salty Dogs downstairs. By tradition, the Scabbard and Blade pledges were presented and "kissed in" by their dates prior to leading the Grand March through the arch of sabers, a fitting climax to the dance.

The high point of the Military Ball, the Grand March, is enjoyed by ROTC officers and their charming guests.

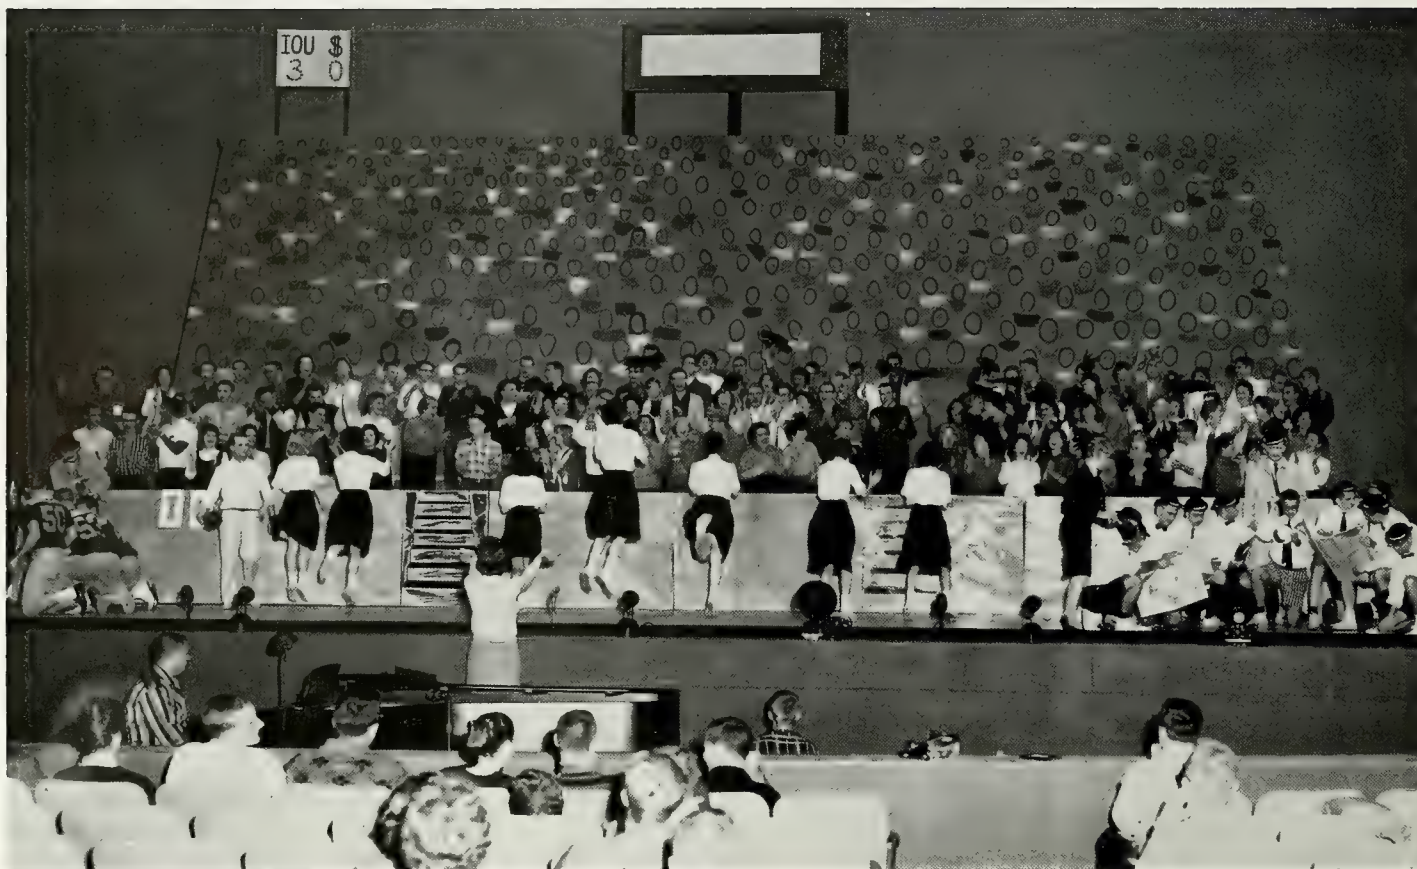

The Salty Dogs, Purdue Dixieland jazz group, provided entertainment downstairs in a cafe atmosphere.

Skitch Henderson, band leader and television personality signs autographs for admiring fans.

Many new acquaintances are made around the punch bowl at the reception preceding the Ball.

"Football Game" comes to the Hall of Music with South X and H-3 showing the audience a "ball" of fun.

"Symphony Boombastic," by Sue Worner and Sheryl Wornock kept the audience in an uproar.

The Oxmen, the popular Theta Chi trio, provided Olio music in their exuberant style.

VARSITY VARIETIES

Starting the Purdue-Indiana football weekend in an exciting manner in 1960 was the presentation of Varsity Varieties, the all campus talent show. V² featured various housing units collaborating to give skits centered around currently popular topics of campus interest. Since the show is written and produced by students, it is a good index to the originality of the student body. Olio acts, showing a variety of talent from pantomime to harp playing are interspersed in the evening's program. Climaxing the show was the crowning of the Debris queen and presentation of her court.

Confusion reigns backstage as the TKEs and the girls of North X prepare the Smith Brothers for the public.

Wally Pehlan, versatile Master of Ceremonies, leads the audience in applause for an entertaining act.

On stage, fright vanishes and smiles appear as the Indian maidens stand poised for their song.

Christmas presents many thrilling scenes such as the trees near the Executive Building to wide-eyed youngsters.

Student Union workers diligently array offices with ornaments and lights, announcing the Yuletide.

The cheery spirit of Christmas spreads throughout Purdue as the enormous and lavishly decorated tree appears in the Union, while smaller versions are found all over campus. Enthusiastic students prepare for the season with caroling, dances, children's parties, the Christmas convocation, and last minute shopping for family and friends. Faculty-student relationships are at their peak during this time of "peace on earth, good will toward men." Despite all the last minute hourlies, everyone dons a holiday mood and anxiously awaits that special day when the two week vacation begins.

"Deck the Halls" is the theme of these students as they help at the Union Decorating Party.

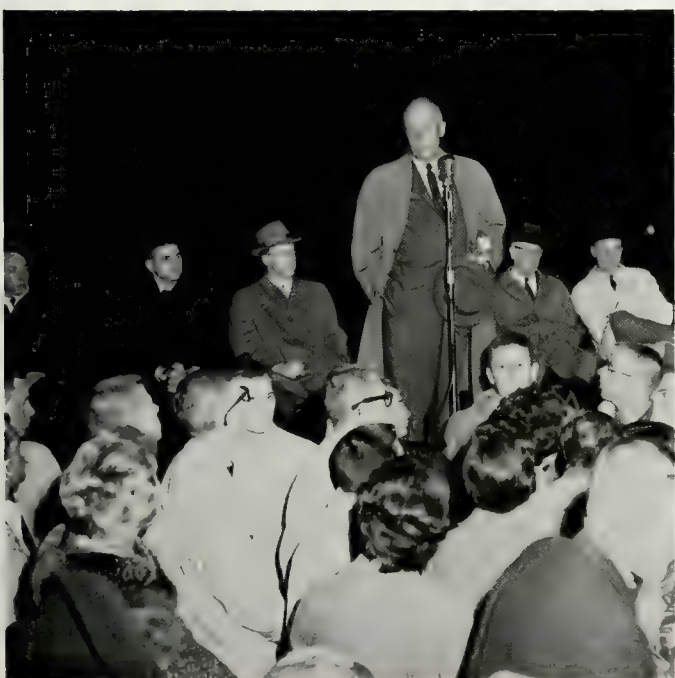

Anticipation of the exciting Christmas morning beams on the faces of children as they talk with Santa.

Christmas brings campus holiday cheer

Christmas isn't complete without a gaily decorated tree, according to these Alpha Chi Rhos.

The Christmas season officially opens with the tree-lighting ceremony by President Hovde.

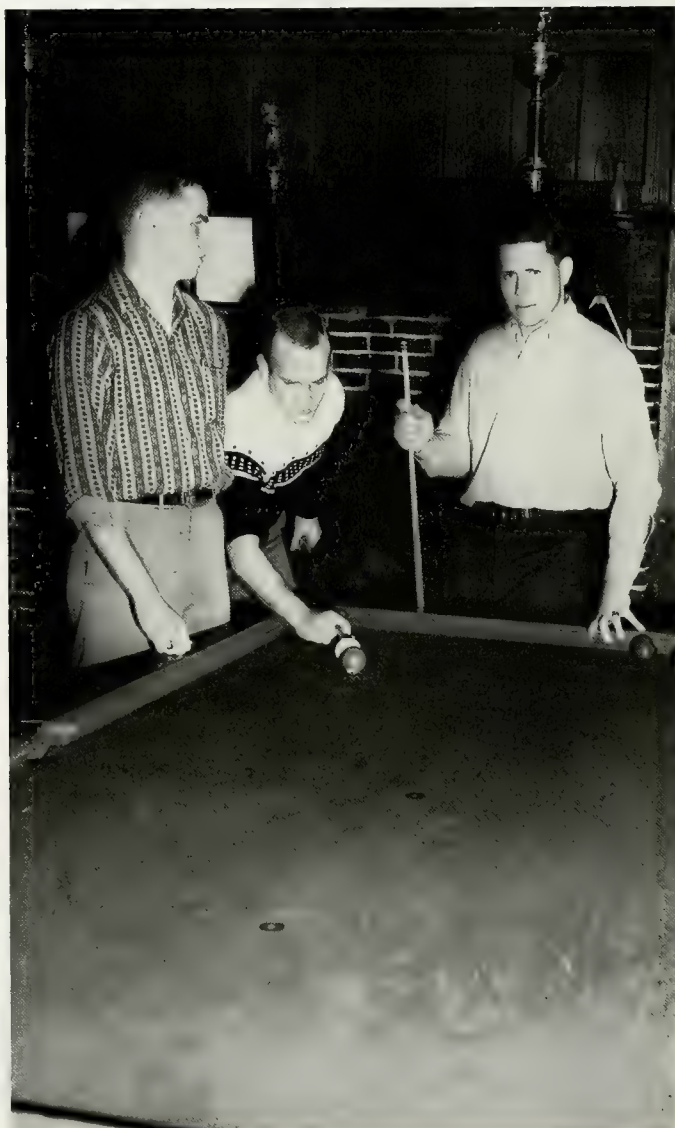

FORMAL RUSH

Sigs Eps show rushees the "scrub bucket" — modern version of the Old Oaken Bucket.

Rush is probably one of the busiest times of the year on a college campus, and one of the most exciting. This is the time when fraternities and sororities endeavor to present the various aspects of Hellenic life to those going through Purdue's rush program. It gives rushers and rushees alike the chance to get to know each other so that each may make a wise decision at the time of pledging. For the girls this includes coke, suit, and preference dessert parties while for the boys it means smokers and rush dinners. Rushing is truly the lifeblood of the fraternity and sorority system.

A rushee's keen marksmanship impresses actives as they engage in a friendly game of pool.

Elaborate decorations and charming entertainment characterize formal rush suit parties.

It is a well-known fact that women love to talk; this is plainly seen during rush parties.

On the first day of pledging, pledges are always anxious to learn more about the house.

Men reap many pleasures from Atom Week

First the plans must be made to the last detail . . . the big moment is here . . . but, fellows this is serious!

Many a campus male looks forward to the pleasure, or perhaps revenge, which comes to them with the advent of ATOM (aid to our men) Week. During this time, AWS encourages all the campus ladies to repay their gentlemen friends for the special attentions they have received throughout the year. Free trips to the Sweet Shop and movies were in order during this turnabout week which was climaxed by the Goldiggers' Ball. The lucky fellows, after being presented with dinner and a corsage, travel to the ball to see the king of the Goldiggers honored with all the festivities of a coronation.

Charm and grace radiate from this oversized Roman lovely in the Kappa Sigma Golddigger skit.

Bob Griffiths and his skitting partners enjoy a cup of "Lucky Seven" tea while admiring the Goldiggers' King trophy.

Greeks devote week end to fellowship

Looks of indecision indicate a perplexing question up for discussion by Greeks conferring at the Phi Gam house.

From the time of trade dinners and discussions to the formal dance, Greek Weekend was devoted to the promotion of Greek unity. At exchange dinners, the fraternity and sorority members met and chatted with many other Greeks. The charity projects participated in by all the pledge classes at Columbia Park, Wabash Children's Home, helped the less fortunate and also gave the new Greeks a chance to get better acquainted. The weekend was climaxed by the Greek Week banquet and ball during which the annual awards to the outstanding campus independents were presented.

Those attending the Greek Week banquet meet formally and discuss problems inherent to group living.

Swinging to the music of Richard Maltby's band, couples enjoy the principal event of Greek Week.

Greek unity is promoted through trade dinners which provide interesting and entertaining topics for discussion.

The Easter Bunny brings joy to the hearts of these underprivileged children—and goodies too.

PURDUE PLAYSHOP

The Purdue Playshop presents an interesting evening of student-produced entertainment to the campus.

During a school year, Purdue Playshop, through the co-operative work of interested students and the theatre staff, presents a variety of plays for the student body and townspeople. In the Loeb Playhouse the major productions are presented. These include everything from a drama such as "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" to the hilarious British musical comedy, "The Boy Friend." Downstairs in the Experimental Theatre new ideas in staging are shown and a special production is given each December for children. Playshoppers themselves enjoy the fellowship of the Green Room while preparing productions for presentation.

An early twentieth century comedy was presented to Playshop audiences in an amusing manner in "Life with Father."

Inticing Maggie the Cat tempts both Bret and the audience in "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

"Endgame," given in the experimental theater, featured some unusual people and props.

Intrigued by a gingerbread house, Hansel and Gretel meet a wicked witch in the Children's Play.

Peter Palmer appeared to enjoy the enthusiasm of the crowd as they responded to his merry-making.

Sharon Ricks, Prom Queen of 1960, happily receives her crown, trophy, and bouquet of flowers.

The Grand March, led by the Junior class officers and the queen was, as usual, confusing and fun.

Many happy couples enjoy listening and dancing to the music of Peter Palmer and his orchestra.

Heaven and Underworld thrill prom-goers

An unusual and colorful theme was chosen for this year's Junior Prom, "Ciel et Infer." Upstairs, in the ballrooms, Peter Palmer played soft, heavenly strains amid clouds and stars, while downstairs Ahmad Jamal wailed his rhythm in the fiery atmosphere of the Underworld. All the dancers found this striking contrast very enjoyable. This main social event of the Spring was highlighted with the choosing of the queen, Sharon Ricks, who was selected by those attending. Her crowning by the Junior Class President and the following Grand March served as an impressive climax to the dance.

Time out for relaxation of feet and mind are taken by many couples in the Sweet Shop.

Ahmad Jamal, well-known jazz artist, and his combo provided the excellent featured entertainment.

GALA WEEK

Gala Week gives old graduates the opportunity to congregate in the Union and talk over old times.

A remembered humorous incident brings a smile and a sparkle to alums gathered for a chat.

Gala Week, an annual event at Purdue, brought back many old memories for the alumni who have graduated in years past. Many had not seen the campus for several years, so the main attractions for them were changes and developments at Purdue; the most recent addition is the beautiful fountain situated in front of the Executive Building. Class reunions were held as well as parades, receptions, a water show, and the traditional placing of a wreath on John Purdue's grave. A loyalty dinner was also given in honor of the class of 1935.

Despite adverse weather, a wreath is traditionally placed on the grave of John Purdue as a part of Gala Week.

Grand Prix features skill and competition

As the big moment approaches and the crowd begins to gather, the go-carts receive a last minute check.

Chauncey Co-op, speeding over the grueling course, earned top position in the 1960 Grand Prix.

Each year the Grand Prix, which is patterned after France's Grand Prix race, is held on campus with the course laid out around the Mall in true sports car fashion. Braking, top speed, acceleration, handling and just plain endurance are demanded of each machine. The go-carts are well matched since each entry is required to conform to standard regulations. As race time draws near, the action in the pits and the tension of the various crews mounts. Weeks of hard work and late hours are rewarded when the cars take off on their first lap. The final outcome is any man's guess.

The participants line up amid the cheers of the crowd and the click of cameras — then they're off!

While awaiting the results of University Sing, mothers socialize at Mother's Day Teas.

Mothers thrill to parties and sing contest

Mothers find that soaking up culture in the Bookstall is a way for students to spend leisure time.

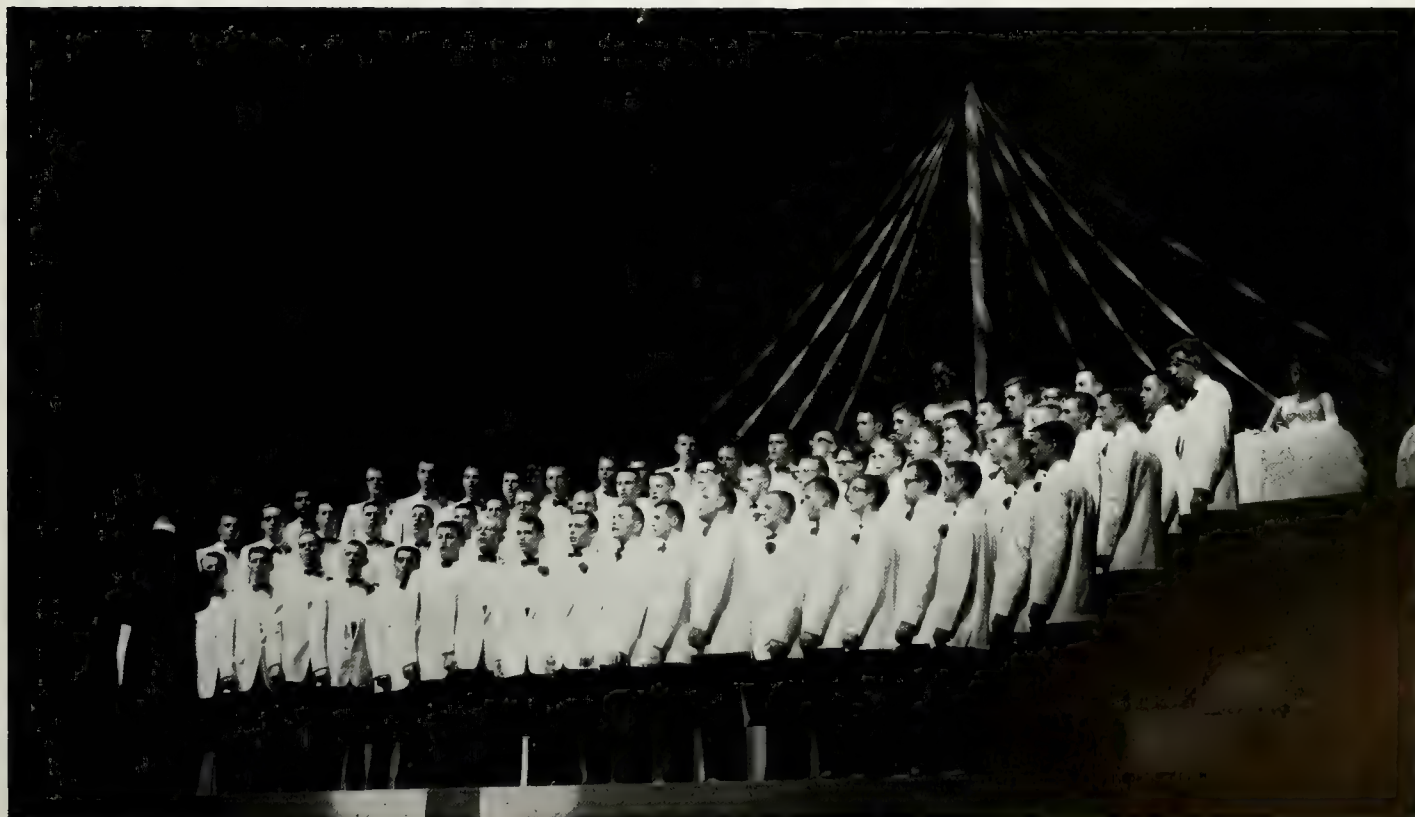

Mother's Day weekend at Purdue is a busy and exciting time for both mothers and students. Upon arrival, the mothers are greeted by their offspring and swept off for a tour of the campus, the University Sing preliminaries, and a Union reception. Later, after the excitement of the evening sing was calmed, the mothers were treated to a long but stimulating evening (or morning) with food, new acquaintances, perhaps a serenade or two, and fun living in a hall, sorority or fraternity for a weekend. Tired, but thoroughly entertained, they returned home to recover from a "college weekend."

The winner of the female division of University Sing, Pi Beta Phi, was selected from the five afternoon finalists.

After a second place award in 1959, the men of Pi Kappa Phi took first place honors in the 1960 University Sing.

Graduation climaxes four year adventure

Commencement, that extra-special occasion anticipated by all Seniors, calls for many preparations.

Raising a family and gaining a degree at the same time is a feat successfully achieved by Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hebestreet.

A most impressive sight is the graduation processional which encircles the fountain and leads up to the Exec Building.

William Leber proudly accepts from President Hovde the award for most outstanding senior man of 1960.

After four years of hard work, sweat, and more than a little anxiety, Senior Week and Graduation arrive. Glad to have finished their course work, Seniors prepare for their commencement and a start in a world full of challenge and competition. The realization that Purdue, with its experiences in social living and group and scholastic work, has helped to insure a more successful future, is satisfying to all Seniors, but they are a bit melancholy at leaving the Sweet Shop, Hall of Music, reflection pool, the "wall" and all the friends that have been an integral part of their lives for four years.

Each year at University Sing a May Queen is selected. From a court of Senior girls outstanding in scholarship, activities, and leadership chosen by the deans, the students vote to choose their May Queen. During the Sing the Queen and her court enjoy all the performances from places of honor on the stage. Selected for this outstanding honor was Marg Hildreth, Portland, Maine's contribution to the Purdue student body. A member of Gold Peppers and Mortar Board, Marg was very active in such activities as Old Masters, WRA, the Lafayette Swim Club, and Phi Mu sorority.

An outdoors enthusiast, Marg always looks forward to the coming of spring sunbathing weather.

DEBRIS Queen crowned at Victory Varieties

Moments of suspense . . . the announcement . . . rounds of applause . . . Sandy Curran was crowned 1961 DEBRIS queen and given a silver tray by Ron Falk. Candidates from each housing unit were voted on by the campus, and a committee of judges selected the queen from a court of five. The queen and her court were presented during intermission at Varsity Varieties. A sophomore chemistry major, Sandy represented Kappa Kappa Gamma. She lists water skiing, traveling, and horseback riding as some of her hobbies. She is treasurer of the Sophomore Class, a member of Angel Flight, Student Union, and Junior Panhellenic.

STUDENT UNION

Among the many activities on campus, one of the most outstanding is the Student Union. The primary function of this group is to supervise activities occurring in the Memorial Center and the Memorial Union Building. The staff of the Student Union is composed of a Senior Board, with its function being to co-ordinate the ideas and efforts of the Junior Board. Along with the supervision of many of the student activities on campus, the Student Union also sponsors a variety of enjoyable events such as the Fall Activities Carnival which helps students to become more familiar with Purdue and the numerous opportunities offered by the University. The Student Union draws to the students' attention, through exhibitions and other programs, the many facilities that the Memorial Union and Memorial Center Building contain and demonstrates how they can best be utilized for educational purposes.

The workshop workers paint diligently on this backdrop to finish it for the Air Force Ball.

The Student Union office and workshop are busy throughout the year, carrying out their many responsibilities. They do various services from sponsoring stage shows and convocations to making backdrops and decorating for Cabaret and other dances, held in the Memorial Union Ballrooms.

The office is flocked with vigorous workers as the year's schedule for activities is carried out.

It's Friday at the Student Union office as the Junior-Board slaves away, but where are the Seniors?

Union has a busy season

A good example of decorating is pictured below. This thirty-foot Christmas tree, which stood inside the entrance of the Memorial Union, was decorated by Student Union. They also sponsored several Bridge Club tournaments and the pep rallies which were held during the football season.

To add beauty and fragrance to the Christmas season, this huge pine tree was erected and decorated.

During pep rallies before football games, pep signs were judged and awarded trophies.

Members of the Duplicate Bridge Club study their hands intently before a decisive play.

Union Exhibits Wonderful

Congratulations are extended to the senior woman chosen as the University's 1960 May Queen.

Sigma Chi performs "Ride the Chariot" in the finals of University Sing sponsored by the Union.

One of the largest programs of the college year, sponsored by Student Union, is the "University Sing." Different housing units on campus compete for the honor of having the best men and women's vocal group of the year. At the same time, the Universities' May Queen is crowned by the Student Union President and the May Queen Court is presented to the audience. All this takes place during Mothers' Day weekend. Besides this, many other functions throughout the day are presented for the mothers of the Universities' students by the Student Union including the preliminary tryouts for the U-Sing show and a reception in the main lounge of the Union.

Entertainment

During the year, Student Union presents for the enjoyment of the campus and its visitors, the "Varsity Varieties" stage show. This show is presented only after many long hours of practice and consists solely of talent from the students. It is organized and directed entirely through the efforts of the Student Union staff and workers. Also sponsored by the Student Union are educational functions, such as the "Books and Coffee" hour sponsored in conjunction with the English and Speech Department during the spring of the year. One can also find that his interests may be furthered by joining a club like the "Aeromodelers" Club or many other clubs throughout the campus which the Union sponsors for student enjoyment.

Hoping that it will fly, these two "Aeromodelers" piece together a radio control model plane.

Even the Indians get into the act as John Smith is saved again in Varsity Varieties.

To keep the show lively between acts of the Varsity Varieties, the "Chanticleers" trio performed.

During "Books and Coffee", Professor Tillson reviews "The Long Season", a book on major-league baseball.

OFFICE OF STUDENT SERVICES

Pat Smith, Treasurer

Ron Eyer, Evaluation and Development

H. J. Shackleton, Business Manager

Jeri Paskins, Personnel

The Office of Student Services, the administrative branch of Purdue's Student Government, offers services for students, promotes activities, and carries out the policies of the Student Government. Leadership training, scholarship files, elective course files, and study guide pamphlets are projects of O. S. S. To promote activities, the Office of Student Services makes information available to the students about the activities and organizations on campus. A pamphlet entitled "How to Petition for Campus Activities" has been published. The Orientation Panels and the Activity Head's List are a part of this program, in addition to a petition file and a personal activity file that is kept on every student. The work of the O.S.S. is supervised by an office Director and Senior Executive Board of five members. Serving as chairman for each project and committee are the members of the Junior Board.

Junior Board: Jim McCoy, Jim Benoit, George Williamson, June McHenry.

Officers: Wendell Boesch, Speaker of the Senate; Sally Runk, Secretary; Bob Veatch, Student Body President.

STUDENT BODY OFFICERS

Bob Veatch, Student Body President

The officers of Purdue's Student Government are, in general, responsible for supervising the different branches of the Student Government, whose actions they regulate and co-ordinate. More specifically, the duties of the Student Body President include presiding over the Student Senate and forming its legislative program, as well as executing its legislation and policies. The Speaker of the Senate acts as legislative assistant to the President. The Secretary of the Student Body is responsible for carrying out the work of the Senate, as directed by the President of the Student Body. On March 15th the Student Senate passed a new constitution which provided many changes in the organization of the Student Government. It established new powers, vested in the Student Body President, and set up new proceedings for impeachment and selection of justices. Probably the most significant and controversial change, however, was made in the legislative section, where student representation in the Senate was completely reapportioned.

The Purdue Student Senate, along with the Office of Student Services, comprises the student government of the University. Membership in the Student Senate consists of the heads of all major campus activities, the Student Body officers, and three Senators-at-Large, who are elected annually. This body acts as an agency for presenting student opinion, serves as an appellate agency for student problems, promotes such programs as Campus Chest, Old Masters, and Student Health Insurance, aids in the co-ordination of student activities, and acts to promote the general welfare of the Student Body.

Senators-at-large: Bob Reuss, Carol Mrva, Steve Ryner.

STUDENT COURT

Jon Nelson, Chief Justice

The Student Court is composed of four senior justices, four junior justices, three secretaries, and three public defenders. The Chief Justice presides at all sessions, while the Public Defenders coordinate the court and the student body. They do the majority of the investigation work, contacting both the student, as well as any authorities involved, before presenting each case. The court meets twice weekly, ruling on a variety of disciplinary cases, such as misuse of student passports, and traffic violations including improper auto registration and stickers. No faculty member sits in on a court session, although the court does have advisors from the Deans' offices. This year the court moved from the Biology Annex to a new office in the Union Building.

Campus Chest, Purdue's single solicited charity drive, is sponsored annually by the Office of Student Services, as specified in the Student Government By-Laws. The drive is directed by the Coordinating Board which consists of six members: the general chairman, secretary, treasurer, and education, publicity, and activities chairmen. Committee members are selected through petitions and interviews. The duties of the Board include conducting the Campus Chest, conducting a publicity campaign on behalf of the charities represented by Campus Chest, and administering the funds collected in the Campus Chest drive. On behalf of Campus Chest, Alpha Phi Omega sponsored UMOG, the contest to select the "Ugliest" Man on Campus. Other events included in this year's drive were the Auction Benefit, Tag Day, and Turtle Derby.

The Associated Women Students, one of the largest organizations on the campus, is comprised of all undergraduate coeds attending the University. In this organization, Purdue women formulate the policies under which they operate. Representatives of each women's housing unit meet weekly to discuss and analyze policies and general campus affairs. This organization necessarily works in close co-operation with the Office of the Dean of Women. Such programs as Green Guard, Turn-About Week, Gold-digger's Ball, and the A.W.S. Handbook for freshmen are sponsored by the Associated Women Students.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

Judy Schrader, President

Providing opportunities for leadership, discussions, fellowship, and service, YWCA membership is available to all interested Christian women. Social service projects this year included supporting a child in Greece, making items for the speech therapy clinic, and assisting in Girl Scout, Brownie, and Y-Teen groups in the Lafayette area. Non-denominational vespers were offered before religious holidays, and Coffee Talks featured subjects of current student concern. To raise money for these projects, members sold bulletin boards, mums at football games, and corsages on Mother's Day.

Arranging the intramural sports program for women is the primary responsibility of the Women's Recreational Association. Governed by a Council chosen in the annual election open to all of the more than 1000 members, WRA meets twice monthly and sponsors Indiana Sportsday and the WRA banquet held in the late spring. In addition to selecting members for Sportswomen honorary and the most outstanding senior woman each year, WRA awards trophies at the campus Sports spread to the housing units winning the various sponsored sports and to the unit which compiles the most participation points for the year.

The Interfraternity Council, with its Executive Committee, Presidents' Council, and the Judicial Board, is an organization which promotes and maintains the ideals of the fraternity system on campus. Once a year, the IFC publishes a booklet explaining the functions and purposes of Purdue's fraternities. The Council has organized a system of rush counseling dealing with the problems of fraternity rush and advises rushees. It is the job of the IFC to act as a liaison among the various fraternities and to serve as a spokesman for the fraternities as a unified group concerning campus activities, programs, and policies.

Dennis Hykes, President

On the second floor of the Memorial Union is located the office of the Interfraternity Council. Here, one will find the IFC rendering their many services such as typing and mimeographing for all the fraternities. Each year an annual report is submitted to the faculty to help further fraternity relations with the University. To gain more knowledge toward advancing the fraternities on Purdue's campus, delegates from IFC attend special meetings such as the National IFC Convention and the Big Ten IFC Convention. Also, bi-weekly Presidents' Council and annual house officer retreat meetings are held so that fraternities may have a chance to discuss their problems and suggest any ideas that can be of credit to the fraternity system.

JIFC Officers: Tom Gerber, Jim Bush, Niles Bruno.

Since the beginning of its organization nine years ago, the Junior Interfraternity Council has been active in promoting good pledge class and University relations. It is composed of the pledge class presidents from all the fraternities, in order that they may aid each other in working out fraternity pledge problems. Throughout the school year, JIFC assists in many projects such as the Heart Fund drive, the Cancer Fund drive, and the University Christmas Tree Lighting Ceremony. By doing such things as these, JIFC has benefited the University and community as well as its own members.

Organizing and co-ordinating a new Formal Rush schedule was Panhellenic's largest task this year. Advised by Miss Beverly Stone, Panhellenic also publishes a rush booklet for women interested in joining a sorority and the Athena, a quarterly newspaper for all organized women. At the annual Easter party, sorority pledges entertain underprivileged children from Lafayette. In an effort to improve pledge programs, Panhellenic sponsors a yearly workshop enabling pledges of all houses to discuss pledge policies and present their recommendations to the pledge trainers of the eleven sororities.

"Ready . . . down . . . flash" comes the call as the freshman members of Block P perform another stunt. This fall, using new flash cards, the only all-freshman card section in the Big Ten introduced many new stunts in their colorful shows before and at the half-time of home football games. Often the section performed while the Marching Band played. A faster way of spotting errors was used this year through spotters with walkie-talkies located in the press box and on the field. Block P was started at Purdue in 1950 by the varsity cheerleaders to give freshmen an opportunity to help boost school spirit. Unity within the class is shown by the green pots which card-section members as underclassmen wear to all the games.

The first DEBRIS turned up on the Purdue Campus in the spring of 1889 through the suggestions and efforts of George Ade and John T. McCutcheon, who both advanced to world-wide renown in the field of literature. Throughout its seventy-three years of existence the yearbook's objective has remained the same: to depict the school year in pictures and prose as a lasting memento for the student. To this end, the 1961 staff of close to thirty officers and numerous workers have compiled nearly six hundred pages and fifteen hundred photographs covering every phase of Purdue life from the M.E. lab to the Junior Prom.

There is always action at the DEBRIS office

At the Activities Carnival a booth is set up to help acquaint new freshmen with the DEBRIS.

The editorial staff, headed by the Editor-in-chief, is composed of five senior editors and twelve junior editors, working directly with the photography department. Compiling the contents of each year's DEBRIS is divided into three distinct phases: layout, copy, and pictures. Before any copy can be written or pictures taken, the layout and general style of the book must be established which is done in the spring of the preceding school year. The heart of the work is, of course, performed in conjunction with the entire student body and faculty as the DEBRIS takes shape in words and pictures.

Often a problem arises and several solutions are suggested: some constructive, some perplexing, and some ridiculous.

The DEBRIS is divided into seven major sections covering every phase of campus life and activity. Five senior editors and twelve junior editors compose the editorial staff. Of the junior editors, two work in the copy office and the remainder are responsible for the development of individual sections of the yearbook. The Opening Section and Campus Life pages depict both the unique and typical of Purdue's environment. The administration section includes faculty and schools and colleges. Coverage of both major and minor sports and activities plus university residences completes the book.

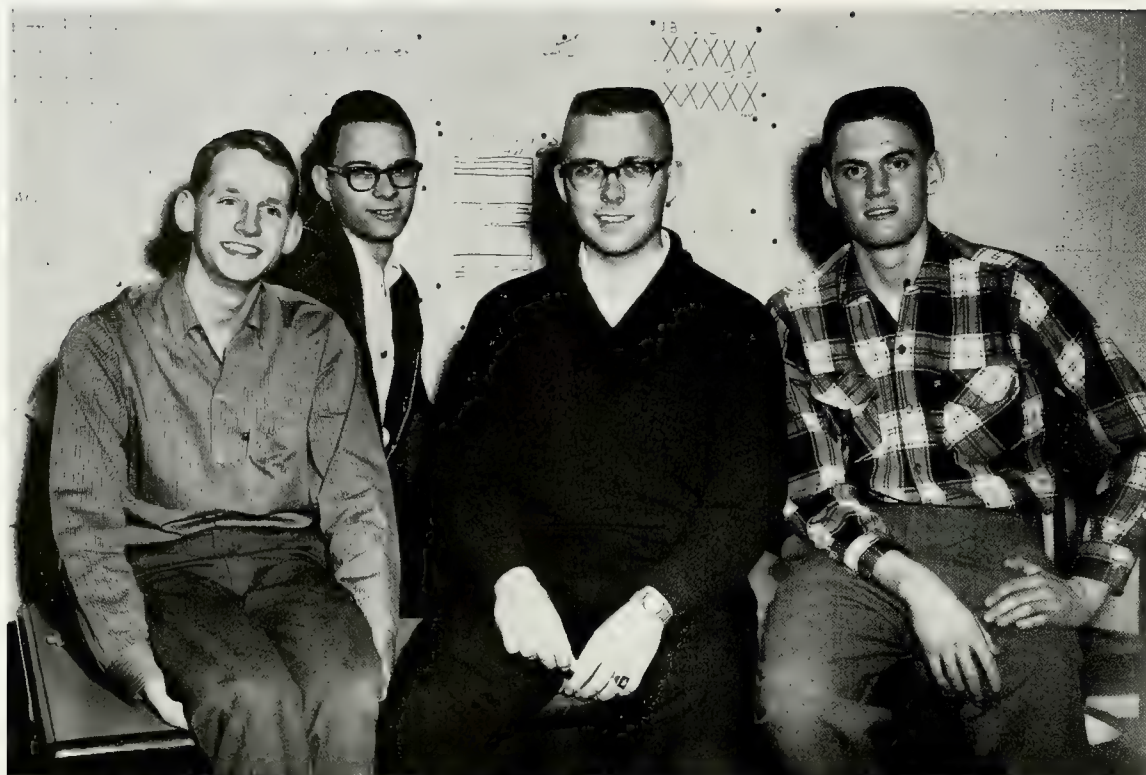

When a junior ed falls behind, he is informed of it in no uncertain terms by the "Iron Fist".

Outside the DEBRIS office at the end of the year, students line the hall to pick up their DEBRIS.

January brings a rush to the Debris office as junior editors and workers hurry to meet deadlines.

A glance inside the DEBRIS business

Marilyn Coopersmith, Business Manager

Looking left after entering the DEBRIS office one gazes upon a strong iron door. Entrance is easily obtained, since the door is never locked. Looking to the right one spots three misers counting out every penny . . . "One for me, one for the DEBRIS." The business staff of the DEBRIS consists of three junior editors, the personnel director, and the Business Manager. The work of this staff includes several sales campaigns, distribution of the book upon its release, various sales records and financial accounts that are necessary to keep records straight, and conducting the DEBRIS Queen Contest held each fall before Victory Varieties.

It has been said, "As fares the photo office, so fares the DEBRIS." This statement, perhaps a bit trite, nevertheless does not exaggerate the importance of the photography department to the smooth-running efficiency of the DEBRIS office. A staff of expert DEBRIS photographers takes all the pictures that appear on the pages of the yearbook. It is interesting to note that the department is entirely self-contained. The four sub-departments, which include development, printing, reproduction, and co-ordination, carry out all the procedures necessary to prepare a picture for engraving.

The Purdue EXPONENT, a self-sufficient newspaper, is published five times a week by students. Outstanding workers are selected as Cubs and then as Reporters. The junior editorial staff is primarily responsible for preparing and proofing the paper, while the senior staff plans, directs and co-ordinates the organization. Frequent meetings of both staffs are held to formulate policy and to deal with problems arising from within the organization. A large editorial board composed of seniors from all phases of campus life fulfills the paper's goal of being a medium for student opinion.

PURDUE EXPONENT

Night editors and copy editors are responsible for organizing and putting together each edition. Each day they gather and process the needed information, and with careful edition, arrange it into eight pages of news, sports, and current campus activities. Once the paper is arranged, it is put to press in the EXPONENT office by the night editors so that it may be ready for early morning circulation. The business staff, responsible for the clerical work, is comprised of the advertising and circulation departments. Advertising received from national syndicates is featured in each issue as a financial supplement to subscriptions and daily sales. It is interesting to note that with a daily printing of approximately 4000 copies, the EXPONENT is circulated throughout the globe.

Working closely with the sports department is the photography department. The purpose of the Purdue ENGINEER is to keep Purdue students abreast of current developments in the various fields of engineering. While doing so, it also seeks to improve alumni and student relationships, to represent Purdue's engineering organizations and to offer experience in technical journalism. Once each year a parody issue is prepared on all types of engineering to provide variety and color for the magazine. A self-supporting publication, the ENGINEER sponsors a scholarship fund known as the Purdue ENGINEER A. A. Polter Scholarship Fund. This magazine is a publication of the Engineering College Magazine Association.

AGRICULTURIST

The senior AGRICULTURIST officers look over layout for the issuing of their next magazine.

The AGRICULTURIST, published eight times during the school year, competes with fourteen other agricultural magazines for best issues, covers and technical articles of the year. The AGRICULTURIST provides for the students in Home Economics and Agriculture an opportunity to gain journalistic experience associated with the publication of a magazine. At the regular monthly meetings the AGRICULTURIST staff invite the faculty advisors to attend and to give any advice or suggestions that they may have. Any student can hold a position on the AGRICULTURIST if he meets the University requirements.

Publishing for the first time this year, the BARD is Purdue's literary magazine featuring undergraduate and graduate creative writing in the form of poetry, short stories, informal essays, literary criticism, and humorous essays. The staff members illustrate much of the work. The meaning of the word "bard" originally came from medieval usage denoting "someone who tells stories." In Elizabethan time, Shakespeare was referred to as a bard, and the word can also mean a professional poet. The staff thinks of a bard as a storyteller and of the BARD as a creative writing outlet for Purdue students.

GROOVE

Marion Schmitz, editor of the GROOVE, with Barrie Britton listen to the tape of the future '61 GROOVE.

Since its beginning in 1958, the Purdue GROOVE has achieved success on campus through the medium of sound. The audio recording of campus life consists of classroom discussions, football games, interviews with celebrities and campus sounds of all kinds. Before producing the record, a tape recording is taken of as many functions as possible. After selecting the best music, speeches and sounds, the tape is then reproduced on record to publish the Purdue GROOVE. Through their work, the staff and workers of the GROOVE gain knowledge about script writing, tape recording, publicity and sales, plus general organizational experience.

The PHARMACIST is a communicative periodical designed to provide students, faculty, and alumni with information on recent pharmaceutical developments, school news, and items of interest to members of the profession. Printed four times a year, the magazine has a circulation of 1800 including many Indiana retail drug stores. Staff positions are available primarily to students in the School of Pharmacy and are filled on the basis of petitions submitted to the Senior Staff. At the end of each year, honors are awarded to all officers and junior members at the annual Awards Banquet.

RIVET

Joe Kish, Editor-in-Chief

In its fourteenth year at Purdue, the RIVET has increased its circulation and popularity to a level where it is known as one of the best collegiate humor magazines. With its original satire covering current campus events and personalities, the RIVET is always causing laughter throughout the student body and the faculty. It is published once a month, and at the end of each year, the RIVET publishes a parody on publications, this year's being on the Ladies' Home Journal. The RIVET also sponsors annually each spring, a queen contest in which the student body votes for their favorite RIVET queen.

Surveying an engraving, workers plan the layout for one of the four yearly issues of the SCOPE.

Now in its second year of publication, SCOPE has been attempting to expand its coverage to topics of interest to the entire School of Science, Education, and Humanities. Short Stories, poetry, and articles on political, sociological, and scientific subjects all may be found in the magazine. One of the continuing features of SCOPE was a series of debates by students on important local and national questions. Book reviews included in each issue often were closely correlated with the debates, thus providing an opportunity to become familiar with other opinions about the subject under discussion.

PURDUE MUSICAL ORGANIZATIONS

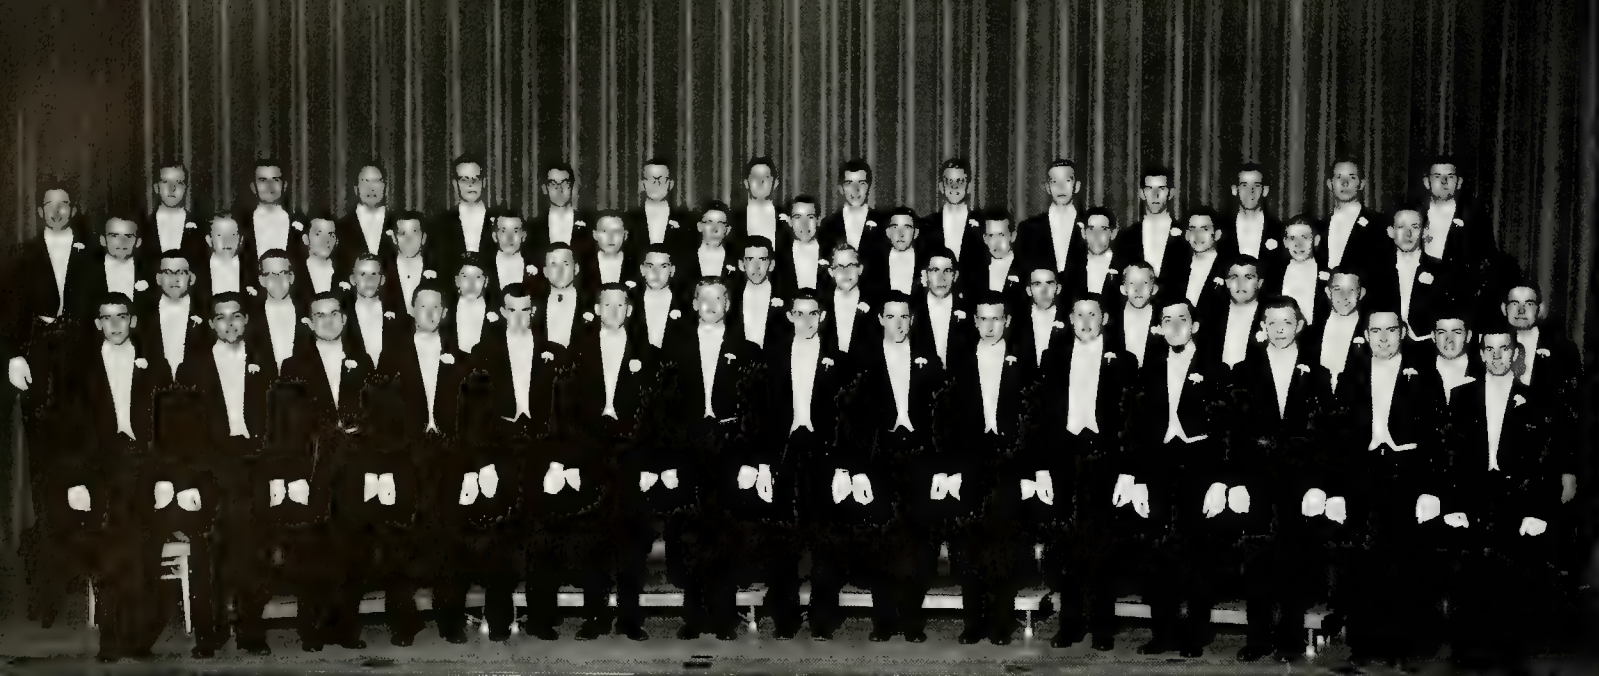

Dr. Albert P. Stewart, Purdue Musical Organizations Director, also supervises Extension Center Music.

Believing that more homemade music is what the world needs today, Dr. Albert P. Stewart entered his twenty-seventh year as Director of Purdue Musical Organizations. PMO includes the activities of three vocal groups, provides piano lessons and a directing course, and issues PMO NOTES monthly. Dr. Stewart, who recently received an Honorary Doctorate of Music from DePauw University, also acts as Chairman of Victory Varieties, is Executive Secretary of the American Industrial Music Association, and is Past President and member of the Board of Directors of the Intercollegiate Musical Council.

The Managing Board, Bob Griffiths, Ida Ring, Bill Belveal and Dave Weber, aid Dr. Stewart in directing PMO business.

Purdue's fifty-six member Glee Club, which can be recognized by their "full dress" uniform and white carnation trademark, opened their season of engagements at the Freshman First Nighter. Under the direction of Dr. Albert P. Stewart, they performed for several United Fund Drives, opened McCormick Place Convention Hall in Chicago, and were featured on Convocations at DePauw University and high schools through the Midwest as well as at major national conventions. In addition, the Glee Club sponsored the fourth appearance at Purdue of Germany's Obernkirchen Children's Choir.

PURDUETTES

Bruce G. McGuire leads the Purduettes, and also holds the position of Assistant Director of PMO.

The Purduettes, an outstanding group of thirty-six coeds, is directed by Bruce G. McGuire and this year featured two soloists and a freshman trio. A big sister—little sister system helped new members learn about the purpose of Purduettes. Starting with an appearance at the President's Convocation, the girls followed a busy schedule including several out-of-town trips. They also performed for Interfraternity Council registration and joined with the Glee Club for the Christmas Convocation presentation of "The Stingiest Man in Town," Dickens's Christmas Carol placed in a musical setting.

Before 18,000 at the Christmas Convo, Glee Club members portray two of Dickens' immortal characters.

Purdue's University Choir, which practices once a week, has a membership of over 300 selected voices including the Glee Club and Purdueettes. Assisted by William E. Luhman, PMO Staff Accompanist, the Choir was attired for its appearances this year in new robes of charcoal gray with red or black pennant collars, reversible to fit the occasion. The Easter and Christmas Convocations featured the services of the Choir, and twenty members acted as carolers in "The Stingiest Man in Town." Another performance involved presenting the annual Easter program at the Broadway Methodist Church in Indianapolis.

UNIVERSITY CHOIR

Representing every school in the University, Choir members share a common musical interest and a common desire to sing.

At a rigorous camp training period of singing and more singing, Dr. Stewart mimics Glee Club errors.

DEBATE TEAM

Purdue debaters and discussers appeared this year in more than twenty intercollegiate conferences in addition to a variety of programs before large audiences of collegiate students and community residents. The debate tournaments were held in the East and Midwest with students attending from institutions from all parts of the nation. In one of the outstanding events, two Purdue debators met two students from Oxford University, England, in a public debate held on campus. The goals of forensic training are development of a knowledge of public issues and an ability to communicate that knowledge.

FORENSIC UNION

Administering the greater part of the extracurricular speech program, the Forensic Board is primarily concerned with the seven intramural speech contests held annually on campus. Awards for all of these contests are contributions of individuals and businessmen. This debate and speech organization has an active participation of some two hundred Purdue students. Forty to fifty colleges and universities from all over the nation come to the campus for Intercollegiate debate tournaments sponsored by the Department of Speech. The Board members help by assuming managing positions for the tournaments.

Members of the Forensic Board discuss dates for the seven intramural contests they annually sponsor.

PURDUE PLAYSHOP

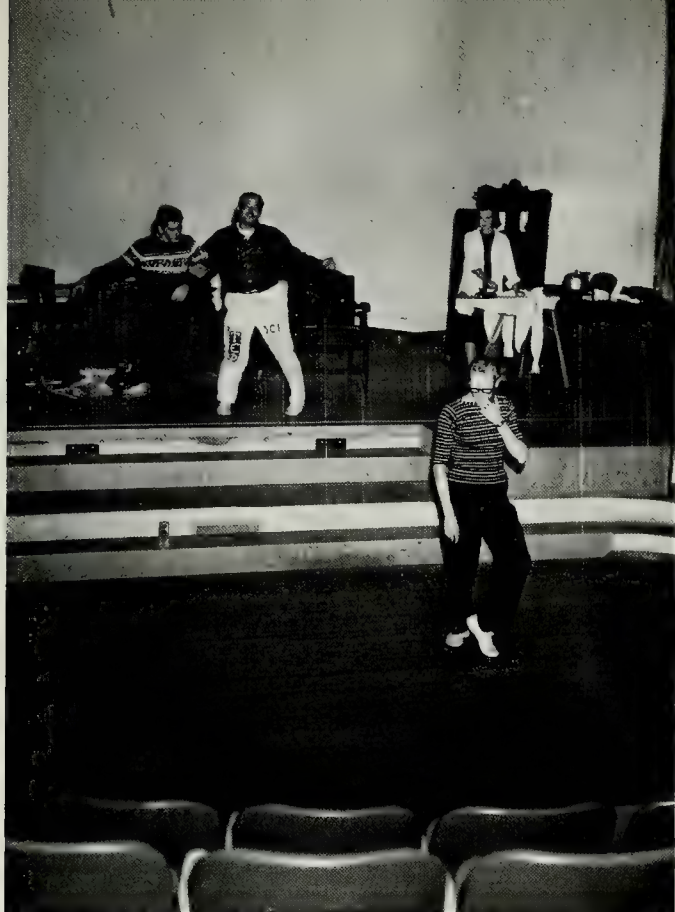

A behind-the-scenes view finds these workers busy with scenery and props for the next production.

Purdue Playshop highlighted an active year with productions ranging from comedy to tragedy. Eight experimental plays and one children's show, Hansel and Gretel, were sponsored. The experimental plays were completely designed and directed by graduate students with the assistance of a staff advisor. In addition, five major plays including Life with Father, Cat on a Hot Tin Roof, The Crucible, The Boyfriend, and Much Ado About Nothing, were presented. These featured an all-student cast with direction being given by two members of the Speech department. Any full-time student may participate in the activities of Playshop either by acting in any of the plays or by working on back stage crews. A link between students and staff is formed by the Student Executive Board which consistently strives to improve plays.

Keeping files up to date, two Playshop members post records of each person's participation hours.

News flashes fresh from the teletype, WBAA announcers bring current event to radio listeners.

WBAA

WBAA, Purdue's radio station commonly known as the Voice of Purdue, is now entering its 40th year of broadcasting. Interestingly enough, the station, which originated as an experiment of the Electrical Engineering School, was Indiana's first licensed radio station. Now serving all of Indiana, WBAA operations are conducted by both Senior and Junior Managing Boards. The wide variety of programs, including plays, sports events, tapes of prominent campus speeches, and music to suit all tastes, are written, produced, and engineered by students who enjoy radio work and wish to obtain experience. Several classes are taped and broadcasted each year. The station acts not only as a communication center on the campus, but WBAA is also an important liason between Purdue as a state university and the residents of Indiana.

WCCR

WCCR, Cary's non-commercial radio station, has entered its ninth successful year. With its staff of over one hundred students broadcasting through the Purdue Residence Network, its programs reach all residence halls and many fraternities, sororities, and co-ops. During the past year, the studios were greatly enlarged, and the station facilities were expanded enabling operation on a 24-hour schedule. Equipment for stereo programming was added, and WCCR became the first station of its kind to experiment with stereo shows. The station's disc jockey crew has brought good music to many campus dances. Important annual programs include the seventy-two hour radiothon presented in co-ordination with the Campus Chest charity drive and broadcasts of such all-campus events as dances, many sports events, and the Grand Prix.

Spinning records for the musically-minded listeners, WCCR announcer also does his own engineering.

KMRX

Co-ordinating files with their large record collection, staff members prepare for next program.

Radio station KMRX, located in residence hall H-3, is owned and operated by the men of Excalibur Club and the women of Hall X. Training is offered in announcing, and technical and program engineering. With a staff membership of over one hundred students, thirty percent of the staff are women. For the first time since the station's organization in 1953, a woman holds the office of Station Manager. Backed by a collection of over 1600 records, KMRX broadcasts twenty-four hours a day and with a schedule including campus news, sports, and special programs for Hall X and H-3.

Drawing members from nearly sixty countries, including the United States, the International Association makes possible a sharing and blending of American culture with foreign cultures, thus increasing understanding and co-operation. In pursuance of this, various programs, such as movies, discussions, lectures, and social get-togethers, are held with the people of Lafayette. The Association creates an atmosphere of mutual understanding among its different national groups, giving a foretaste of and impetus to the peaceful co-existence, for which all the peoples of the world yearn.

Singing songs from other countries gives members added insight to the cultures of other lands.

At this conclave, which includes Big Ten schools and other midwest colleges, the Boilermakers are well known for their enthusiasm, and the tough competition which they always provide. Purdue has placed either first or second since the start of the conclave in 1955. In addition, the Foresters serve on the staff of the Purdue Log, the club's yearbook.

The Purdue chapter of the American Pharmaceutical Association forms a link between the students and faculty of the School of Pharmacy, and encourages a striving for professionalism and ethical practice. Outstanding speakers from the field of pharmacy and panel discussions concerning students' future work provide the program for the monthly meetings of the organization. The Annual Pharmacy Roundup, held at The Trails, was the main event of the year. Members of the various pharmaceutical honoraries gave entertaining skits at this time and Dean Jenkins presented awards to the outstanding pharmacy students.

At the Roundup, members gave skits on entertaining experiences encountered in pharmacy.

Two Purdue Pilot members combine practice and pleasure as they fly a J-3 over Indiana countryside.

PURDUE PILOTS

Any Purdue student or faculty member who wishes to learn to fly can fulfill his desires by joining Purdue Pilots. The purpose of this organization is to provide a chance to fly airplanes for business, pleasure, and competition at a lower price. The club owns and cares for three planes, one of which is a J-3 while the other two are trainers. Purdue Pilot members stress training in engine and over-all plane inspection before flight as well as in flying fundamentals. Skills such as lime sack bombing of ground targets and spot landing are perfected for competition with nearby schools.

The Purdue Outing Club is made up of students and faculty members who are interested in all types of outdoor activities, from lazy campfire cookouts to the most technical aspects of mountaineering. Skiing, canoeing, cave exploring, horseback riding, and square dancing are other popular activities of the Outing Club program. Although most of their trips are short weekend jaunts to various parks and places of interest in Indiana, a few longer vacation trips have been to such places as the Great Smoky Mountains, the Tetons, the Rocky Mountains, Canada, Mexico, and Switzerland.

Cooking his meal over a campfire, this Outing Club member knows how to enjoy the outdoors.

DSE members show their versatility after four years in college by being able to celebrate even on the Purdue crane.

DSE

Delta Sigma Epsilon has become the height of any Purdue senior's accomplishments. Founded in 1956 by senior job holders in the three major activities of DEBRIS, Student Union, and EXPONENT, with senior staffers in OSS as permanent pledges, DSE meets weekly at popular, elite dining places. Since these meetings take place on Friday night after a long, hard week of studying, etc., members have a tendency to thank their lucky stars that it is Friday and, thus, to celebrate. In all organization activities, parliamentary procedure is strictly followed, and the primary rule is "set 'em up." Apparently inactive, DSE provides a necessary vent for those who spend long hours in building Purdue.

The identities of the men selected each year for Iron Key membership are revealed traditionally during Gala Week. Although its activities are a mystery to all but its members, Iron Key represents the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a man prominent in campus activities. To further the lasting friendships created within its membership is the essence of its intrinsic value to the members and it also serves as a means of cohesion among the various campus organizations represented. Iron Key was founded on Purdue's campus in 1911 with the threefold purpose of instilling to the several members the high ideals of the University, impressing them with the seriousness of channeling student activities, and to enhance the character of the men themselves. Iron Key has withstood time, its men have been those of executive ability, leadership, and achievements: its purpose has been its rock foundation.

Mortar Board is a national honorary for senior women who are outstanding in scholarship, leadership and service. Its purposes are to promote college loyalty, to create a spirit of fellowship and service among university women, and to recognize leadership and high scholastic standards. Each year Mortar Board sells its calendars to raise money for undergraduate and graduate scholarships which are awarded to Purdue women of high character and ability. A meeting with Alpha Lambda Delta and the Smarty Party are traditional events designed to encourage freshman and sophomore women.

Gimlet members prepare to roll out the victory bell in the final seconds of the Indiana game.

Since the early 1920's, members of Gimlet Club, Purdue's senior fraternity men's activities honorary, have worn their familiar gold pots on and around the Purdue campus. Among the many projects sponsored by Gimlet Club are the award given to Purdue's most outstanding athlete each year, the Player-of-the-Week Poll conducted each week during the football season, an initiation banquet, and other miscellaneous social functions. This fall the Gimlets, while maintaining the parking lot at the football games, also painted the traditional Victory Bell which is rung after each home Boilermaker victory.

Striving to foster student spirit in University athletics and maintain traditions, Gold Peppers takes a position of service on the campus. Selection is made from junior and senior women who are eligible on the basis of leadership, service and scholarship. Peppers act as hostesses for different University functions, give initiation banquets and serve as members of activity and leadership panels. The establishment of a library scholarship file was the project of the fall pledge class. Every year Gold Peppers joins with Mortar Board and Panhellenic to award a women's graduate scholarship.

Painting the traditional "gold" peppers is difficult when "helpers" fail to concentrate.

REAMER CLUB

Enthusiastic Reamers liven campus spirit as they christen the new Boilermaker Special at the Lions.

The Purdue-Ohio State game was a memorable one for the Reamers, who brought the new Boilermaker Special into the stadium for the first time. The Reamers, whose purposes are to boost University athletics and give service to Purdue, are now trying to find a permanent location for the Special. Junior and senior independent men who have done outstanding work on campus and in their housing unit are chosen for membership in Reamers. The group encourages outstanding contributions by Purdue students with recognition such as the Varsity Walk Award, which honors the athlete of the year. The Noble Kaiser Award recognizes scholarship.

PENDRAGON

Pendragon is composed of men's residence hall presidents and managers, elected student leaders, and the Director of the Men's Residence Halls. The organization serves to co-ordinate and standardize residence hall student policies and is an effective instrument for promoting co-operation and communication among men's residence halls. Pendragon is also an honorary organization. It awards junior and senior men for high scholarship and exceptional leadership in activities of the residence halls, as well as in the administration and co-ordination of many other affairs held on campus.

Richard Kassner, president of Pendragon, relaxes with Gilbert Streeter in the lounge of H-2 after dinner.

Hearing of previous "Skunk" mischief, people may wonder what is intended for the fabled Naval cannon.

To boost Purdue athletics and do the utmost to maintain a high level of school spirit are the main objectives of Skull and Crescent, an honorary for sophomore fraternity men who have been outstanding in participation in activities. At sporting events they sit together to lead the crowd in enthusiasm. On campus the pledge wears a gold pot with a Skull and Crescent emblem and he carries a bleached white bone pledge board. Any girl on campus will remember the pledges from their generous offerings of goodies near the steps of the Women's Gym where the noonday song sessions are held.

Tomahawk is a national organization honoring independent sophomore students for outstanding work in activities. Purdue's chapter also functions as a service organization for the campus and community. As an annual project, the group maintains an information booth throughout Freshman Orientation Week, and this fall aided the University police in preparing a campus traffic survey. As an athletics boosting organization, Purdue's Tomahawks meet the Illinois Chapter each year on the football field to fire the miniature cannon which is retained by the chapter from the winning school.

Freshmen girls often find that a short chat and coke with their Green Guards can answer many questions.

GREEN GUARD

Green Guard is a branch of AWS created to plan a counseling program for new women students. Every fall Green Guard sponsors a picnic for these new students so they can become better acquainted with the various honoraries and activities. Informative skits are presented to explain some of the opportunities and traditions of Purdue's campus. From the girls who have been assigned as counselors for the new students, the Green Guard Honorary pledges those who, in their estimation, have been outstanding counselors during the year. The honorary then elects officers who will serve for the year.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega is a service fraternity having a sincere interest in giving service to the student body, faculty, youth, and community. The services rendered by the honorary include taking charge of campus elections, running UMOC, helping at the Sycamore Valley Girl Scout Camp, and working to help Scouts in the community. Those qualified for membership must have previous training in scouting, a desire to serve others, and a satisfactory scholastic standing. The fraternity, a national organization, was founded on December 16, 1925 at Eaton, Pennsylvania. Purdue's chapter was founded in 1932.

The members of APO prepare an announcement for their newly located bulletin board.

Alpha Lamb pledges seem confident that their pledge trainer's threats will never be carried out.

The purpose of Alpha Lambda Delta is to promote intelligent living with an increased appreciation of both the love of study and the cultural phases of campus life and to encourage superior scholarship among freshmen women. These women must have earned a 5.50 index by the end of their second semester. In addition to assisting in the High School Day and orientation programs, Alpha Lambs still find time to hold their annual fall retreat plus trade functions with Phi Eta Sigma. Each year, a senior member with the highest index for seven semesters of college receives an award.

Phi Eta Sigma, the scholastic honorary association for freshmen men, serves several constructive purposes on the campus. Besides giving freshmen a goal toward which to work, the organization encourages freshmen in the area of scholarship. The major requirement for membership is the attainment of a 5.5 semester or cumulative index during the freshman year. Founded in 1923 at the University of Illinois, the organization came to the Purdue campus in 1948. Besides being sponsor of High School Day on the campus, Phi Eta Sigma publishes several booklets outlining good study habits and other academic aids for freshmen.

The Bent of Tau Beta Pi, symbol of excellence at Purdue since its dedication on April 24, 1945.

The Tau Beta Pi Association, national engineering honorary society, was founded in 1885 at Lehigh University by Edward Higginson Williams, Jr. The association is designed to "mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship, and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering." The Indiana Alpha Chapter of Purdue, the largest chapter in the United States, was established in 1893 to honor superior students. The association selects only about one half of those men eligible, basing membership on scholastic and character achievement. A 5.50 cumulative index in the first semester or a 5.35 cumulative index in the second semester of their junior year was required of juniors seeking membership in Tau Beta Pi this year. Senior engineers with a 5.00 cumulative index were also eligible for membership in the highly respected organization.

Kappa Delta Pi, the national honor and professional society in education, was founded at the University of Illinois in 1911. The purpose of the organization is "to encourage high professional, intellectual, and personal standards, and to recognize outstanding contributions to education." Purdue's Eta Chapter was founded in 1919, and since then over 2000 students have been members of the chapter. To be eligible for membership in Kappa Delta Pi, juniors must have attained a 4.80 index with 6 hours of education courses, while seniors must have made a 4.8 with 12 hours in education.

Officers of Kappa Delta Pi study the floor plan for the national headquarters to be located at Purdue.

Iota Lambda Sigma, a national scholastic honorary for Industrial Education, promotes achievement in its field. The chapter was brought to Purdue in 1940 to create a fraternal atmosphere within the profession. To be eligible for membership students in the school must have at least a 4.5 index. "Mu Sings" is a yearly publication edited by Iota Lambda Sigma for all members and alumnae of the organization. Members attend the Grand Chapter and the assembly of the national advisory council in the fall. During the spring, initiation is followed by picnics and meetings with guest speakers.

ALPHA ZETA

Alpha Zeta was founded at Purdue in 1908 for the purpose of fostering the principles of scholarship, leadership, and character in the advancement of the profession of agriculture. This national agricultural honorary fraternity requires of its members a 4.5 accumulative index and a year and a half in the Agriculture School. For the first time, AZ assisted the Agriculture School in "Operation Brainpower" by being leaders of the discussions intended for students of rural areas. This spring the organization initiated a new reversible pot of old gold and blue for both the actives and pledges.

The officers of Alpha Zeta discuss ideas for their part in "Operation Brainpower."

Members add a final touch to the Kappa Psi display window in the Pharmacy building.

Kappa Psi, the national pharmaceutical honorary, was founded to foster fellowship, scholarship and research. Meetings are held bimonthly and open meetings with guest speakers take place at alternate sessions. To be eligible for membership a pharmacy student must be a junior or senior with a 4.0 index for three consecutive semesters. The alumni are informed of chapter activities by a newsletter called "The Dope-Peddler," which is published twice a year. A banquet in the fall and a dinner-dance, at which the Sweetheart of Kappa Psi is chosen, are given in honor of the pledge classes.

Triton selects girls who are interested in developing all forms of swimming skills. Candidates for membership, who must be at least second semester freshmen, are chosen by the honorary on the basis of a swimming try-out. Triton members participate in synchronized swimming events at other colleges and attend the Women's National Aquatic Forum in Florida during Christmas vacation. Several Triton members swim in the Dolphin winter show; and, this spring was the second year for the independent Triton Water Ballet. The show, entitled "Curtain Going Up", featured Broadway themes.

DOLPHIN

Dolphin is a men's swimming honorary which exists to promote interest in swimming and aquatic skills. Selection of membership is based on a system in which interested freshmen earn participation points for eligibility. Members sell pennants at football games in order to raise scholarship money for other swimmers. Two main events of the organization are the winter and spring water shows. Every year funds from these shows help send the University swimming team and several Dolphin members to Florida during Christmas vacation for the meeting of the Association of American Swimming Coaches.

The active Dolphins take time out from their exhausting practice for a session of clowning around.

Discussions offer a chance to decide the fate of the world, ponder problems, or enjoy the latest joke.

The Newman Club, the Catholic organization for college students, provides a social, spiritual, and educational background for its members. Discussion groups, guest speakers, and help sessions compose the educational part of the club's activities. However, there are many social events such as a Saint Valentine's Day Dance, a Mardi Gras, and a Saint Patrick's Day Dance. In addition, breakfasts after Mass, Sunday night suppers, dancing lessons, various sports, and formal and informal get-togethers give the members a chance to know one another better and to enlarge their circle of acquaintances.

Purdue's Army ROTC Honor Guard is the only university unit besides West Point to use the difficult "Cadet Drill".

ARMY ROTC

The Purdue Mounted Drill Team adds a colorful note to the annual President's Review.

During his basic course instruction, each Army ROTC cadet learns the fundamentals of drill, leadership, and command. After completing this initial course, he may voluntarily enter the two year advanced program, providing he is able to meet high physical and mental requirements. The advanced student is offered his choice in the corps of signal, ordnance, transportation, engineers, chemical, or artillery. After graduation, the cadet becomes a Second Lieutenant in the Reserves, thus completing the last step in the ROTC purpose: To commission men who have shown military leadership in college.

NAVY ROTC

Captain C. M. Robertson

The Naval ROTC unit is composed of midshipmen who are in either the regular or the contract program. Those in the regular program qualify for the naval scholarship through a nationwide competitive examination. As midshipmen they receive payment of fees and $600 a year retainer pay. Regular students participate in three summer cruises, and upon graduation, they are commissioned as officers in the Navy. Contract students have the same classroom training, but take part in only one cruise. Upon graduation, the contract student must accept a Naval Reserve commission if it is offered.

Purdue's AFROTC unit is a part of the US Air Force's expanding program which supplies the USAF Reserve with trained officers. Freshmen and sophomores in the basic program are introduced to the principles of air power and military policy. During the sophomore year a comprehensive test is given and the students can apply for the advanced course. Because of present needs, the majority of students entering this course must be physically qualified for flying or have a good background in math and science. Upon entering the advanced course, juniors must agree to serve for three years of active duty.

Since it is the nation's largest collegiate marching band, its members must do extensive practice each day in order to achieve the precise movement and the intricate maneuvers which are so familiar to the Purdue football fans. Among the special features of the band are the Golden Girl and the Silver Twins, a new addition this year. Activities of the band include annual performances at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway "500" and spring concerts throughout Indiana and western Illinois.

AIR FORCE BAND

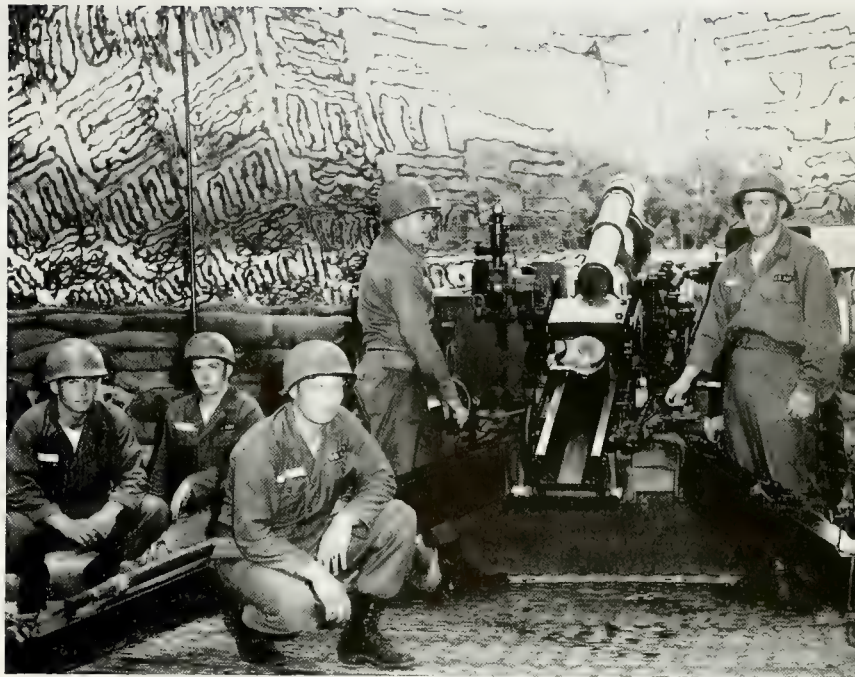

Purdue's Air Force ROTC Band is a self-governed organization which was formed in 1955. Although membership in the band is open to all cadets in the AFROTC program, it is now made up only of underclassmen, with the exception of the officers. A call-out is held at the beginning of every semester to enlist interested cadets in the organization. The Air Force Band was originally organized as a twenty-piece drum and bugle corps, and it has now grown into a seventy-piece band. The band participates in parades and military ceremonies throughout the state as well as at Purdue.

ARMY CAMP

The lonely duty of a sentry at twilight is another new experience for this cadet at summer camp.

Every advanced Army ROTC cadet becomes familiar with military life from a new perspective as he participates in summer camp. The primary objectives of the camp, as stated by the Army, "are to develop leadership qualities and impart knowledge." To satisfy these goals, the Army includes all phases of training within a cadet's specialized field. In addition, the cadet undertakes a more general program during the six weeks. He is given assignments to develop personal responsibility and to demonstrate the importance of doing every task. Camp plays a vital role in army officer-preparation.

NAVY CRUISE

Each summer Regular midshipmen of the Purdue NROTC unit cruise the world's seas pre-viewing the duties and disciplines of a Naval officer. This year the midshipmen's ports of call ranged from the Eastern Pacific to the Mediterranean Sea. Sophomore marines enacted maneuvers at Little Creek, Virginia, while their air-going classmates studied naval air operations in Corpus Christi, Texas. Contract midshipmen take only one cruise, that being after their junior year. On this cruise they serve as junior officers of the deck in preparation for their three years of active duty after graduation.

AIR FORCE CAMP

The advanced AFROTC cadet experiences an important phase of air force training in his four weeks of summer camp. The cadet attends one of the two four-week periods offered by the air force between his junior and senior years. Rigorous physical and mental conditioning is characteristic of this intensive training period. Included in the training is a three-day survival exercise, in which the cadet is sent into a desolate area with only a pocket knife for a tool. Students are paid seventy-six dollars a month plus travel and living expenses while attending camp and gaining military knowledge.

Cadets are quick to discover that, no matter how it looks, there is only one Air Force haircut.

Darwin Weir
Quarterdeck President

Quarterdeck, an honorary of distinguished NROTC juniors and seniors, was founded at Purdue in 1950 to stimulate an active interest in naval affairs. Each spring the society stages the Midshipmen's Ball and presents the Navy Queen. Quarterdeck is responsible for the Naval display at the Military Ball, which is held in the fall. Two picnics are held for the members each year. Meetings are held every three weeks to organize the activities and an initiation banquet is held for the fall and spring pledge classes. A Quarterdeck pledge is recognized by his miniature swab and "Dixie Cup" hat.

In order to be eligible for membership in POMM, a student must be enrolled in advanced Army ROTC and have an accumulative military index of at least 4.75. Annually POMM sponsors the Army Ball and plans the Army Banquet. Actives wear a black and gold fourragere on the left shoulder of their uniform.

The Arnold Air Society, chartered at Purdue in 1951, is an honorary open to outstanding basic and advanced AFROTC students. Members are eligible to attend area meetings, which are held twice a year, and the national meeting held annually. The society schedules professional speakers and educational film presentations for their meetings to advance the professional and technical development of future USAF officers. Purdue's squadron supplies officers for Area D-2, which leads the squadrons of twelve other universities. The society's activities include the initiation banquet and Air Force Ball.

The Drill Team, organized in 1947 by seven ex-servicemen, is devoted to the development of precision, fancy, and exhibition drill. A Drill Team plebe class is chosen each semester after a call-out and several weeks of pre-plebe training. The Cherry Blossom Festival in Washington, D.C., was again won by the Purdue Drill Team in 1960, allowing the group to maintain its reputation as the finest collegiate drill team in the United States.

Scabbard and Blade

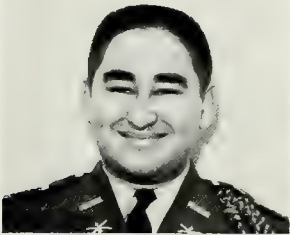

Founded nationally in 1905 at the University of Wisconsin, and at Purdue in 1908, Scabbard and Blade is a national military honorary which now has 167 companies. Members are chosen from outstanding cadets of the advanced course of Army, Navy, and Air Force ROTC units. Scabbard and Blade was founded to raise the standard of ROTC educations, to promote friendship between cadet officers, and to stimulate a general interest in the military. Activities of Purdue's Scabbard and Blade Company include guarding the body of "Miss Indiana" prior to the Indiana football game and helping with the Military Ball.

Pershing Rifles, which was founded in 1894 at the University of Nebraska, is dedicated to preserving an interest in the ideals of military establishment and to providing appropriate recognition for outstanding cadets of the ROTC. It is a national honorary society for military students who have met the required academic requirements. The Purdue unit supports an outstanding drill team which compiled an excellent record last year in meets at colleges throughout the state, and captured the third regimental drill title. It also sponsors a rifle team and chooses an honorary co-ed Captain each year.

David Quick
General Chairman
Military Ball
Committee

Each November Purdue's social season formally begins with the Military Ball. This year music was provided by the orchestra of Skitch Henderson and by Purdue's Salty Dogs. The extensive planning and organization of the dance is the job of the Military Ball Committee. This committee is made up of advanced military students selected from the petitioning men of each ROTC unit on the basis of military aptitude and interest. Members are selected as juniors, and they retain their membership during their senior year. Serving with the "Military Ball" Committee are advisors from each of Purdue's three ROTC sections.

In recognition of their hard work, Military Ball Committee members were introduced at the dance.

SPORTS

Guy Mackey has served Purdue well since he joined the administrative staff in 1929.

The administrative details of a large athletic program like Purdue's require many talents, but the job is very capably handled by Guy Mackey and his able staff. Red Mackey is a 1929 graduate of Purdue's school of Agriculture and 1961 will mark the thirty-second year of his service to the University. Verne C. Freeman, Dean of the School of Agriculture, represents Purdue in Big Ten affairs. Bob Woodworth handles athletic publicity and generally promotes Purdue's sports. Joe Dienhart and Richard Kindig allot, distribute, and sell the tickets from their offices in the fieldhouse.

PEP AND SEATING COMMITTEES

The Pep Committee, which is composed of representatives of the junior and senior classes, is in charge of organizing events which will serve to strengthen the school spirit. Pep rallies and victory celebrations were among the activities which the committee planned for this year. Students were also encouraged to meet the team when they returned from the out-of-town games. The Seating Committee, which is also composed of a few members of the student body, is in charge of allotting tickets for each class for the home football games. This responsibility includes assigning student seats.

These players celebrated the victory over Ohio State by charging onto the field.

A stirring yell of expectation,
as arm in arm
they enter the field of battle;
and we know that close behind
follow their fighting brothers, set to give all
for the black and gold.
The shrill of a whistle,
and the game's begun,
a second note signals
the wall's been breached,
and they've tallied another
to a predetermined fate.
No praise do they ask,
nor thanks for a job well done,
but that added boost to victory
by their cohorts in the stands.

Coach Jack Mollenkopf has been head football coach five of his fourteen years with the Purdue staff. During his nine years as assistant coach he developed the hard nosed line play which characterizes Purdue football and since Jack taking over the head position from Stu Holcomb, he has compiled a .605 win average against many top teams in the nation.

This was Purdue's building year as shown by an up-and-down record. The Rivets were once again termed the Spoilermakers as they upset Ohio State and then upset Minnesota, the number one team in the nation. The Rivets were upset too, but all in all it was a good football season. Next year Purdue should be even better with the outstanding sophomores of last season preparing for next year. Spring practice is over and summer training is fast approaching. The stadium will soon be a mass of excitement, and the Boilermakers will be ready to take on all comers.

The Rivets run out through the senior lines for the UCLA game.

Four years of hard work were culminated for Michael Turby when he was made senior football manager.

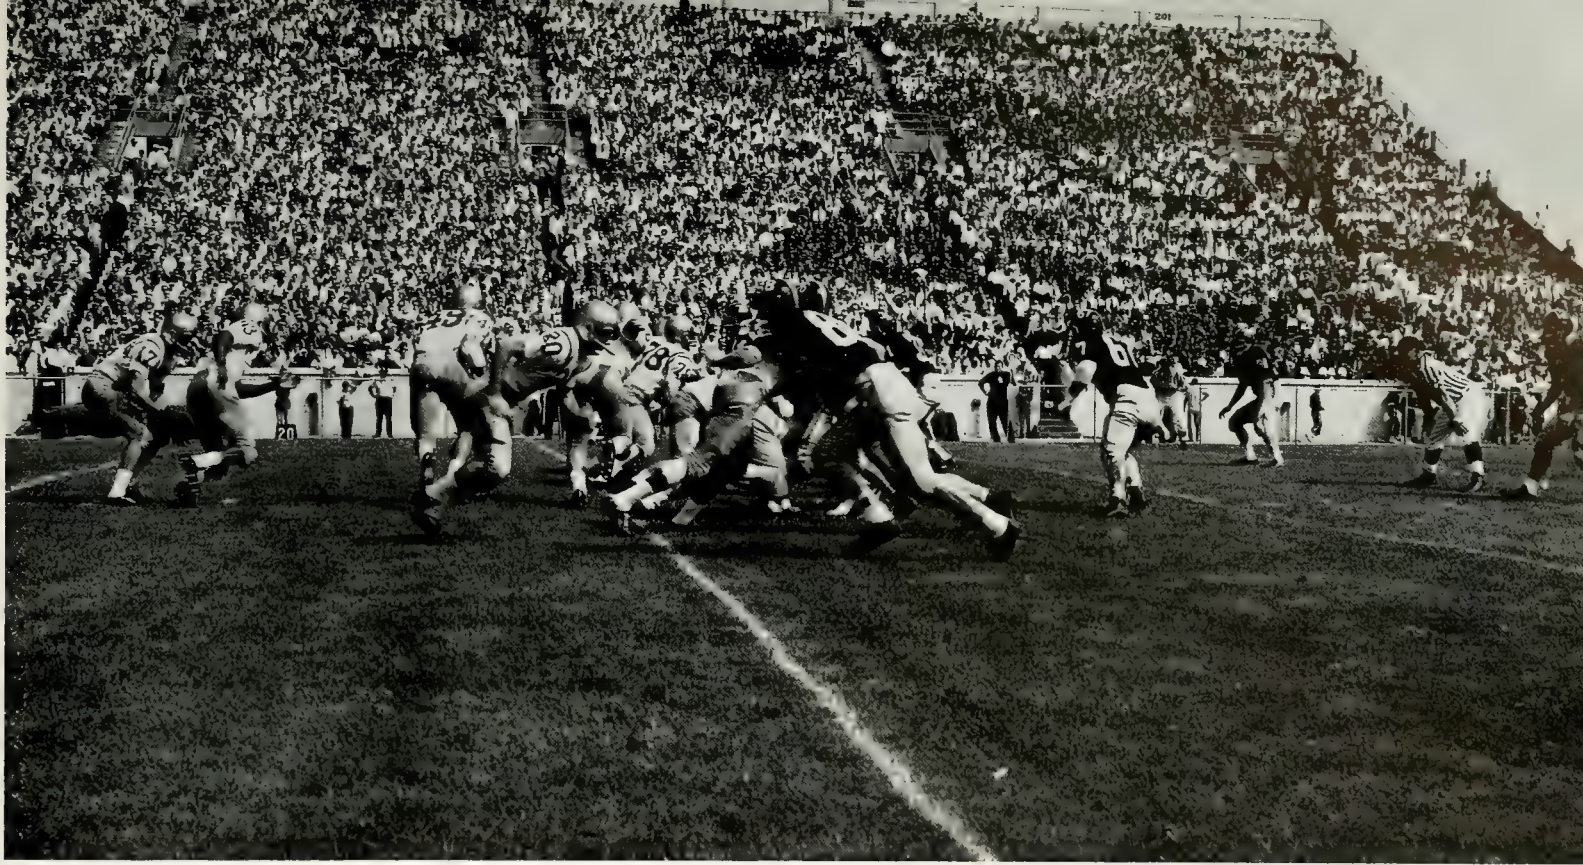

Co-captains Jerry Beabout and Maury Guttman were invaluable in maintaining team spirit and morale.

Most valuable player Bernie Allen demonstrates punting that put many opponents in a deep hole.

MANAGER, CAPTAINS, MVP

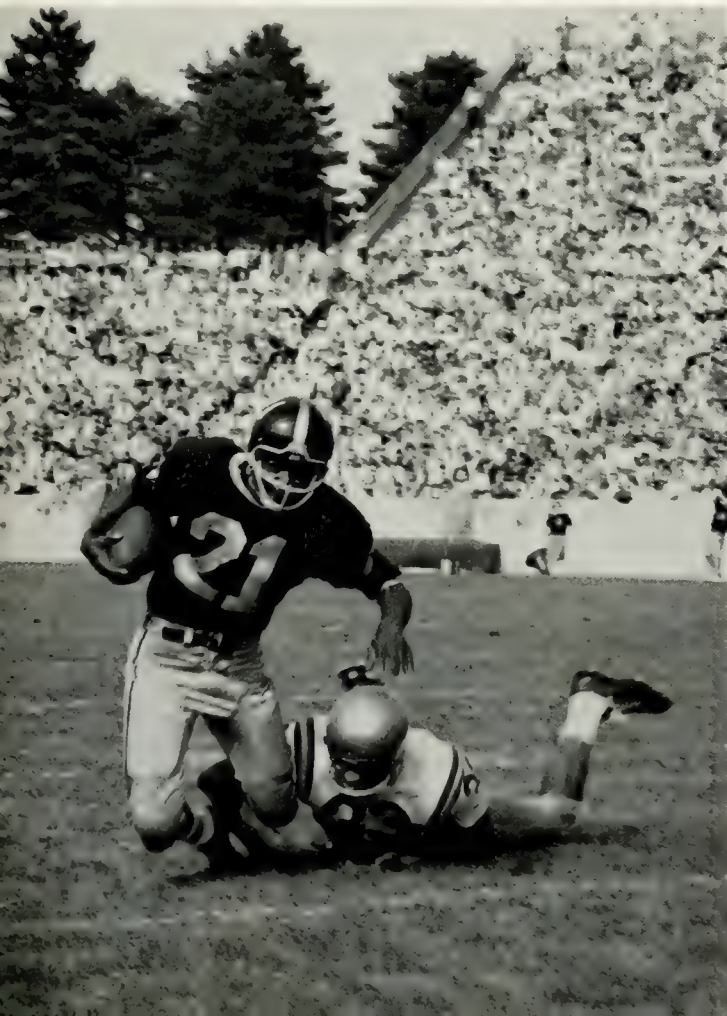

Jerry Beabout and Maury Guttman provided able leadership for the grid team as its co-captains. Maintaining team spirit and morale were their main tasks and they carried these tasks out admirably. Jerry was named to everyone's All-American team. Bernie Allen was named MVP by his teammates and his value as a quarterback was very much in evidence in the wins over Ohio State and Minnesota. Bernie's passing was the needed ingredient in many drives which kept the Rivets from bogging down. Mike Turby as the Senior manager supervised the underclassmen's activities and kept the equipment in ready repair.

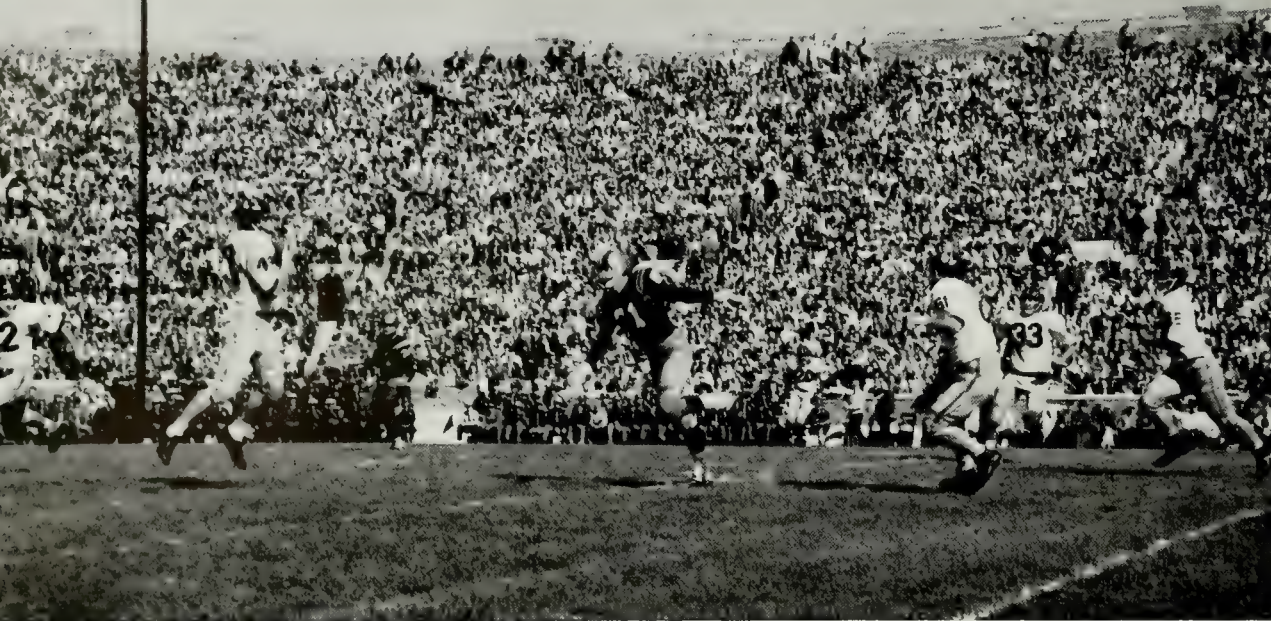

UCLA's All-American tailback Bill Kilmer takes the snap from center in the single wing offense used by the Bruins.

Season Opened by Tie, 27-27

Speedy halfback Jimmy Tiller didn't quite make the turn around this Uclan defender.

Purdue opened its 1960 season at home, hosting a fast and powerful Bruin eleven. Led by the dazzling performance of tailback Bill Kilmer, UCLA gave the Boilers a 13 point setback in the first two minutes of play. Although shocked and disappointed by such an early deficit, the Rivet grid-ders would not say die. Led by quarterbacks Allen and Guttman, they began rolling up a string of first downs, climaxed by a dive for the score by Guttman from the one. Relentless line play, and determined drive by the backfield overcame the early margin and gave Purdue a tie that may well be called a victory.

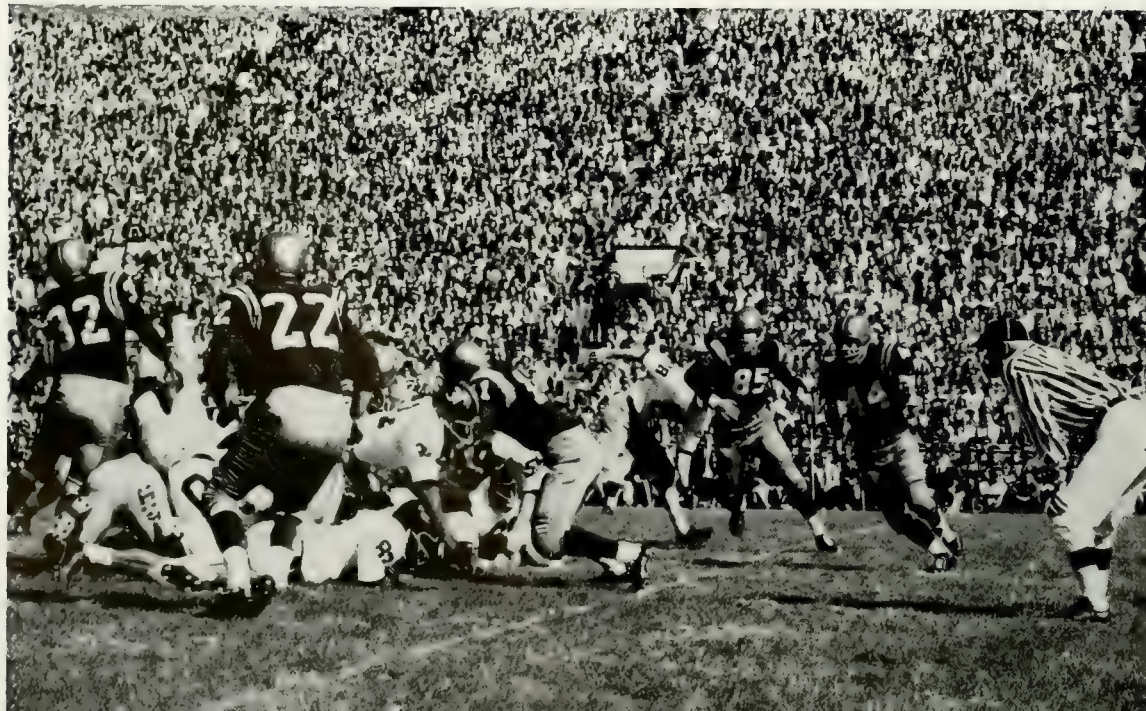

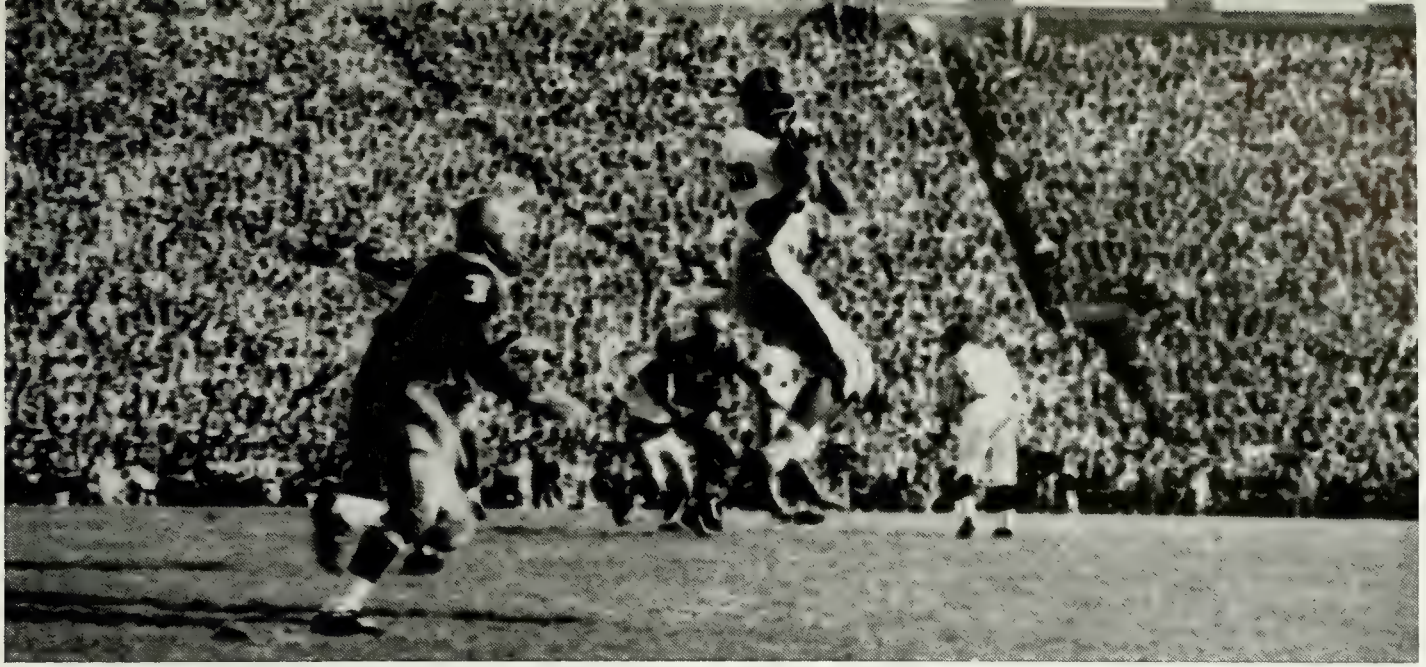

Halfback Bob Wiater intercepts a Notre Dame pass close to the Purdue goal and prepares to run it back.

Rivets Crush Irish, 51-19

The first quarter ended, 14-13, before Purdue turned the game into a complete rout by scoring 31 points in the second quarter. The Rivets intercepted two passes and recovered three fumbles to set up scoring opportunities. Key plays by Bernie Allen, Jimmy Tiller, Manzie Winters, Maury Guttman, and a fancy 78 yard run by Bob Wiater put Purdue in a commanding lead at the end of the half, 45-13. In the second half, Purdue's reserves held the Irish to only 6 points. The final touch was added as the Rivets marched 57 yards with hard running by Tom Yakubowski for the final score.

Willie Jones is stopped just short of a touchdown, but Donn Mayoras scored on the next play.

Joe Harris puts the complete in pass completion, and turns to find a way to evade that last defender.

Halfback Bob Scarpitto scored one Notre Dame TD, but on this try Winters and Wiater nailed him.

Bernie Allen punts after the Irish refused to give the Boilermakers a first down.

Bernie Allen had trouble finding running room all day and these Badger defenders don't want to let up now.

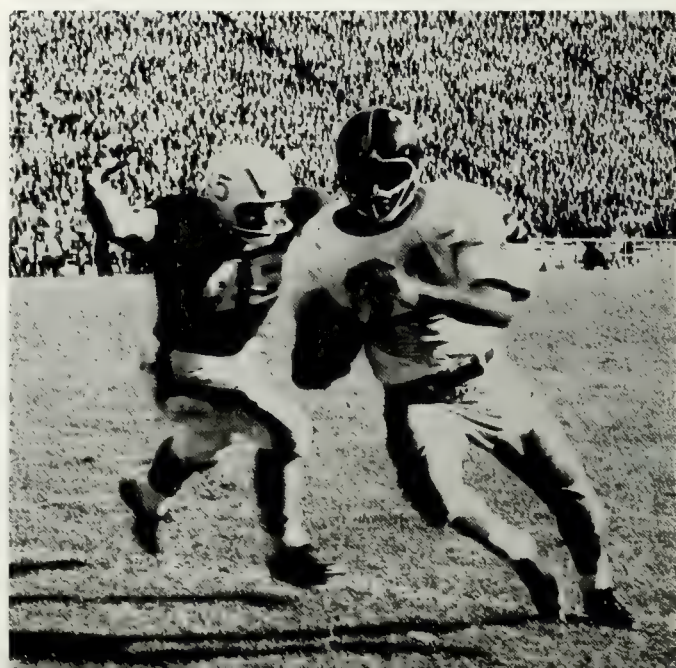

Mistakes costly at Madison, 24-13

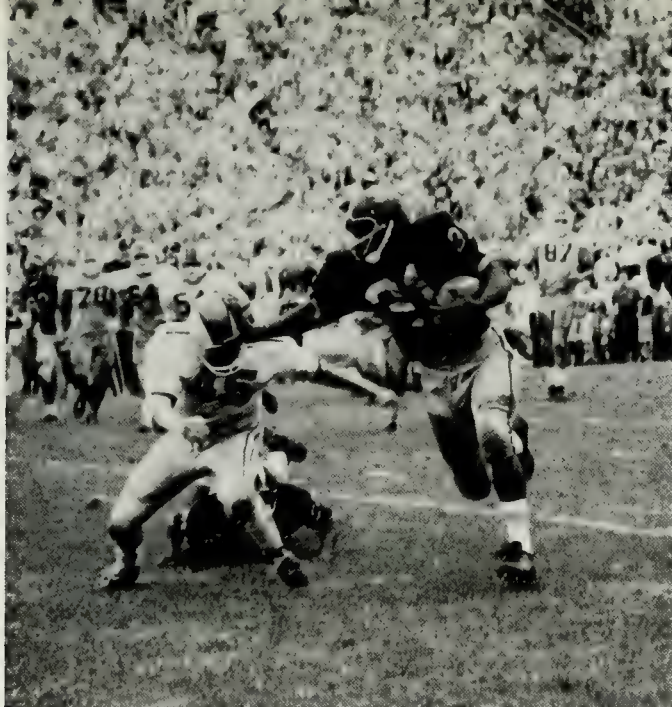

Fumbles, interceptions, and miscues led Purdue to a surprise defeat at the hands of Wisconsin's Badgers, 24-13. The second play from scrimmage set the afternoon's pace as the Boilers fumbled at the midfield stripe. After an unsuccessful series of plays, Bernie Allen's punt was returned to Purdue's 46, setting up Wisconsin's first TD. Purdue then scored on an 80-yard march. A Badger field goal ended the quarter. In the second quarter Purdue again scored after John Elwell recovered on the Badger 17, but Wisconsin clinched it in the last half, scoring two times to hold Purdue scoreless.

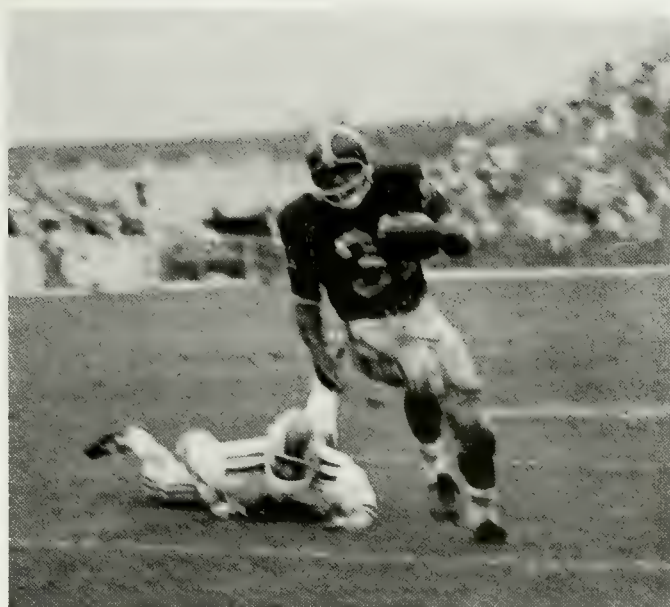

Jimmy Tiller gathered in this Guttman pass and, with Elwell to clear the way, he scored.

Tiller evaded this Badger and went on to the flag and his second touchdown of the day.

Fullback Willie Jones gives the straight arm to Ohio State's Herbstreit to complete a 26 yard touchdown.

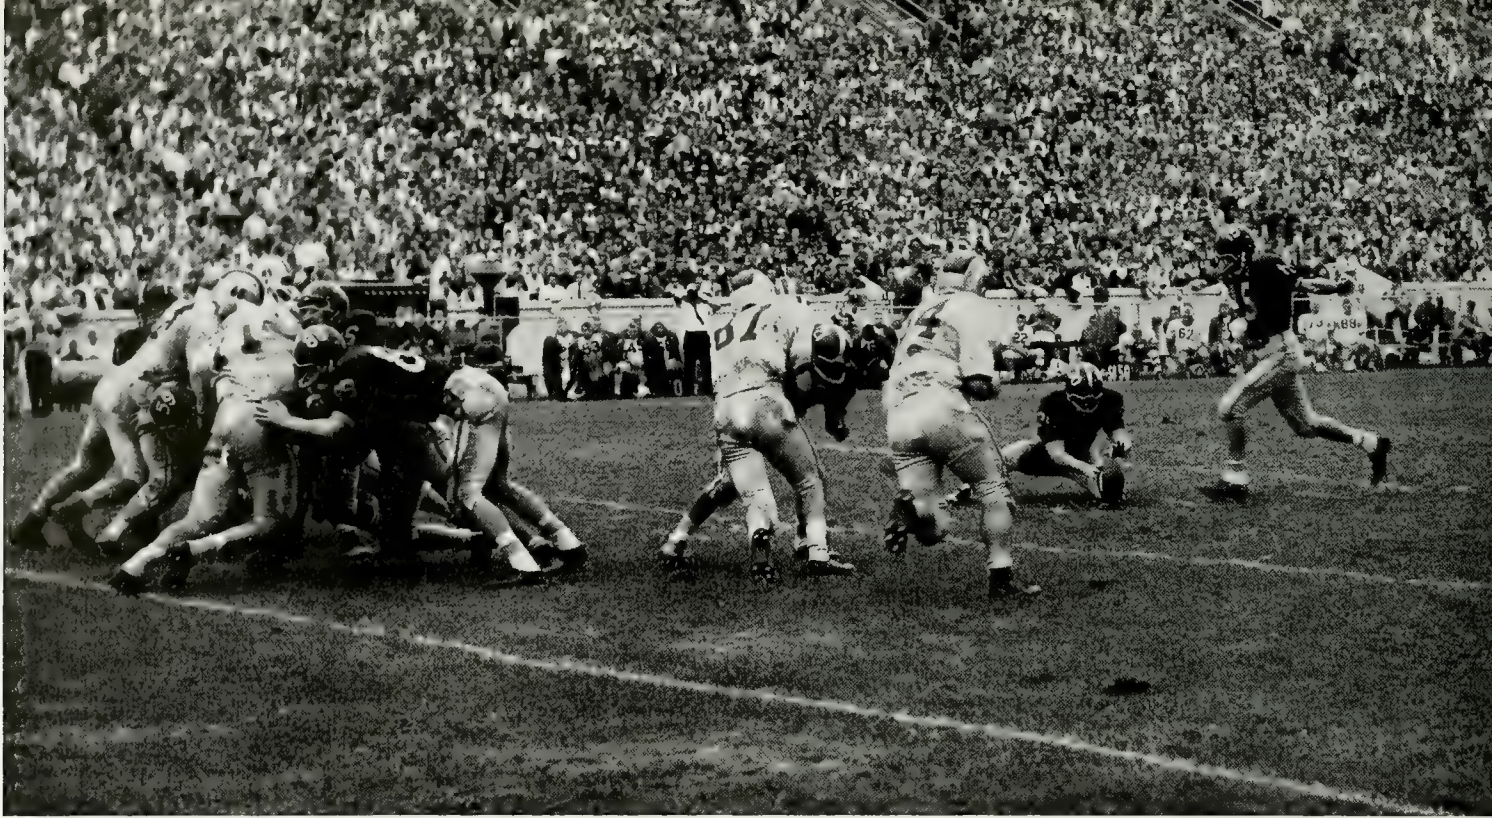

Jones continues his touchdown run which proved to be one of three scored by Willie against OSU.

Purdue shocks Buckeyes, 24-21

Fullback Larry Ferguson of Ohio State is stopped short of a first down by a stout Boilermaker defense.

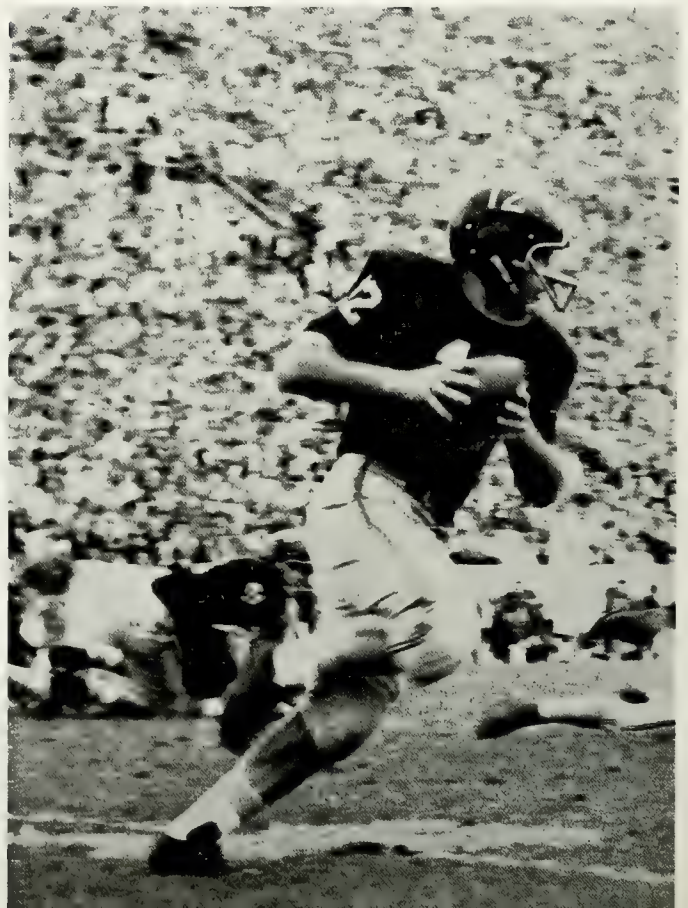

Bernie Allen's talented toe provided the eventual margin with this field goal in the third quarter.

Field Goal, Passing Spark Upset

Purdue out-passed, out-ran, and literally out-played the Buckeyes for one of the biggest upsets of the year. Bernie Allen, Willie Jones, and little Jimmy Tiller, who perhaps played his best game of the season, led the Purdue offense. With bruising line play from the Purdue forward wall paving the way, Willie Jones completely out-charged his All-American counterpart, Bob Ferguson, averaging more than $6\frac{1}{2}$ yards a carry, in addition to scoring three touchdowns. Tiller ran wild, moving the ball more than 80 yards, and Allen added the vital three points with a 32 yard field goal.

Maury Guttman, rolls out to pass to Yakubowski who is completing the pass pattern downfield.

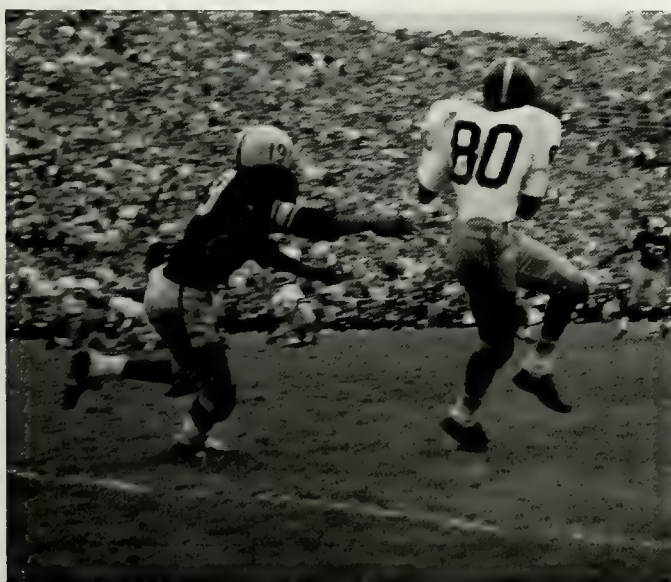

Jimmy Tiller intercepted this would-be touchdown pass on his own 3 yard line, then returned it to the 22.

Purdue Rally Falls Short, 21-14

Bernie Allen completed this third down, sixteen yard pass to Harris, setting up the first score.

Purdue came down the home stretch full tilt to put a scare into Iowa's Homecoming crowd but they fell short, 21-14. A freak fumble with an 80 yard return by Iowa lineman, Dayton Perry, made the score 14-0 at the half; and, when play resumed the Hawkeyes scored another. Two drives of 76 and 92 yards put Purdue back in the game and set up the thrilling finish. Tiller intercepted with 1:33 left in the game. Allen then completed five out of seven passes against the lagging Iowa defense but none of the receivers could break loose, and Purdue's chances died with the clock on the Iowa 42.

Illini End Boilers Home Streak, 14-12

Maury Guttman looks determined as he tries to cut the corner around Wendryski and Rutgens of Illinois.

Sporting a heavy line and the running of halfback Marshall Starks, Illinois came to the Gold and Black Homecoming and wore out their welcome 14-12. Purdue seemed to be in control the first quarter as they battled to a 6-0 lead, but early in the second half the Orange and Blue displayed more desire to score twice with the help of two Stark touchdowns. Purdue engineered a great drive to score late in the second half but Tiller's try for two points with only 1:15 left in the game was stopped well behind the line of scrimmage and the Rivets suffered their first home loss in 13 games.

Dave Miller makes a fine tackle of Illinois end Ed O'Bradovich on the Purdue twenty.

Guttman prepares to pass as Tiller watches while two Spartans, Sanders and Eaton, give chase.

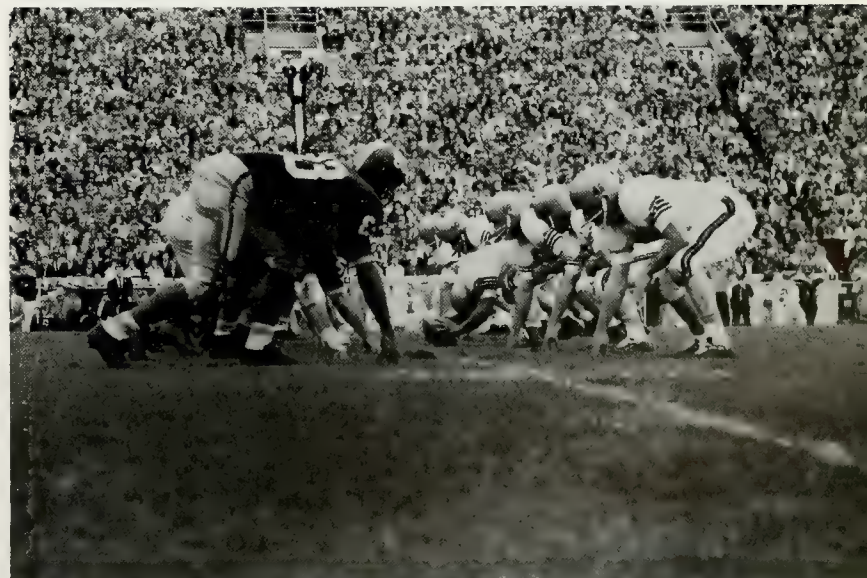

Card Section Charlie gives Chris Ruskin a hand in leading the Card Section in cheers.

Spartans Surprise Purdue 17-13

Purdue drew first blood as alert defenseman Bob Wiater recovered a Spartan fumble on the Rivet 48 yard line. With hard running by Sophomore fullback Roy Walker, Bernie Allen moved the Boilermakers to a 7-0 lead. Early in the second quarter Purdue unerringly drove 80 yards for their second score. A touchdown pass and a field goal quickly placed the Spartans back in the game. Late in the second half Purdue moved within scoring distance three times, but were stopped short by strong defensive stands by the Spartans. A final touchdown march of 99 yards put the Spartans on top 17-13.

The Purdue line with Forest Farmer at defensive right end digs in to stop this MSU drive.

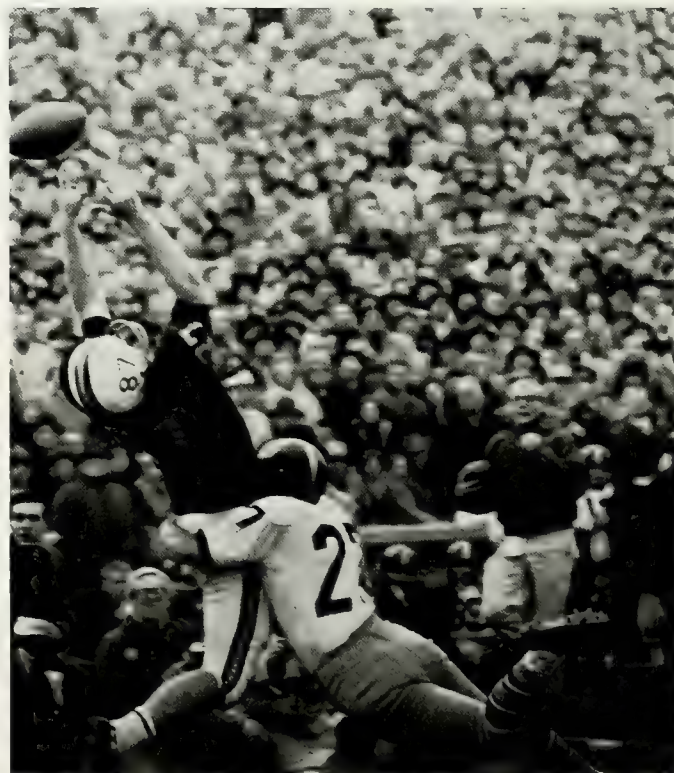

Yakubowski goes over the top as Bobby Bell misses a tackle and Don Brumm rushes Gopher Julian Hook.

Boilers Upset Nation's Best, 23-14

This pass was just out of Dick Larson's reach but Dave Miller wasn't taking any chances.

An inspired Purdue football team left no doubts as to their ability and spirit as they downed the nation's number one team Minnesota. Sparked by the passing of quarterback Bernie Allen and the bull-like running of fullbacks Jones and Yakubowski, the Rivets completely overwhelmed the Golden Gophers. Purdue took the opening kickoff and drove 80 yards for the first touchdown of the game, and at halftime the Boilermakers led 14-0. Minnesota scored twice during the second half to make it 17-14, but they could not overtake the Rivets as Tiller recovered a fumble in the end zone to make it 27-14.

Gopher Hagberg makes a determined effort but Forest Farmer and Maury Guttman stop him at the goal line.

Before an enthralled crowd, sophomore fullback Roy Walker bulls his way to a first down.

Forest Farmer makes a great catch despite the work of these Minnesota defenders.

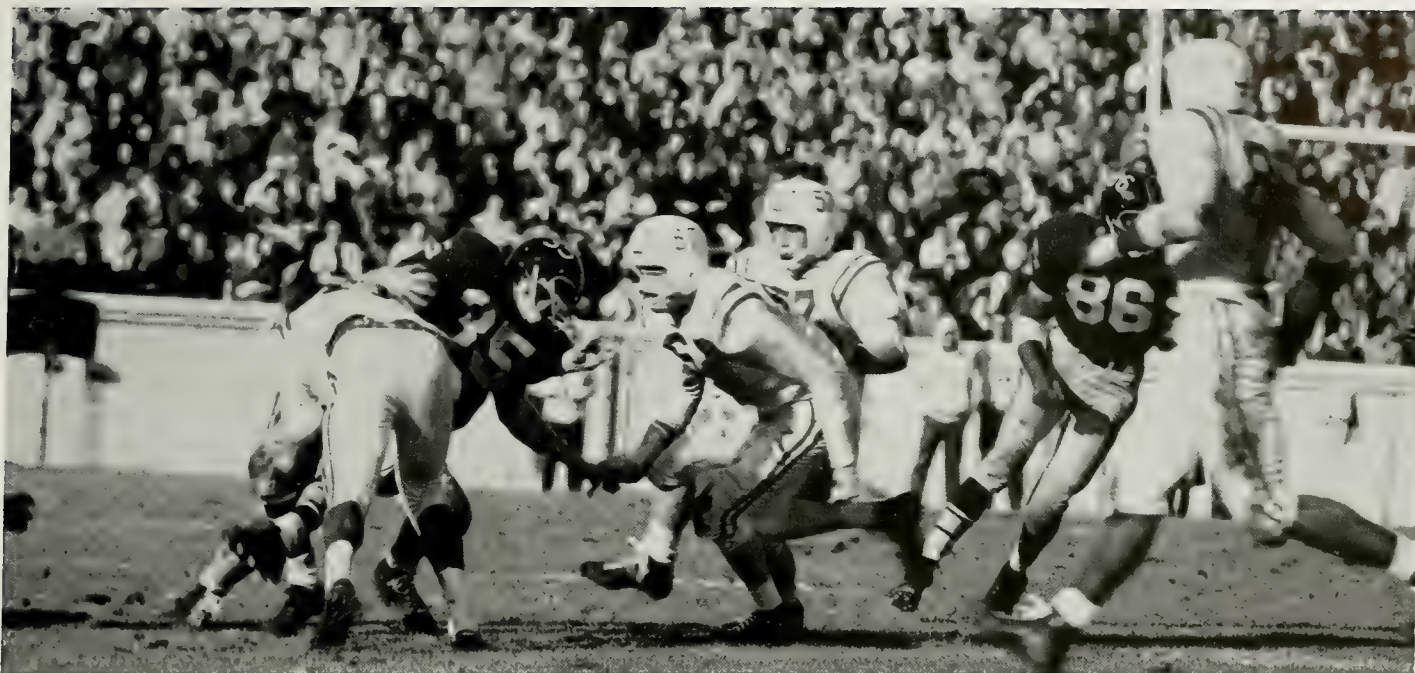

Allen hands off to Jones on a fullback power play which proved very effective against Indiana.

A solid Purdue defense balanced by a hard hitting offense sent Indiana home with one of the worst defeats of their Old Oaken Bucket career. Fullbacks Tom Yakubowski and Willie Jones had a field day with I. U., picking up a combined total of 170 yards for the Rivets. Bernie Allen provided some key passes to Jones, Farmer, Tiller, and Miller to set up scoring opportunities. Brilliant line play by the Rivet defense held Indiana to only 32 yards. Don Brumm, sophomore tackle, blocked a punt to set up another Rivet score. Purdue had a great afternoon beating the hapless Hoosiers, 35-6.

Booters improve season mark

Although Earlham is always a ready foe, the Soccer Club has won its share from the Quakers.

Under the leadership of new Coach Hal Greig, the Purdue soccer team had an average season against tough opposition. Only a limited number of players could make the first three games, and the team lost all of them. They then used an all freshman forward line to beat the University of Chicago for their first win. Although the kickers were badly beaten by St. Louis, the national champs, they came back to end the season with a win over Indiana 4-3 for an over-all record of 4-7. This was an improvement over last year's record, but it should be bettered next year as most starters will return.

The 1960-61 edition of Eddy's roundballers was one of Ray's best since he took over the helm, as only number one ranked Ohio State team stood between them and first in the Big Ten. The season opened slowly but wins over Ball State and highly ranked Detroit started a home game ten win streak. Unfortunately, the Rivets lost two of their last three games for a 16-7 season record and finished the season tied with Iowa for second. It was a good season, especially for the home fans and so to Tim, Bobby, Jerry, Darrell, Terry and all the other men, Boiler fans say "Thanks."

Wrestlers show improvement, place third

Bob Marshall placed first in his division in Big Ten competition for the second straight year.

The Purdue wrestlers finished this year with their best record since 1954, ending the season with a convincing 23-9 triumph over Iowa. Top performers for the Boilermakers this year have been Dominic Fatta, Dick McCory, and Bob Marshall, who was beaten only once during the season. Other varsity performers include Rod Seto, Chip Rose, Dave Gibson, Feltus Leinenweber, Steve Moriarty, and Tim Mongan. The groaners placed a commendable third in the Big Ten meet led by Bob Marshall, the 167 pound winner, McCory at 130 pounds and Dave Gibson at 157 pounds, each placed second.

There were a few bright spots for the Boiler Meremen in their winless season. Against Michigan, last year's Big Ten champs, the tankmen captured firsts in the 400 yard medley and free style relays. Later, against a powerful Northwestern team, the Boilers copped four firsts, only to lose the meet 59-46. John Vogel turned in the best performance by taking diving firsts in all but one of the Big Ten meets. Next year Coach Papenguth looks forward to a much better season since the freshman team has some outstanding prospects. The Splashers placed ninth in the Big Ten meet held at OSU.

Vogel, Kenneth Boehlke. Front Row: Student manager Robert Stockfleth, William White, Capt. Douglas Peklo, Robert Jessee, Richard Reilly, Student manager Jack Klee.

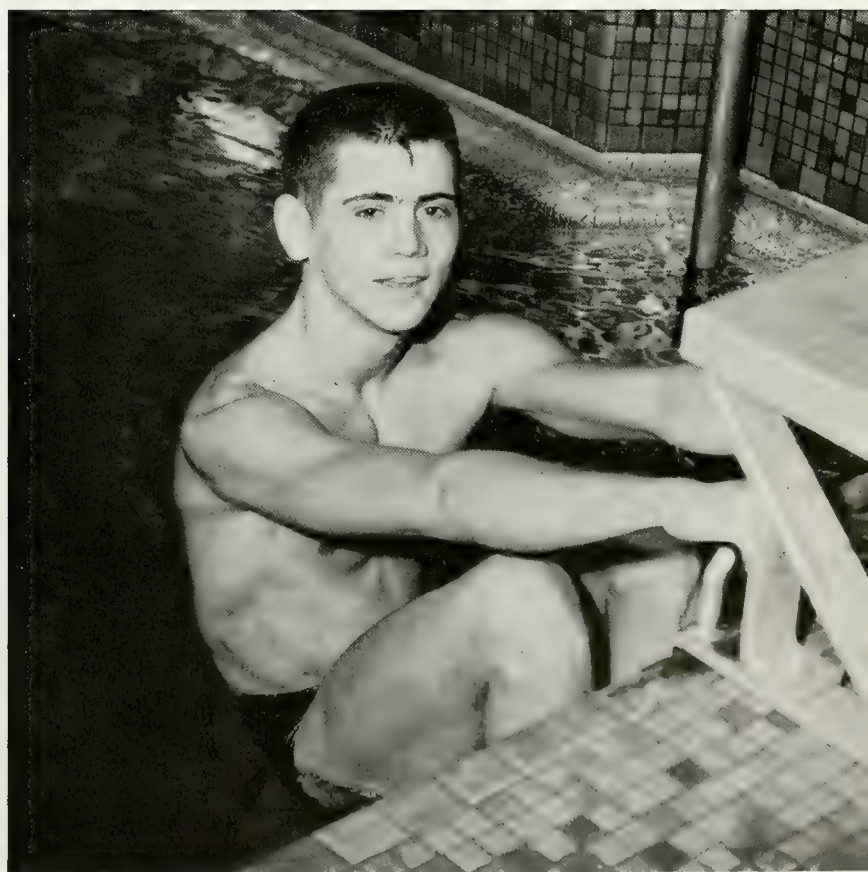

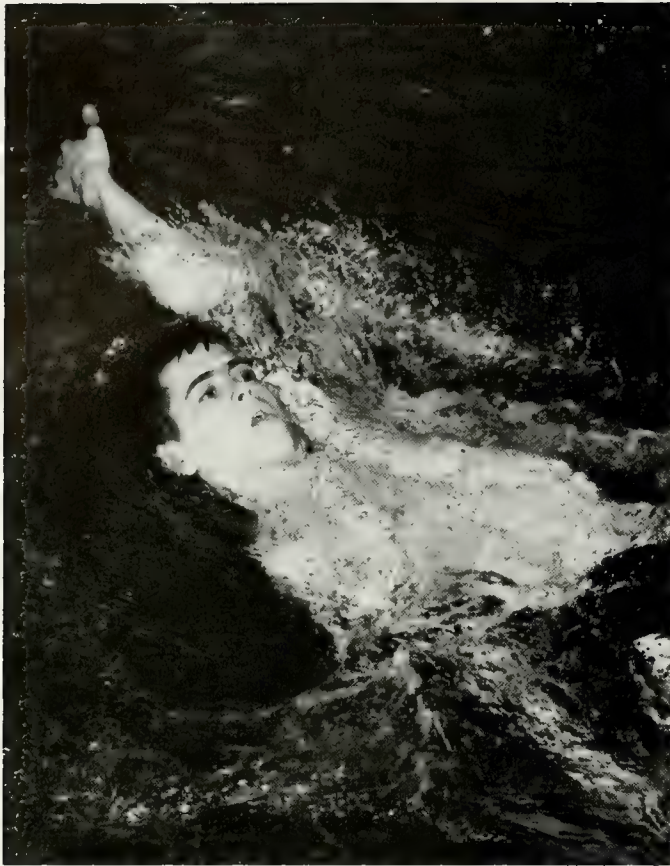

Senior Bob Jessee was the team's representative in the 100 yard sprints; he also anchored both relays.

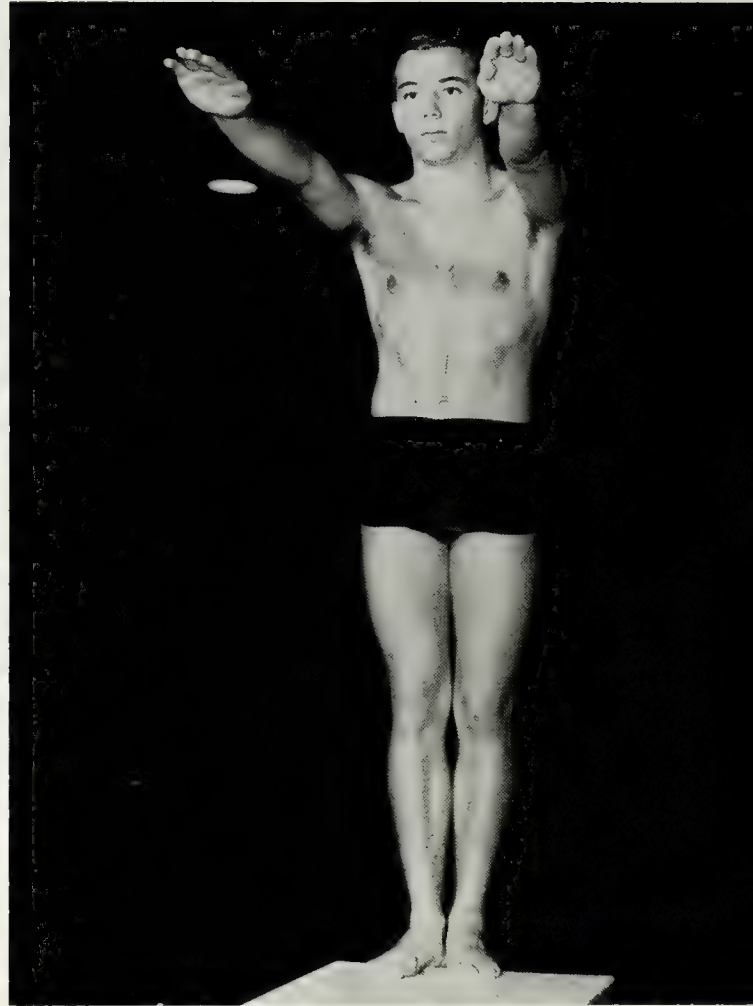

Number one backstroker Sam Williamson will return next year to bolster the team strength.

Purdue's star diver John Vogel shows the superb form that won him fifth place in the Big Ten meet.

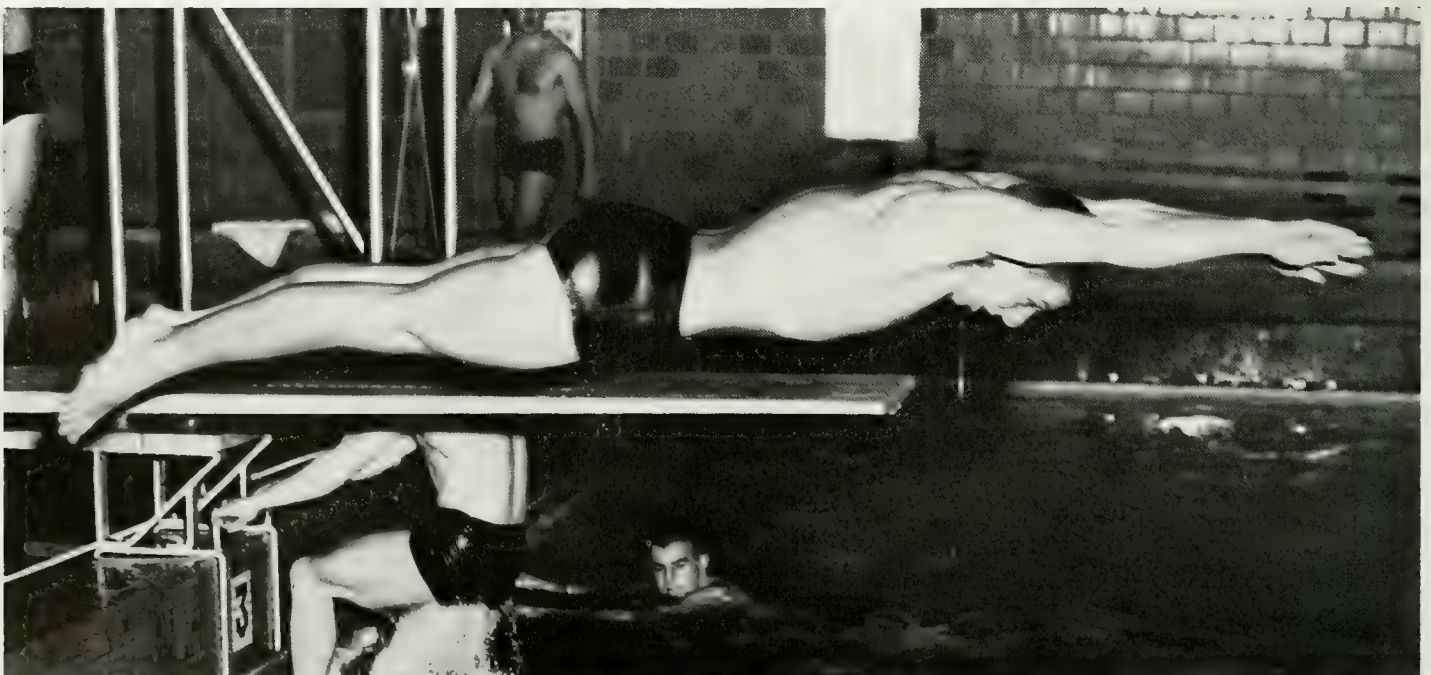

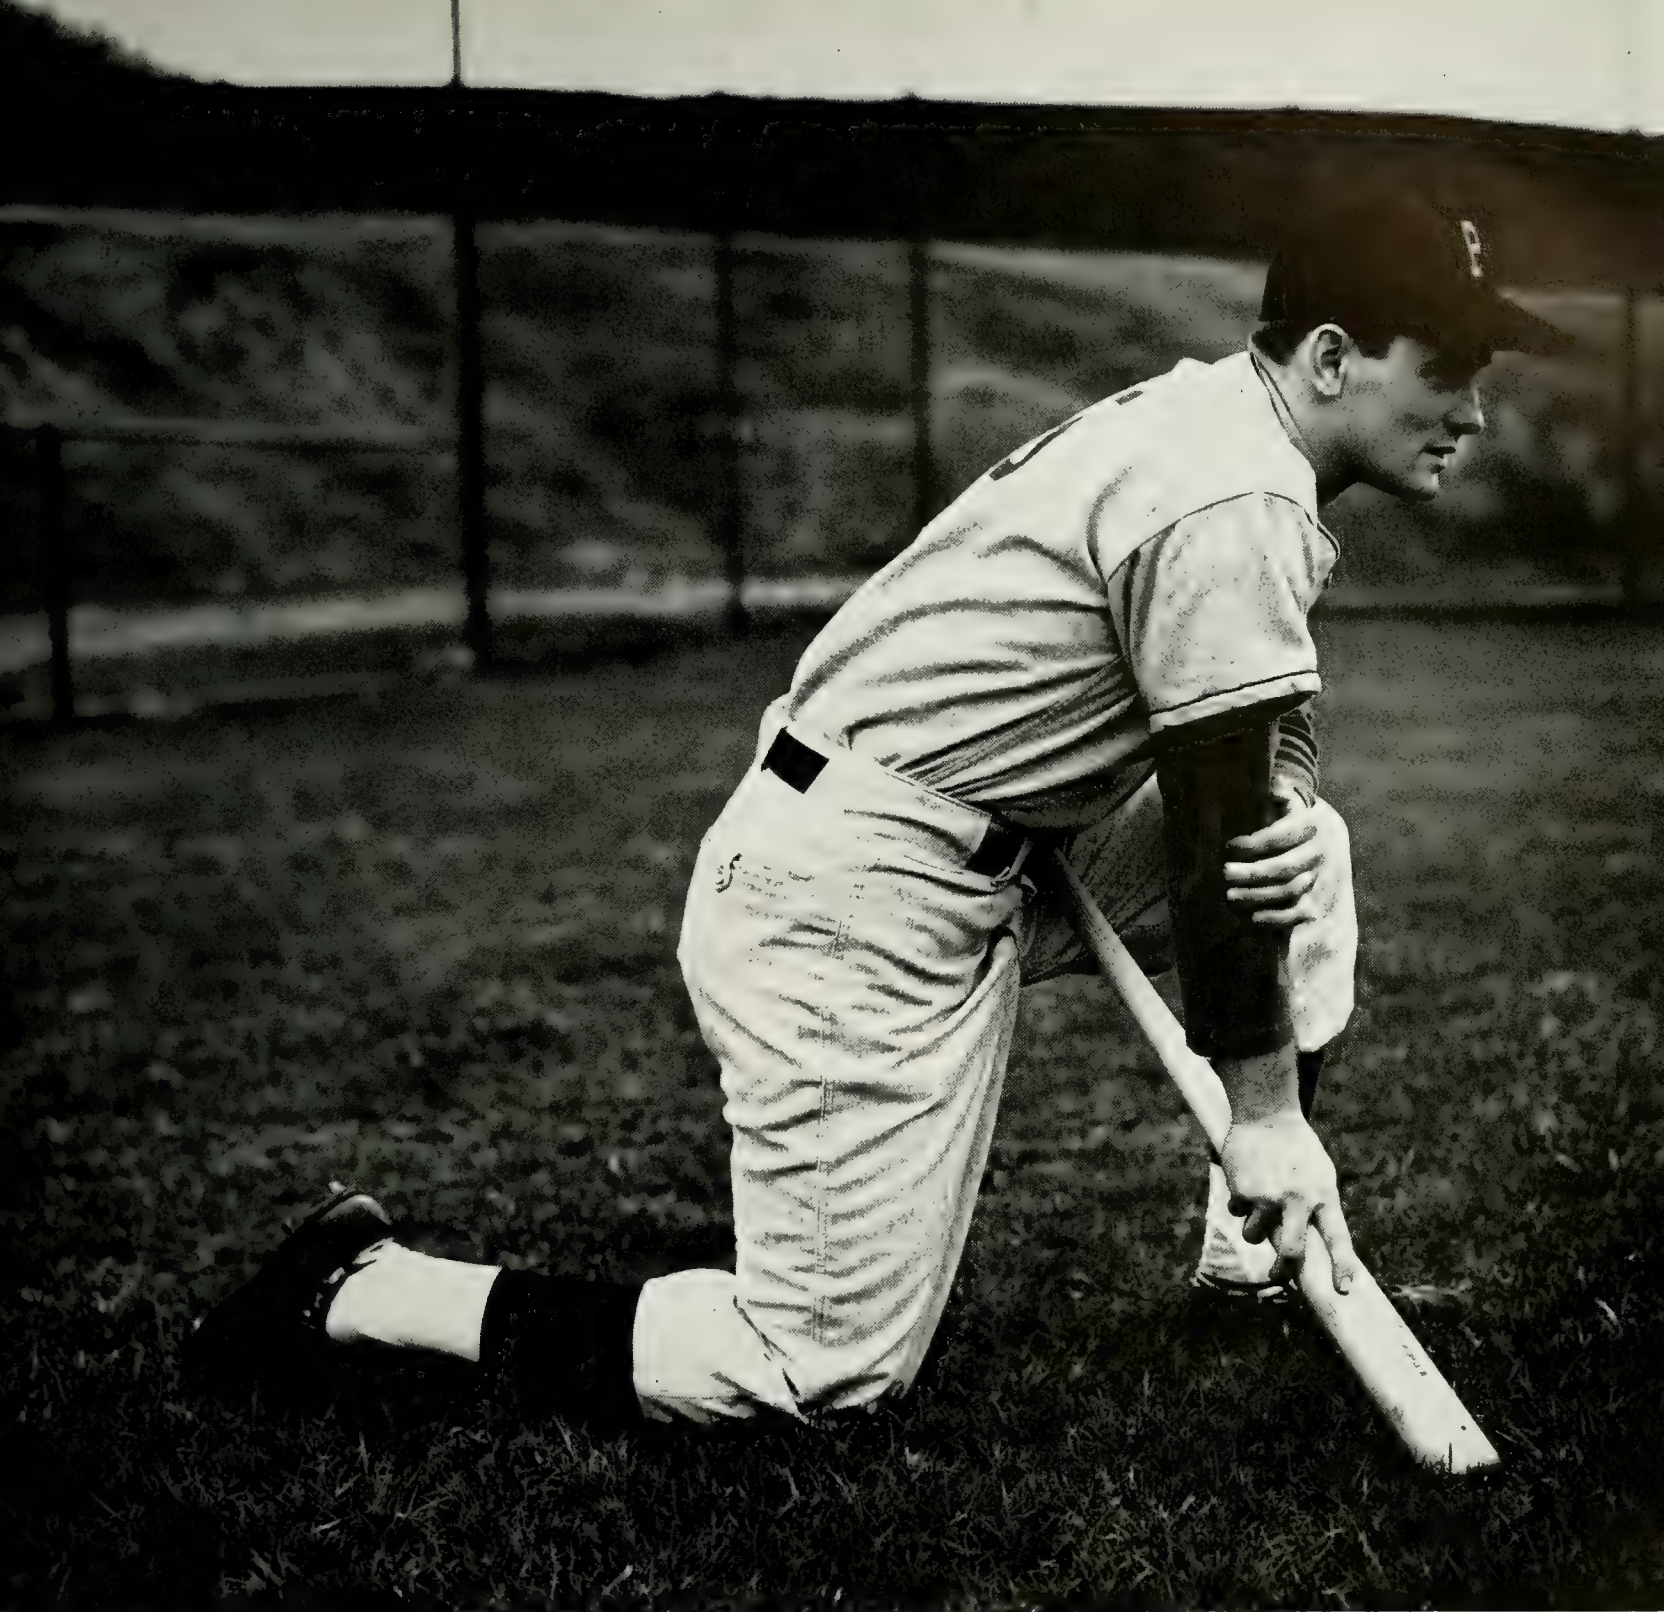

Sam Williamson demonstrates the specialty that made him one of Purdue's top contenders.

One more year of competition awaits Purdue's All-American diver John Vogel.

A good racing dive can cut precious seconds from one's time and Captain Doug Peklo knows it takes practice.

Back Row: Dave Rankin, head coach; Ed Sawicki; John Ackerman; Robert Sherman; David Mills; Wayne Talarzyk; George Harvey; William Enicks; Verdelle Parker, assistant

TRACK

Gracefully clearing the bar, Mike Johnson shows why he was a leading scorer this season.

The Purdue Track team opened their season against the Ball State Cardinals by taking all but two events to win $84 \frac{1}{3}$ to $47 \frac{2}{3}$. In another one of their better showings, the Rivets placed second, behind host Notre Dame in the Big State Meet as Mike Johnson set a Notre Dame Fieldhouse record in the pole-vault of $14-6 \frac{3}{4}$. Although the team was blessed with good individual performances, there was not enough over-all strength to place well in conference running. Harvey, Huffman, Johnson, and Mills all qualified for the Big Ten finals, but Purdue pooled only $12 \frac{1}{2}$ points to place eighth.

Dave Edleman shows fine form in the shot put as a judge records the distances.

Mills nails down second place in the mile relay to place ahead of the Illinois team.

A consistent winner, Johnson took firsts against Ohio State and in the Big Ten indoor meet.

Dave Edleman puts in a good effort as Locke of Michigan and a field judge watch intently.

Versatile Dave Mills, shown here winning a 100 yard dash, set a Purdue record of 47.4 seconds in the 440 this season.

Purdue thin clads build for the future

PURDUE CREW

This year the Crew held its spring practice in Florida; while there they took second place in a triangular meet with two southern teams, Jacksonville University and Jacksonville Marines. Coach Davidson's oarsmen returned to Purdue and were defeated by a strong Wayne State team. In a match with Wisconsin, the Badgers were victorious, but our Crew made a strong showing. In May, the Crew reorganized its constitution and patterned it after the stronger eastern teams in the hopes that this would help to make rowing a varsity sport at Purdue. The Crew again showed its growing strength at the Dad Vail Regatta where they attained a very commendable third in this meet which includes some of the nation's rowing powers. The most significant event of the Dad Vail Regatta was the Purdue victory over Rollins College, a team which had beaten them in Florida during spring practice.

The crew's goal is to attain varsity sport recognition such as that enjoyed by Wisconsin.

Long practice sessions in both the fall and spring improve the crew's effectiveness as a team.

First baseman George Graff shouts encouragement to the base runner in a close play at first against Notre Dame.

Destined for the fence is Clyde Washington's smash hit during a Big Ten game against the Iowa Hawkeyes.

A Michigan batter swings hopefully as catcher Joe McCabe snags another Purdue strike.

Back Row: Joseph Sexson, head coach; Gerald Zubak, Chicago, Ill.; Allen Laya, Chicago, Ill.; William Wrona, Chicago, Ill.; Lee Featherstone, Worth, Ill.; John Danaher, Lafayette, Ind.; John Weber, Anderson, Ind.; Gerald Lawlis, Indianapolis, Ind.; George Dickison, assistant trainer. Second Row: Ray Schalk, assistant coach; David Alexander, Indianapolis, Ind.; William Winter, Edwardsville, Ill.; Charles Holle, In-

BASEBALL

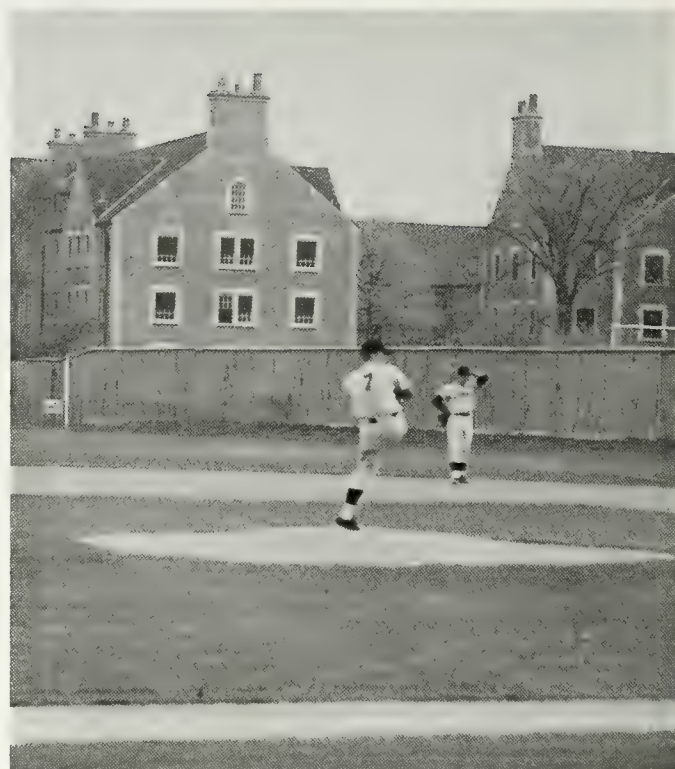

In his first year as head baseball coach, Joe Sexson proved a popular and successful mentor.

Eight lettermen returned including five pitchers, to bolster the baseball outlook last spring. Joe Sexson, acting in his first year as head coach, was able to post a respectable record against the opposition, if not the weatherman. After a nonconference series of warm ups in which the Boilers lost to Ball State and trounced Wabash, they moved into Big Ten play. In a slow start against Michigan State, eight Purdue errors were too much to overcome as the Boilers lost 9-2. Next the Rivets split with Michigan, beat Illinois, lost two more to the Illini and then beat the Iowa Hawkeyes to give them a 3-4 Big Ten record. Between the Michigan and the Illinois games, seven games were rained out including six conference games. The climax of the season came when Purdue defeated Big Ten leader and nationally ranked Minnesota in the lead off of a twin-bill and in the second game, tied 7-7 in six innings. The team, led by Most Valuable Player Joe McCabe and star pitcher Jack Helmkamp, earned a 4-4-1 Big Ten record and a 12-8-1 over-all record.

In a losing effort, Lee Featherstone pitches a strike past a frustrated Notre Dame batsman.

A pre-game warm up is a necessity for one of Purdue's ace pitchers, Jack Helmkamp.

Notre Dame's third base coach holds up the pitcher as Bernie Allen completes a double play from second.

Lee Featherstone is stopped short on his attempt for first by a quick throw from the pitcher.

Swinging for the 340 ft. mark, Gerald Zubak tips a high pitch past the Hawkeye catcher.

The throw and a close decision as Joe McCabe tries unsuccessfully for third in the Michigan game.

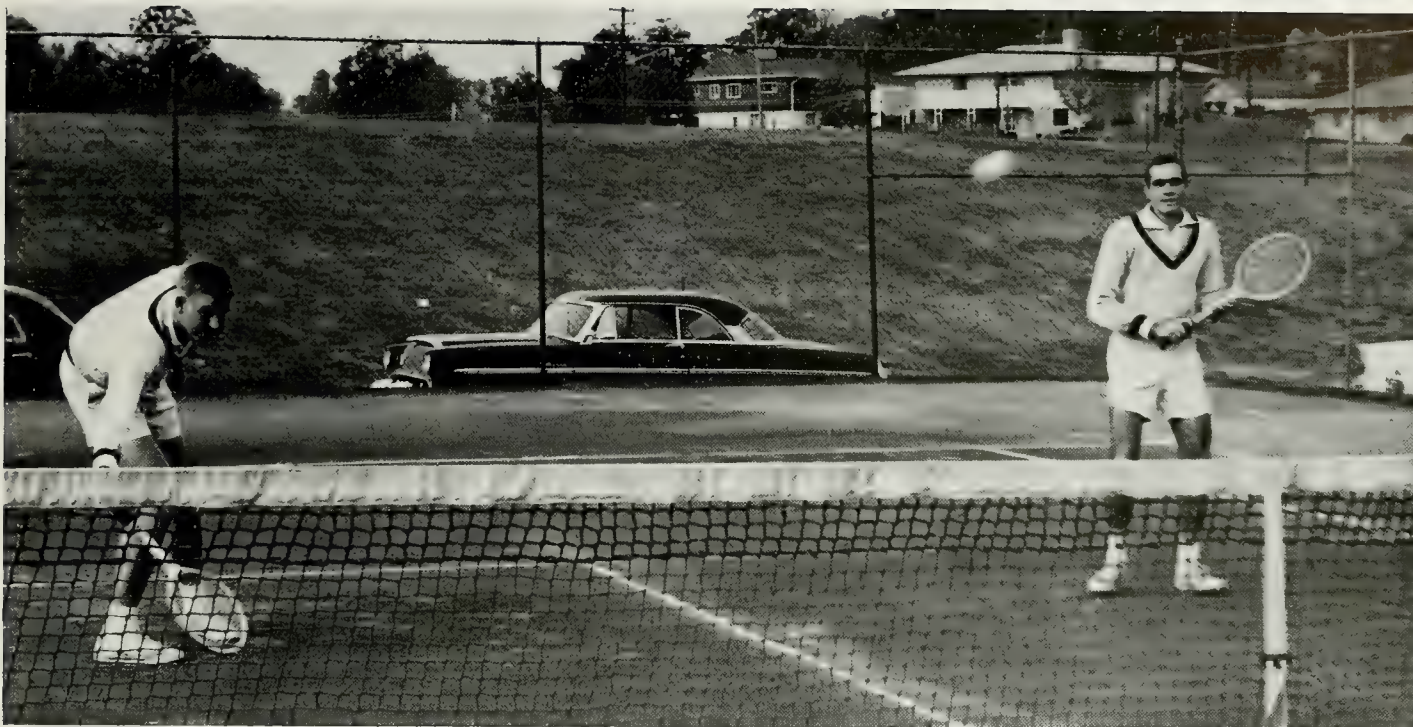

Back Row: Larry LaBree, coach, John Buckman, Bill Johnson, Bill McIndoo, Dan Kinsey, student manager. Front Row: Bill Tomlinson, Dick Berg, Jack Reynolds, Bob Berg.

Dick and Bob Berg often teamed up as doubles partners to their opponents' discomfort.

Bill Johnson and Jack Reynolds provided the opposition for many of the visiting doubles.

TENNIS

Bill Tomlinson takes on a serious expression as he serves in a crucial singles match.

Golf gains much of the attention in the spring, but the tennis team is always very much in evidence. The 1960 tennis squad had only three returning lettermen, Bill Tomlinson and Dick and Bob Berg; therefore underclassmen were competing for the starting positions. Purdue won their first victory over a hapless Butler 6-1, but then lost to a strong University of Cincinnati team 7-2. Ending the year, Purdue placed eighth in the Big Ten meet held at Northwestern. Although the team didn't fare well this year, most of the men will return for next year's squad promising a better season.

Jack Thorington, Ron Hronchek, and Steve Rickleman enjoy playing together for off season practice.

GOLF

Mark Darnell, who will be back for two more seasons, watches his shot off the fifth tee.

John Konsek led in the Big State meet against Indiana and Notre Dame, scoring 73-72-145.

Back Row: Coach Sam Voinoff, Tom Brown, Ron Hronchek, Jerry Jackson, Mark Darnell. Front Row: Walter Samuels, Bob Black, John Konsek, Gene Francis.

The golf outlook was very promising this year with All-Americans Francis and Konsek returning from the 1959 Big Ten championship team. The optimistic picture was soon clouded when the Rivets were upset in their opening match against Indiana. Fortunately this proved to be one of only two setbacks, and they finished the season with a 13-2-3 record. In the Big Ten meet, Purdue's team took first for the third straight year, and for the sixth time in the last eight years, winning by eleven strokes. The Boilers were led by John Konsek, who for the third consecutive year took medalist honors.

Gene Francis, capable number two man, qualified for the U. S. Open with a 69-71-140.

Men's Intramurals boast active competition

Purdue's Co-Recreational gym facilities offer a great variety of athletics. Men's Intramurals takes advantage of all these facilities as numerous sports are offered in the intramural leagues formed among the men's residences. Sports which have the greatest participation are basketball, swimming, and track. To provide incentive for team competition, an intramural sports trophy is awarded in each league at the end of the year. These trophies are awarded on a point basis for each sport. Thus the team having the greatest number of points in each league is awarded the Championship Trophy.

These men find the Co-Rec archery range a pleasant place to spend Saturday afternoons.

It looks like a sure two points as the ATOs and the Sigs prepare for the rebound.

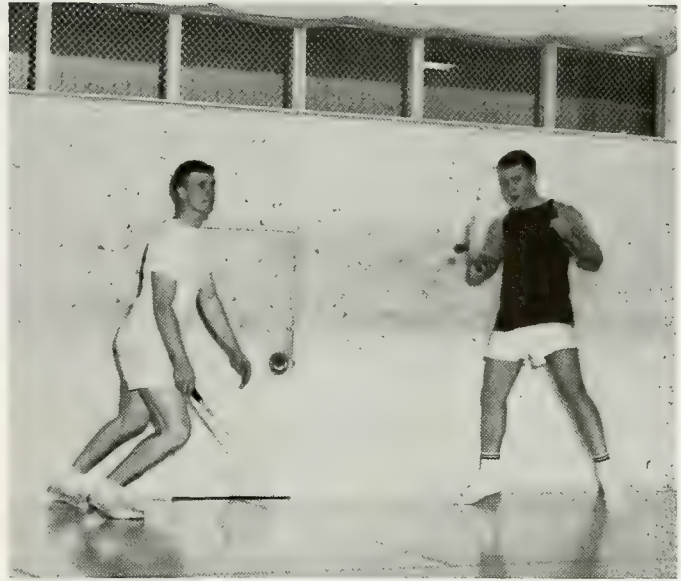

Overheard in the weight lifting room:
Would you mind lifting that weight off of my foot?

Women participate in Co-Rec activities

Women's intramural sports provide entertainment for more than one-half of Purdue's coeds. Some of the sports in which the women are engaged include the regular seasonal sports such as swimming, golf, basketball, archery, softball, baseball, volleyball, and tennis, as well as a few in a slightly different vein, such as dance and fencing. Points are awarded for first, second, and third places as well as for the number of women participating. At the end of the year, the housing unit with the highest point total in all sports is presented with the traveling intramural Championship trophy.

Squash is one of the many popular sports enjoyed by students at the Co-Rec Gymnasium.

An active volleyball game at the Co-Rec shows that the co-eds too are interested in intramurals.

"Do-Si-Do" became a familiar sound from the Co-Rec this year as students learned square dancing.

fraternities

The Presidents' Council, which is the executive body of the Interfraternity Council, is composed of the president of each fraternity which is recognized by Purdue University and the IFC. They accomplish their business at bi-monthly dinner meetings which are held at the different fraternity houses throughout the entire school year. Some of the purposes of this organization are to further fraternity relationships, to unify fraternity action, and to aid in co-operation between the University and the individual fraternity. This organization has the final word in all decisions relating to the fraternities.

Denny Hykes, president of IFC Presidents' Council, visits with Stan Shaw, the advisor to fraternities.

The Acacias started the year with a reception for new foreign students. The reception, the first of its type at Purdue, proved very educational. The high point of Homecoming weekend was the dedication of the new chapter house which was attended by several Acacia national officers and various University officials. They were active in athletics finishing second on the campus in intramural basketball. Another event of the year was their Tri-Fraternity dance held with the boy Pi Phis and the AGRs. To end the year in style, they worked diligently on their entry for the Go-Kart Grand Prix.

ACACIA

"A Night in Hades" was the theme of the winter costume dance held by the men of Acacia.

Winning one hundred dollars from the National Scholarship Fund for being above average was a surprise for the AXP's. Projects included hosting for the National fraternity Mid-West Conclave last year and constructing their "Smash-em" booth for the Penny Carnival which was a big hit among the students. Scheduled for this year were the pledge dance with its calypso theme, and winter and spring formals. In spite of these enjoyable activities, the AXP's still had sufficient time to study which was proven by the fact that they ranked in second place scholastically on the campus this year.

ALPHA EPSILON PI

The quartet at the AEPi house provides many happy hours of listening for the brothers.

"It's a raid" were the words heard during the "roaring twenties" pledge party that the AEPis held this year. The house was decorated in somber black to represent a funeral home. Music was provided by Paul Kenny's band and the guests were entertained by a pledge skit and stunts. The annual Beatnik party was again successful and, during the football season, they were hosts for the Homecoming Banquet and a "Bucket Dance." Another enjoyable event was Winter Wonderland, the skiing and skating party held when the appropriate weather arrived. The year closed with the annual spring formal.

Beginning their fiftieth year of college life and activities, Alpha Gamma Rho chapter celebrated its anniversary this spring with a vow to make the next half-century just as vigorous. This year was filled with such events as the joint Homecoming Dance with three other fraternities, the annual faculty dinner for Purdue staff alumni, a sister and mother banquet held in the spring, and various dances. The AGR's also enjoyed participating in activities, Purdue's chapter was awarded, for the second consecutive year, the Alpha Gamma Rho National Activity Award.

ALPHA KAPPA LAMBDA

Many hours of planning and work went into the production of the ACP Homecoming sign.

Drawing on new ideas gleaned from the National Conclave in Colorado, the seven officers of Alpha Kappa Lambda planned various events for the 1960-61 academic year. Beginning the year with the pledge dance, they selected a theme of "Riverboat Ride." The AKLs then entertained scholars over the all men's average with a steak dinner; however, those under the average were treated to a bean dinner. Activities included an athletic contest with the "brothers" from Ohio State and Illinois, which was played the day of Purdue's football game with each of these universities. Nevertheless, members still found time to pursue the most noble of collegiate endeavors—studying!

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

This year the Alpha Sigma Phis started with trade dinners held with Zeta Tau Alpha and Ann Tweedale. As Thanksgiving vacation neared, they celebrated with a Huntsmens' Picnic at which they served bear, rabbit, and deer. Also, in the fall, they improved the appearance of their house by painting many places on both the inside and outside and building a new back porch. During the Christmas season, they went caroling with Ann Tweedale. The prize for the ugliest dog was awarded to their mascot in the Phi Mu Kanine Kapers. The year ended with their annual Black and White dinner dance.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

The ATOs do a little polishing in order to make a good impression during rush.

In order to promote neighborhood relations, the ATO's were hosts for the annual Block Party held in the fall with the DG's and the TKE's. "They'll Be Drowning their Sorrows in Champagne" was the slogan of their Homecoming sign which won first place in the competition. This year a new member was added to their house, a Bassett hound called Snoopy. The ATO's were hosts for a Smoker for all alums within a one hundred mile radius of the campus. To add incentive to other houses on campus, the ATO's sponsor a Help Week and offer a Christmas decorating trophy.

As a result of a stressed scholarship program, the Beta Sigma Psis emerged fifth among the fraternities and won the IFC Scholarship Improvement trophy for the second time. They had time for more than just studies. The house social program was enlivened by a pledge dance, a Christmas party for Lafayette children with Vawter Hall and the Winter Formal. Things were equally successful in the spring when they held the annual Gold Rose Ball, a spring formal which is held at every chapter of Beta Sigma Psi. They spent many hours practicing for the annual Batt Boat Race, and the effort was rewarded when their boat placed.

The Betas made several improvements in their house this year. They painted both inside and outside, enlarged their telephone system by adding two numbers and three new instruments, added a new hi-fi and stereo set, and relandscaped the whole front yard. Socially, they started off with a hay ride in the fall. At Christmas time, the Betas and Pi Phis held a party for underprivileged children from the local Lafayette area. Later they held their annual Orchid formal, their winter dance. As the end of the year approached, they participated with the Phi Delts and the Sigs in the annual Miami triad.

BETA THETA PI

The Betas wanted to take a ride in the Hack, but discovered it needed some work done on it.

DELTA CHI

"Isolate Them Both" meaning Castro and the Illini, was the slogan of the 1960 Delta Chi Homecoming sign which won third place. In order to help the underprivileged children of the Lafayette area, they sponsored a Christmas party with gifts and a dinner. The second annual Housemothers' Bridge Tournament was held again this year at the Delta Chi house. Mrs. Patton, the Delta Chi housemother was instrumental in its conception. When they returned from Christmas vacation, they were surprised to find their living room redecorated. As the spring season approached, they were ready to end the year with their spring formal.

In order to keep the Delta Chi house in order, the pledges put in a few hours of work.

DELTA SIGMA PHI

The Delta Sigs find it enjoyable to listen to records on the stereo after dinner.

The men of Delta Sigma Phi were very ambitious this fall, for they came back to school early and painted the entire house. One of their special parties was a Sailors' Ball. Their house was decorated as a Sea Pot Tavern. Other functions included a hayride with the Sigma Kappas, a wiener roast and a square dance. The actives were proud of their pledge class who easily won the IFC scholarship award. With some extra money they had saved, the house bought a new stereo and TV console. At Christmas time a festive dance was held in the house, and in the spring the Carnation Ball was held at the Trails.

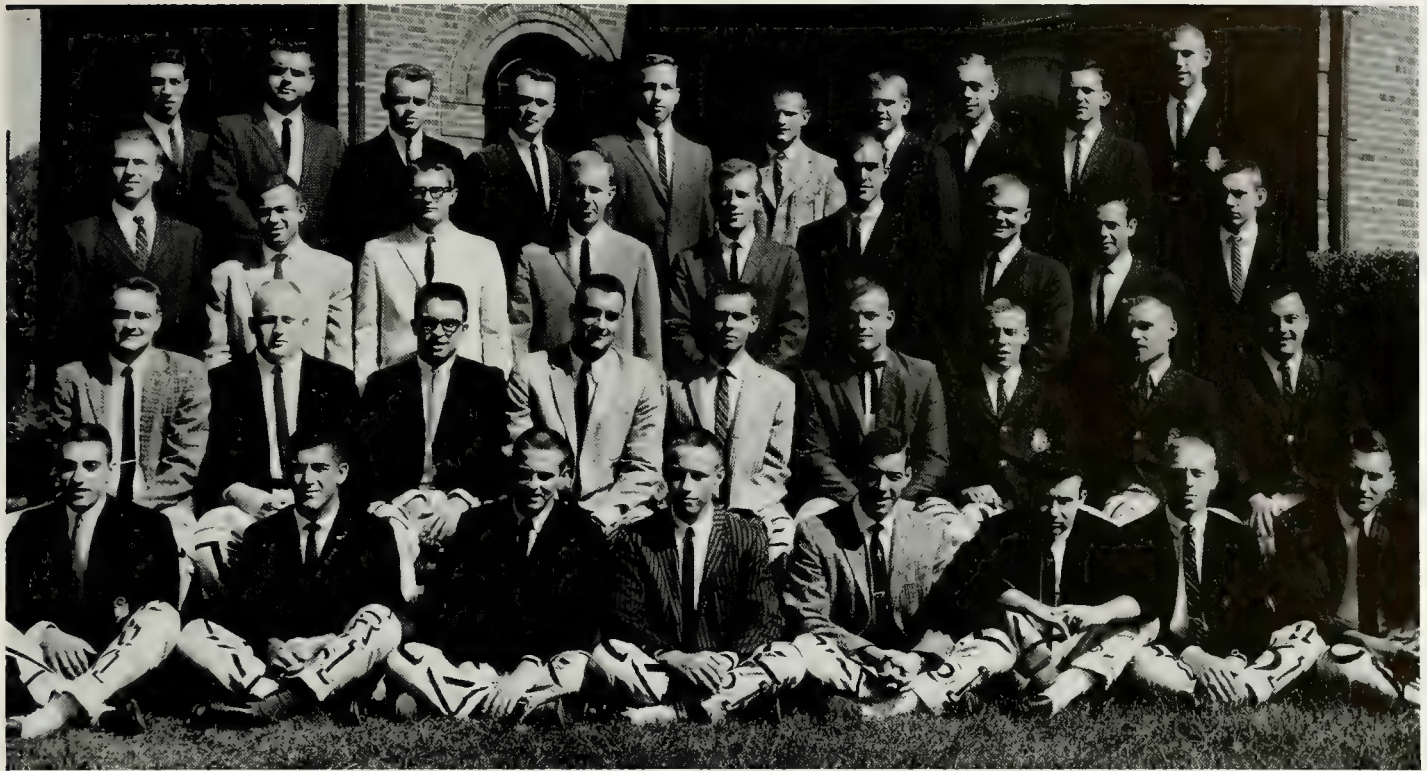

While maintaining a better than average scholastic record this year, the Delts have spent plenty of time enjoying the extracurricular phases of Purdue's atmosphere. For the third consecutive year they went undefeated in the regular season intramural softball competition, being defeated only in the playoffs. They teamed with Delta Gamma Sorority to win Co-Rec volleyball and also worked hard in track. Social affairs included trade parties with Phi Mu and Chi Omega, and an autumn house dance built around an oriental theme. They presented the Delta Queen trophy during their spring formal.

Coming back to a dusty, vacant house, the actives and pledges soon had the DU house ready for another year. The Roaring Twenty's dance kicked off the social year. The active-pledge basketball game provided keen competition—actives winning 79-66. The winter formal offered a relief near the end of a semester's drive for good grades. With a good first semester behind, the DUs settled down to studies again. Spring in the air meant the approach of State Day. The Purdue chapter was well represented and took a first in the singing contest. The graduation of fifteen seniors marked the close of the house for another summer.

DELTA UPSILON

The DUs make their living room more spacious for rush by rearranging their furniture.

FARMHOUSE

Purdue's chapter of Farmhouse fraternity swung into the spotlight as they won two national awards this fall. Besides earning the Chapter Achievement Trophy, based on overall chapter accomplishments during 1958-1960, they also gained the President's Trophy, which is awarded on the basis of participation at the National Farmhouse Biennial Conclave. On campus, Farmhouse again regained the IFC Scholarship trophy, after a four-semester "leave of absence." Their second semester index of 4.79 was high enough to make their two semester average index the highest for the school year among all fraternities.

The men of Farmhouse find after-dinner reading and chatting enjoyable as well as educational.

KAPPA DELTA RHO

Many couples enjoyed the music of the Tune Toppers at the Kappa Delta Rho Jazz Festival.

Kappa Delta Rho opened their social season with the annual Embassy Ball held in the fall. The gala event was enhanced by some "ambassadors" appearing in top hats and "tails" with their ladies displaying jeweled tiaras. Also, their pledge class won first prize for their one hundred percent attendance at the JIFC pledge dance last fall, thereby adding one more LP to the record library. Again, Kappa Delta Rho honored their neighbors from Hills and Dales with an afternoon tea held in the spring. They closed the year with their presentation of a successful Jazz Festival with ZTA.

When school opened for the fall semester, the Kappa Sigs were anxiously awaiting many exciting events to come during the year. In the fall, they took part in the "Island Fling" with the Phi Psis, DUs, Delta Chis, and the Pi Kappa Phis. They held their annual pledge dance in October which had a theme depicting New Orleans. Later in the fall, they worked diligently on a Homecoming sign which consisted of an elaborate and realistic rendition of a western town. The Pearl Formal, which is an annual event, was held with Chi Omega sorority. These events helped to round out another successful year for the Kappa Sigs.

For Lambda Chi Alpha, this year has been beneficial as well as enjoyable, as is traditionally expected. They were delighted to find a newly redecorated house when they returned this fall. A fire in the fireplace provided an excellent background for some of the cold weather activities which included a winter house party and a senior wood cutting party. They participated in Varsity Varieties with Chi Omega Sorority. An Easter Egg Hunt for the children of the Lafayette area was held. They worked to place once again in the University Sing competition, and, by doing so, finished the year in good style.

PHI DELTA THETA

Fraternity living is explained by two Phi Delts to a rushee during one of their smokers.

To start off the year, the Phi Delts won the Silver Star Award at the fraternity's National Convention which was held in Houston, Texas. The formal dedication of the house was held early in December, with several hundred alumni and fraternity officers in attendance. With the snow came the Christmas formal, which was remembered long after the snows left the ground. In the spring, the Phi Delts assembled by the hundreds, as Purdue's Indiana Theta Chapter played host to the annual Phi Delta Theta State Day. With the coming of spring, they looked back on a year which was very successful, enjoyable, and profitable.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

Christmas time finds the Phi Gams adding the finishing touches to their house before holiday parties.

The Beta Graduate Trophy, which is awarded to the most outstanding chapter of Phi Gamma Delta in Indiana, was won this year by the Purdue chapter. The Beta Graduate Trophy, which is awarded to the most outstanding chapter of Phi Gamma Delta in Indiana, was won this year by the Purdue chapter. However, winning the trophy did not consume all their time as they still were active socially. This year, the Figis gave their annual underprivileged children's party, the Christmas dinner-dance at the Trails, and the Purple Garter Pledge party and dance. The biennial Jeff Hop, a formal dance at the Palms, was given with the Phi Psis.

The Indiana Delta of Phi Psi began the year by reviving an old tradition. Together with the other fraternities from the island, the Phi Psis gave an Island Fling. An all campus party, the Fling featured a dance band on the Phi Psi's parking lot. The men of Phi Psi set the pace in intramural sports when the fall golfers won the intramural golf championship for the second consecutive year. On the first weekend in December the pledge dance was held and the fall pledge class transformed the house into a "Roaring Twenties Speak-easy." Christmas brought a party with the Thetas for underprivileged children of the Lafayette area.

After their National Convention at French Lick, the Skulls returned to campus ready for another busy year. Homecoming proved to be most enjoyable and, following this, the first house social function was a dinner dance at the Lafayette Country Club. At Christmas time, they held a caroling party with the Zetas, an underprivileged childrens' party, the house dance, and gained first place with their unique outdoor decorations. A ski lodge party, an all campus open house in honor of their newly redecorated dining room, intramural activities, and the spring formal completed the year.

Holiday time is here, and the Skulls find it fun to wrap Christmas packages with their dates.

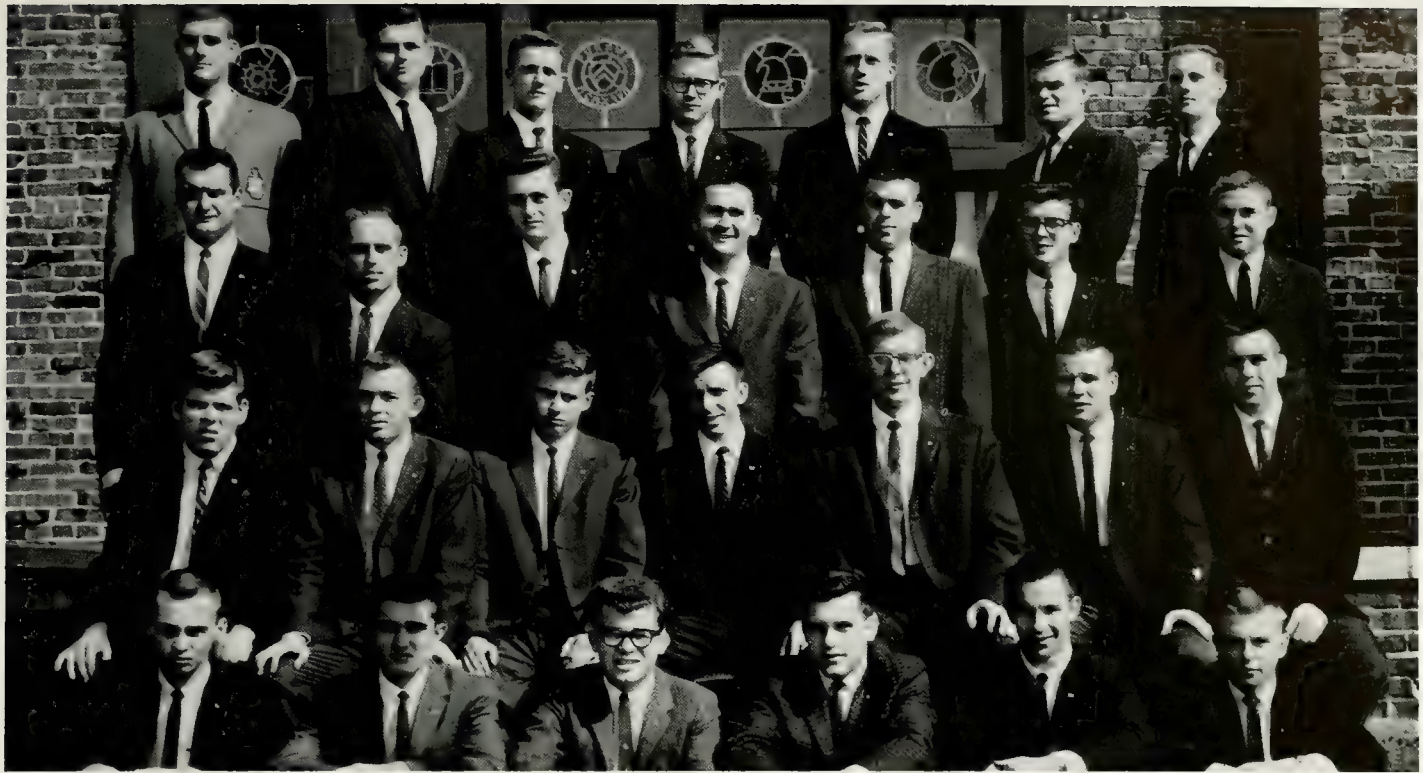

PHI KAPPA TAU

Socially, the Phi Taus presented a continental air as they held their strikingly foreign French waterfront party. The pledges distinguished themselves with the "Rambler" and "Lots of Pep" themes for the rally signs. Their presentation of the winter formal was the high spot of the holiday season. The annual Christmas party was again held with the Chi Os. Spring activities included Penny Carnival, the Grand Prix, Mothers' Day, and vacationing south of the Mason-Dixon line. The Dream Girl formal brightened the spring season with its romantic setting. May found everyone making a last minute push for those all-important grades.

PHI KAPPA THETA

Rough-housing at the Phi Kappa
Theta house ends with a few of the brothers in the showers.

This year started for the Phi Kappa Thetas as their dog, Ruffles, won the "Best Dressed Dog" trophy at the Phi Mu "Kanine Kapers." A few weeks later, the chapter house was transformed into a Fantasy Land castle for the annual fall pledge dance, "Babes in Toyland." Following this gala event, the Purdue chapter played the Indiana chapter and beat them in a game of touch football. The Christmas party for needy children helped put all the brothers into the true Christmas spirit. Studying, Greek Week, and their "Sweetheart Formal," which was held at the Palms, all helped make the spring as busy as the fall semester.

When the Phi Sigs returned last September, they found their small puppy mascot, Thor, had blossomed into a nearly grown German shepherd. Later that month, they held the first annual Phi Sig Melon Fest, featuring the Salty Dogs. A lot of watermelon was served by the Chi Omega pledge class before a sudden shower disrupted the afternoon's festivities. During Homecoming weekend, the lads from 302 Waldron celebrated their fiftieth year on the Purdue campus. With Miss Linda Wright of Pi Beta Phi reigning over the annual Moonlight Girl Formal, the Phi Sigs capped another year which was very successful in all ways.

The new white paint put on the house during the summer brightened the spirits of the returning Pi KAs and set the tone for the school year. An extensive redecoration program, including painting of all ceilings and halls and new furniture for the living room, was completed in time for a successful pledging ceremony which was held in February. The Pikes were hosts for many a party and informal dance during the year, and took dates to a South Sea Island hotel opening at their fall house dance. Their Dream Girl Formal, in April, was another high spot of a highly successful year for the men of Pi Kappa Alpha.

The Pikes enjoyed having their pinwomen as waitresses for one of their Wednesday night dinners.

PI KAPPA PHI

Participating in University Sing last May, Pi Kappa Phi once again extended its string of victories in this annual event, making it the top singing fraternity on campus for the fourth consecutive year. The hungry pledges recaptured the Pie Eating Contest trophy with the pledges of Pi Kappa Alpha. They also presented the fall pledge dance which featured a Lil Abner theme of Dog Patch U. S. A. The entire chapter house was converted into an enormous red barn, complete with a slide to the basement dance floor. Improvement was made to the house by completely remodeling the kitchen with many modern conveniences.

The boy Pi Phis began practicing early this year in an attempt to retain their U-Sing championship.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Each year the SAE's look forward to the fresh winter snow that blankets their hill.

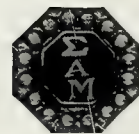

The men of SAE began the year on the "Field of Friz" in competition with the men of Kappa Sigma. The traditional match ended in a tie. Later in the year, the SAEs worked diligently on an act for Varsity varieties in which they have participated for seven consecutive years. The Thetas were the other half of the act entitled "Dreamin." A serenade and the presentation of a trophy to SAE culminated the activity. As winter approached, they planned their winter house dance which was to have a weird theme. They participated in the usual spring festivities and began to look for the end of the year.

The 1960-61 school year held many enjoyable times for the Sammies as well as many promises for the future. A pledge class of twenty-four started the year right by winning first and second place honors in pep rally sign contests. When Old Oaken Bucket game time rolled around, the Sammies played host to the Sigma Delta Tau sorority from Indiana University for an entire weekend filled with fun. The Winter Formal and pledge party followed, providing the pre-Christmas activity. For the pledge party, the house was transformed into a speak-easy. The Sammies had a successful social, scholastic and athletic year.

When the Sigs returned this fall, they were happy to see that the study rooms had been completely redecorated and equipped with new furniture. Their annual "Farm Frolic" was a huge success, drawing almost 4,000 people with home-made ice cream and square dancing. The Blue Formal found a waterfall, dropping silently into a rock-banked pool in the great hall. Participating in V^2 with the Pi Phis proved fruitful when their act was selected as a finalist. The "Untouchables" trade party with the Chi-O's and "Haunted House" party with the Thetas proved a pleasant diversion from the text books.

During the intermission of the annual Blue Formal, the new Sweetheart of Sigma Chi is crowned.

SIGMA NU

During the summer months, the Sigma Nu house was redone both on the interior and the exterior. The appearance of the house was also changed by the addition of the new highway which is adjacent to the house. This fall the brothers presented a Bourbon Street dance for which they skillfully recreated French and Italian Quarters. Later in the year, on a Thursday evening, the Sigma Nus and the ATOs could be found placing "feet" on campus buildings in preparation for the annual Blackfoot-Whitefoot Dance which was held in January. The year was completed with trade parties and Greek Week Carnival with the Alpha Chis.

The Sigma Nus are getting ready to spend a typical college vacation in Fort Lauderdale.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

During the evening rush sessions, the Sig Eps explain pledging to several of the rushees.

There's a new addition at the Sig Ep house. It is their milk truck that the men use to haul anything—including brothers, girls, and even Sam, their dog. The house dance this year featured a ski lodge theme complete with a ski lift to the second floor and snow. Trade parties broke the monotony of the winter. A square dance with the Chi-O's and a "mock rush" party with the Kappas were very enjoyable. In the spring, at their Sweetheart dance, the Sig Ep's chose a queen. House-wise, the brothers will enjoy moving into the new addition in September. Their goal for this year is first place in the Grand Prix Race.

The men of Sigma Pi returned to the chapter house this fall to find the dining room fully redecorated and the walls of the living room and upstairs repainted. The year began with the seniors participating in senior cord festivities. The next event on their active schedule was the annual Barn Dance with everything from tractors to squash for decorations. This was followed by a Christmas party for underprivileged children. The activities following in the spring included the Fabulous Dames Banquet which is held every other year, the pledge dance held in the early spring, and to complete the year, the annual Orchid Formal.

Anticipating a very busy semester, the Sig Tau's started their social events with the traditional pledge dance. The theme for this dance was "Alley Oop" and in keeping with the theme, the house was decorated to represent a huge cave. Members and dates dressed appropriately as one of the best pledge dances in memory resulted. At the beginning of the second semester, the Sig Tau's held a basketball tournament among the representatives of many of the Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana Chapters. The White Rose Formal once again initiated the spring season for the members of Sigma Tau Gamma.

TAU EPSILON PHI

The TEP's started the year in great fashion, finishing third in softball, and third in tennis, thus establishing themselves to be one of the leaders in interfraternity athletics. At the beginning of the year, a "Roaring Twenties Party" turned out to be very memorable. Including a New Year's Eve Party, a French Riviera Party, Pledge Dance, and Spring Formal, the year proved to be a social success. During the year, trade parties and Friday afternoon get-togethers added to the brothers' enjoyment. The year ended with the plans being made to complete an addition to the house before returning next fall.

In order to enter the Homecoming sign Competition, the TEP's worked hard on their display.

Looking over architect's plans is a new pastime for the TKE's as they anticipate a new house.

The TKE's opened the year with another success by winning the fall softball championship. The TKE basketball team, which beat the Purdue Freshman team in an undefeated season last year, is again undefeated with the eight consecutive games won this season. They also won the Homecoming sign competition with their rendition of "TKE House of the October Moon." Ray Grettoncord furnished the music for their annual Red Carnation Ball. The TKE's joined SEX and SWX to present an act for Varsity Varieties. They also participated in the annual block party with the Delta Gammas and the Alpha Tau Omegas.

When the Theta Chis returned to school last fall, they were pleased to find that their house had been painted over the summer. Socially some of their activities included a hay ride in the fall and a trade party with the Phi Mus in the winter. They also had an Old Master whom they shared with the Alpha Xi Deltas. In the Phi Mu Kanine Kapers, their house mascot, Mollie, a St. Bernard, came home with the prize for the dumbest dog. The brothers studied hard all fall, and were happy when the holiday season rolled around and provided them with an opportunity for a break. Their December formal ended 1960.

The Theta Taus began the year with a "Roaring Twenties" party following the IU game. The house was decorated as a saloon, and the brothers' dates dressed in flapper costumes. Other fall activities included a trade party with the Sigma Kappas and a Christmas party. They were very proud of their Irish setter when she was named the most friendly dog at the Phi Mu Kanine Kapers. In the spring, Theta Tau held their annual Bat Boat Race in which six participating fraternities rowed down the Wabash in four-man kayaks. They were all excited about the annual spring formal which was held in May and concluded the year.

A stone front on the fireplace provides the finishing touch for the new Theta Tau lounge.

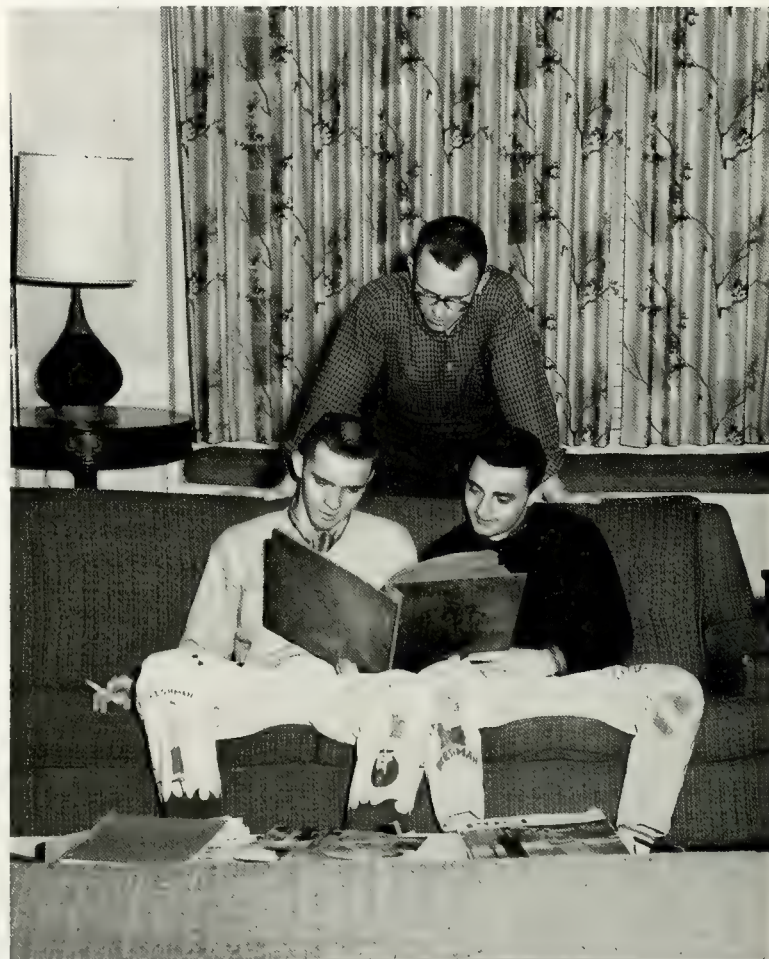

THETA XI

The Theta Xis worked hard in intramurals in order to be awarded the trophy for first place. To improve the appearance of their house interior, they remodeled their first floor by adding new furniture and repapering the walls. Greek Week help sessions were sponsored by the Theta Xis this year. They were hosts during the Old Master's Program for Brigadier General Paul Emrick of the USAF who is a Purdue graduate. At Christmas time, they held a party for orphans. Gifts were given to the children, and they were treated to a large holiday meal. Roman costumes were worn by all to the spring dance.

TRIANGLE

"It's great to be back," say two overloaded Triangle members as they move into the house.

After winning the Batt Boat race for the third consecutive year by beating the other five participating fraternities, the Triangles retired the trophy. A successful trade function was the alley dance held with Zeta Tau Alpha. The dance took place in the alley that runs in between the two houses. Afterwards, the group enjoyed a song fest and refreshments at the Triangle house. The fraternity sponsored a retreat for its members at Battle Ground, the purpose of which was to discuss the goals of the fraternity. During the retreat, Stan Shaw, advisor to fraternities, spoke about pledge training.

sororities

The Panhellenic Council began its year with the annual retreat held at the Trails. From the discussions at the retreat, committees were formed to investigate problems common to all sororities. Early in the fall Panhellenic held a series of workshops evaluating pledge training programs. The dates for formal rush were changed to the semester break in order to hold most of rush outside of the academic year. Serving also as a service organization, they held their annual Easter party for underprivileged children. They were hostesses for the annual State Panhellenic Conference in the spring.

The Alpha Chis began the year with a tea in honor of their new housemother, Mrs. Helen Dailey. After an exhaustive search through the house looking for Seniors' cord skirts, the pledges painted them; and then ventured to the Lambda Chi house to steal and redecorate their bathtub. The Diamond Jubilee Convention was held at French Lick, with many Alpha Chis attending. Among those receiving awards at the convention were Kassy Elder and Joy Kratz. Their homecoming sign again placed among the top three. They also enjoyed trade parties with the Kappa Sigs and the Phi Delts.

When the Alpha Delta Pis returned to school in the fall, they were pleased to welcome their new housemother, Mrs. Ruby Jackson. To begin the fall semester, they honored both their housemother and the pledges with teas. Later in the year the chapter was proud to have two of its members honored at the annual state day in Indianapolis; Phyllis Baker received recognition for having the highest four-year scholastic average and Sue Alexander was given the award for the highest semester average. Pre-vacation activities were concluded with a Christmas dance. The second semester passed quickly as even yellow slip time became enjoyable when the yellow slips turned out to be invitations from the Sigma Nus leading to a most unusual party.

Thoughts of initiation occur in the minds of the ADPi pledges as they rush to light an active's cigarette.

During the spring semester, the Fuzzies were busy with many social functions. Among these were a ski lodge party with the PKAs, a costume party with the Kappa Sigs, a casino party with the Phi Psis and a leap year party with Phi Kappa Theta. The "rec" room was completely redecorated and finished for Mother's Day Weekend. In the fall, the Fuzzies moved back into their campus home and began working on V² with the Delts. The fall Bar-B-Que given by the pledges was a huge success. Rounding out the year's events were trade parties with the Betas and the AGRs and the winter formal.

Male representatives from all over the campus attended the Legacy Party held early in November at which Chi Os got acquainted with the sons and brothers of many Chi Omegas. The annual Pearl Formal, held with their brother fraternity, Kappa Sigma, in December provided entertainment for the Chi Os and their dates. Other activities that occupied the Chi O's time were Dad's Day, when the fathers spent the weekend in the sorority house, Homecoming Weekend, and Christmas festivities. In the spring Greek Week, U. Sing, and planning Mother's Day weekend kept the girls busy.

In the spring, the Delta Gammas were both happy and proud when they won second place in University Sing with "That Old Black Magic". Upon returning to school in the fall, they held a tea for their new housemother, Mrs. Helen Ross. The Kappa Sigmas' calypso party entertained the DGs, and they gained a first for their U.C.L.A. pep rally sign with the Phi Taus. Again this year, they operated their biennial Gift Shop at Christmas; the proceeds went to their national project, sight Conservation and Aid to the Blind. They played intramural volleyball with the Delts to win another first place trophy.

With open houses featuring cider and doughnuts after home football games, the Thetas greeted the campus. The alums made returning to studies extra special by purchasing new walnut furniture. After taking their walkout, serenading, and washing cars to make money, the pledges flew their kites in anticipation of initiation. Four scholarship dinners and the annual faculty Christmas Tea honored Purdue professors. The Thetas social life also included Dad's Day ceremonies, water battles against the Phi Gams, trade parties with the DUs and the Phil Delts, and a Christmas decorating party.

Reminiscing over the good old days, the SAEs sing "Ain't She Sweet!" as the Thetas keep time with a dance.

The Kappa's year began with a welcoming tea for their new housemother, Mrs. Mable Johns. V-2 practice with the Kappa Sigmas was then taken up on a panorama of songs along the Mississippi. On October 14, Kappas and Pi Phis held the Monmouth Duo. This year the Kappas made plans to aid the under-privileged during the Christmas season, to form a quartet called the "Keynotes," and to hold their annual pledge class dance and Mother's Day Weekend in the spring. Once again the Kappas rank the highest in scholarship for the fourth consecutive year. Their house index was a 4.95.

Although the beginning of the year was saddened by the death of their housemother, the Phi Mus were brought closer together by their mutual loss. With the redecoration of the house to cheer them on, the Phi Mus looked forward to initiating twenty-four girls. Then began work on Kanine Kapers, a charity project, and their winning Homecoming Sign which carried a Little Lulu theme. The second semester, new pledges, and the house dance to introduce them, occupied their time. At the end of the year, a few tears and parties bid farewell to the seniors.

The Phi Mu's Kanine Kapers provided entertainment for the dog lovers and prizes for a few fortunate mascots.

The spring of 1960 found the Pi Phis singing their hearts out in University Sing which they won with their rendition of "Autumn Leaves." Upon returning to school in the fall, they planned their dance, the Monmouth Duo, held with the Kappas in October. To encourage school spirit they held an open house after every home football game. November found the Pi Phis rehearsing their V² act, "A Song of the Surf," with the Sigma Chis. In December they sponsored a student-faculty cocktail party with the Delts. At Christmas the Pi Phis ended the semester by caroling at the Union Decorating party.

In May, Purdue's Beta Sigma chapter welcomed all Indiana Chapters of Sigma Kappa to the campus for the annual State Day. The delegates returned full of enthusiasm and many new ideas for the coming year. The 1960 Sigma Kappa Convention was held at Sun Valley, Idaho. Their extra-curricular activities included University Choir, co-recreational sports, and WRA. Throughout the year, they had several picnics, taffy pulls, trade dinners, and faculty dinners, which were very successful. The climax of the year was their pledge dance and the initiation of the 1961 pledge class.

The ability to tie up the lines is a talent which most girls possess, and these Sigma Kappas make full use of it.

Ushering in the school year with an activities award brought back from their national convention last summer, the Zetas prepared to spend another eventful year. Their first big social event of the season was an alley dance with Triangle fraternity. In co-operation with the KDRs, the Zetas held their second annual Jazz Festival, featuring the Salty Dogs, the University Jazz Workshop, and the Brian Hardy Trio. Halloween found a faculty Apple Polishing Party at the house. A Christmas decorating party was held, and at the end of the year the seniors were given a farewell dinner.

The members of Ann Tweedale are proud of their new pin light which was a project of this year's new members. The many trade dinners held during the year were popular with both the girls and their guests. The women also sponsored several faculty dinners. The annual Christmas house dance had the theme "Elfin Fantasy" this year, and the festive decorations helped put everyone in a holiday spirit. The members of Ann Tweedale have "adopted" the children of an underprivileged family of Lafayette, and gave them an early Christmas dinner at the Co-op; clothing and food is also given to the family during the year.

GLENWOOD

"Co-operation" became a living word at Glenwood as the girls prepared to move into their new house.

Glenwood completed work on their new house at 421 University Street so that they could move from their old house on Grant Street between semesters. The Glenwood girls received much help from the other co-op houses on the major repairs which included refinishing floors and woodwork, painting walls, making draperies, and rearranging the furniture. However, amid the whirl of work and studies, the girls managed a full schedule of trade parties. A wiener roast, a Halloween masquerade party, and a Christmas party for the underprivileged children were some of the parties enjoyed by the women of Glenwood.

This fall everyone at Shoemaker returned to school early to give the house a new coat of paint and volunteer help was recruited from some of the men's co-operative houses. Eventually the traces of paint wore off of the girls' clothes. Although Shoemaker is still in possession of the scholarship trophy for the women's co-operative with the highest index, they find time for many social functions. This year, these included a taffy pull with Farmhouse, a "Suppressed Desire" party with State House, a "Come as You Are" party with Fairway, and the annual Christmas party with Kneale given for underprivileged children.

TWIN PINES

The year 1960-1961 brought several changes to Twin Pines. New draperies and bedspreads were proudly displayed by the girls for their open house after the Homecoming game. Their social life was not neglected. A picnic with Rochdale and a volleyball party with Kneale House were thoroughly enjoyed by the girls as were parties with other men's housing units. Preparing for the traditional Christmas dance brought out many ideas and talents among the girls. The Twin Pines Alumnae Association, was organized by former house members who would like to work together for the improvement of Twin Pines.

CIRCLE PINES

It's something to cheer about when a brother is dealt the perfect bridge hand of thirteen hearts.

Last spring, Circle Pine's "Robin Hood" skit placed Robbie Robertson on the Goldiggers' King's court. CP men then went on to sweep SCA sports for the third straight year and take seventh place in the Grand Prix. Perhaps symbolically, rain chased this year's first party, a picnic with Shoemaker, indoors. A Mexican party with Ann Tweedale had better luck, as did the house team, which swept Co-Operative league fall golf. The basketball team was also successful in reaching the semi-finals in all-campus competition. Moving on towards Homecoming and the alumni's counter-migration, CP's automated sign placed second in SCA competition.

The thirty-nine members of Club 25 were anxious to get the year started right, so they scheduled several social events. To honor their new house-mother, Mrs. Ruby Davis, and to give everyone an opportunity to see their new house, they had an open house early in the fall. During the year Club 25 had a trade party with the nurses of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, a Christmas party, and an annual house dance in the spring. Situated on a shelf in their new house is the trophy for the most improvement in house index. The men of Club 25 will do their best to see that this trophy remains with them.

DOVER

The members of Dover and their dates spent an unforgettable evening at the annual Spring House Dance, which this year had the theme "April Knights." Dover's softball team succeeded in winning the Student Co-op Association's Spring Softball Tournament which was a fitting climax to the spring semester. Returning to school in the fall, they gave their house a sparkling new coat of paint with each member doing his share of the job. Decorating for the Christmas Dance, which was held on December 17th, help put the men in a holiday spirit. The trade parties held during the year provided relaxation from the daily study routine.

KNEALE

Sometimes a man gets lonesome for that girl back home—then it's letter-writing time.

Kneale was awarded first prize by the Student Co-operative Association for their homecoming sign this year. They also received third place in both the SCA track meet and the softball tournament. In the fall their house was given a sparkling new coat of paint with each member doing his share of the job. Kneale joined the women of Shoemaker in sponsoring a Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Lafayette, and each child was thrilled to receive a gift from "Santa". Their annual Christmas house dance, which this year had the theme "Dreaming," featured gay holiday decorations and was enjoyed by everyone.

The members of Marwood were awarded a trophy for winning first place in the Student Co-op Association's annual track meet, which was held for the first time this year. The men got in the Yuletide spirit by giving a Christmas party which they sponsor annually for the underprivileged children of Lafayette. A festive Christmas dinner honoring their house-mother was held at the Palms Cafeteria. A new house sign was secretly erected by the prospective members to surprise the old members and trade parties, including ones with Twin Pines and Shoemaker, were also enjoyed by the members.

ROCHDALE

For the second consecutive semester, the members of Rochdale were proud to win the Student Co-op Association Scholarship trophy which is awarded each semester to the house having the highest grade average. Although the men took their studies seriously, they found time for many trade parties during the 1961 school year. To get in a Christmas spirit they joined with the women of Glenwood to go caroling at the Old Soldiers Home and afterwards went back to Rochdale for refreshments and a decorating party. The annual Christmas dance, held on December 17th this year, was a great success according to everyone who attended.

With the score tied at 21 to 21, this team of pingpong players extends an extra effort to score.

To end a successful year, the members of State House held a House Dance with the theme of "Summer Place." The music was provided by the Brian Hardy Trio. Scoring well in athletics, they won both the A and B division individual basketball scoring crowns. It is a house custom to make some major improvements each year. This year the dining room was completely remodeled along with the purchase of new drapes for the entire main floor. To pay tribute to their graduating seniors, a picnic was held which ended with the undergraduates helping the seniors to an enjoyable, though somewhat cold, swim in Wildcat Creek.

STELLER BROTHERS

With the aid of a cement mixer, the men of Stellar Brothers laid a new sidewalk in front of their house.

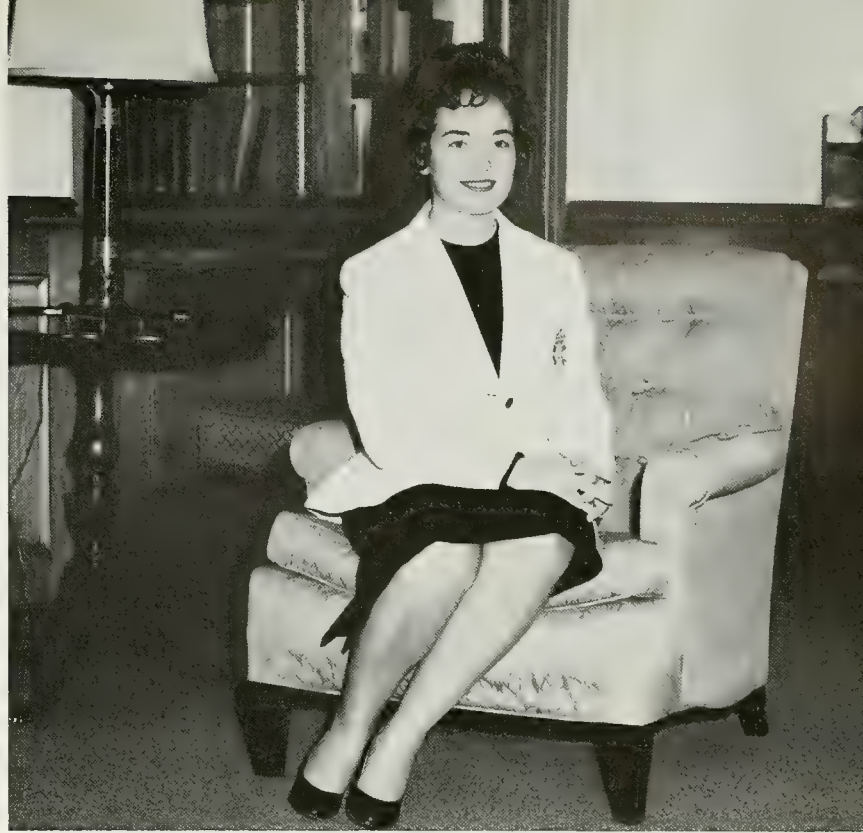

Stellar Brothers, now four years old, has marked its existence with continual progress. This year saw new sidewalks and walk-lights installed as well as the purchase of a new living-room suite. Trade parties, intramural athletics, and campus activities afforded them fine opportunities to meet many new people. Their annual Christmas party for underprivileged children gave them a chance to share their fortune with some youngsters who greatly appreciated it. Their annual, all S.C.A., Ice-Cream Social won many new friends. All this and a fine scholastic index, too, made 1960-1961 a great year.

women's residence halls

Throughout the year WRH Governing Board co-ordinated the activities of Women's Residence Halls. In September the organization of re-opened Duhme Hall consumed the Board's time. December ushered in the annual winter formal, "Winter Whisper." WRH joined with WRX to publish the CO-EDition, a newspaper telling events in the halls. A second Lillian Gilbreth scholarship was established, and the sale of freshmen pots and the tray-carrying project with H-3 augmented the scholarship fund. A mascot was unofficially adopted; Molly, AWOL from the Theta Chi house, took up residence on the WRH circle.

This year marks the birth of the Hall X Freshman orientation program which was climaxed by an initiation dinner. The highlight of this program was the serenading of all the men's residence halls. The fathers were royally entertained at the Dad's Day open house with refreshments and a skit put on by the girls and on December 10th the annual formal "Winter Whisper" was held in the Union ballrooms with Tex Beneke's orchestra playing. For the second consecutive year all of WRX was chosen to be among the final acts for the V² show. To climax the year a dinner honoring all of the seniors living in "X" was held in May.

DUHME

Duhme Hall, re-opened and newly decorated this year, welcomed the new head resident, Mrs. Ester Fox, and gradually began preparing for the new year. The 155 girls were kept busy with open houses after football games. They also found time for trade dinners and trade parties with State Street Courts, H-1, and the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity. Special parties at Halloween and Christmas brightened the seasons. A party for needy children and Christmas decorations furthered the girls' Yuletide spirit. Two new stereo record-players in the lounge and in the recreation room provided the girls with many hours of pleasure.

Going home on her vacation, this freshman girl finds it necessary to sign out before leaving.

Freshman orientation started out with a bang this year and everyone was in high spirits. Serenading the men was enjoyed by all—men as well as women. After much practicing and fun together, Northeast X and the men of Tau Kappa Epsilon made V² with their act, "Smith Brothers' Doffed Crops." The Christmas season also brought about fun and excitement. The Christmas tree was trimmed while everyone sang carols. The WRH formal and dinner provided fun and Christmas caroling in the crisp night air put everyone in the Christmas mood. The second semester and the coming of spring brought the usual spring fever.

NORTHWEST X

The residents of NWX were greeted in September by the new head resident, Mrs. Purcifull. The girls were very happy to learn that their act had made V² and with their partners, NEX and the TKE's, they presented "Smith Brothers Doffed Crops." They were busy with trade parties which included a picnic with the PiKA's, a key dance held at H-2, and a pizza party with Cary. A western theme was featured at a dance at H-1, yellow slips were the occasion for a party at State House, and on Dad's Day an open house was presented for all the fathers. After a busy fall, everyone was ready for a long Christmas vacation.

Girls of NWX came to dinner on Halloween night dressed as animals, clowns, and "glamorous" ladies.

Starting the second year since its re-opening, Shealy Hall was graced with a new hi-fi set. At Christmas time the hall was decorated in a yuletide spirit, and at the annual Christmas party everyone was entertained by the talented girls in the hall who danced, sang, and played instruments. Among the trade parties were a pep rally sign party with AXP, a picnic with the Skull house which included an egg-throwing contest, a volleyball game, and a frisby match. With the west wings of H-2, they enjoyed the "Club Falcon," a dance with a nightclub theme that included a magician and a jazz combo.

SOUTHEAST X

After spending many hours practicing with SW-X and H-3 for V² try-outs, the women of SE-X were thrilled when their act, a satire on the Purdue-I. U. football game, was chosen to be in the 1960 Varsity Varieties. The first unit party was a "Beer Blast" — root beer and pretzels were served. After the Dad's Day football game, the girls entertained their fathers with skits in the recreation room. The unit purchased a new scrapbook, and pictures taken during a pin serenade were the first to be put in it. In the spring, a scholarship dinner was given to honor those girls who had made a 5.5 index or above the previous semester.

The girls of SWX work diligently at one of the many long rehearsals necessary to perfect their V² act.

Southwest X was very busy socially this year. Their trade parties included a Bermuda party with the Phi Taus, a card party with the Kappa Delta Rhos, and a Halloween dance with the Deltas. The girls also enjoyed a trade dinner with Cary A. Working with Excalibur Club and Southeast X, Southwest X participated in V². Their act was the finale, and it was titled, "IOU and Purdue Mutual Bank Football Game." At Christmas time the girls worked on various committees to help plan for the WRX-WRH Formal. To round out their activities, Southwest X had a service project for a worthy Lafayette hospital.

VAWTER

Social activities played a key position in Vawter Hall's campus life this year, besides studies, of course. The girls participated in many trade parties, featuring skits and foreign-flavored atmospheres, and different projects with various men's halls. Then, on the serious side, they were inspired toward higher things by Old Master, H. A. Harrington. Joyfully welcoming in the Christmas season with carols, parties, and just plain fun, they resolved to make 1961 a successful and satisfying year, in all ways! They ended the school year with a feeling of accomplishment, both scholastically and socially.

A sock-hop given by the upper-classmen of Warren to welcome the freshmen was the first of Warren Hall's social activities. Various other successful parties were given during the year including a casino party, a cave party, and a frontier frolic. A Valentine party featuring gay red and white decorations was enjoyed by the girls and their "valentines." Participating in Varsity Varieties with H-1 was the highpoint of the fall semester for Warren, and much time and hard work were devoted to perfecting their act. The women of Warren showed their academic ability by winning the WRH Scholarship Trophy.

The girls of Wood take advantage of new-fallen snow to stage a fun-filled snowball fight.

WOOD

Wood Hall held several successful open houses this year including one after both the Dad's Day and the Homecoming football games. Taking advantage of the first cold weather of the year, Wood joined the SAE's for an ice skating party—afterwards everyone went to the SAE house for refreshments. The formal dinner which is given annually before the WRH formal dance was held at Wood this year. Caroling at St. Elizabeth Hospital helped put the girls, as well as the patients, in a holiday spirit. As one of their charity projects the women of Wood sponsored a Christmas party for the underprivileged children of Lafayette.

Operating at full capacity after the opening of its newly redecorated East Unit, Cary reached a new high in both its social and athletic activities. Cary's Tri-cycle Race, and Winter and Spring Formals were just a few of its outstanding affairs to receive campus-wide acclaim. Increased leadership ability enabled its Freshman Council to take a more active part in Cary events by running a children's Christmas party and initiating a "rider board" for the convenience of Cary men. Through the insight of the Executive Council, a copying machine was bought to expand Cary's academic file system.

The co-operation of many made the construction of a pep rally sign easy and fun.

Many intramural sports were available to fill the time spent "getting away from the books" for the members of Unit A. Softball, basketball and track were among the sports in which Unit A placed this year. Many of the men also enjoyed working on the Cary Club radio station, WCCR, or the ham radio station, W9CLY, and also the winning of second place in the Cary Club tricycle race. A Unit also placed sixth in the Grand Prix, placed twice in pep rally signs and had one member a steady sprinter for the Purdue track team. A trade dance with Shealy Hall and several trade dinners completed this school year's events.

Winning second place in the all-campus Reisner Speech Contest in the fall was the beginning of a complete year for the men of Cary B. Many interesting social functions held during the year included a Halloween party and other seasonal trade parties. At Christmas time, underprivileged children were entertained, and the men of Unit B and their dates celebrated the forthcoming holidays with a "come as you are" dance. The year was climaxed with the winning of second place in the Men's Residence Halls intramural sports competition and as the grand finale of the year, a dinner-dance was held in the spring at the Trails.

The men of Cary B and their dates enjoyed a dinner before the annual Cary winter formal.

This group of Unit C seniors are ready to parade in front of the freshman on Senior Cord Day.

Enthusiasm and spirit were initiated by our freshmen-upperclass football game at the beginning of the semester. To further this spirit, a roller skating party with Southeast X, a square dance with Wood Hall and a pajama party with Twin Pines were held and enjoyed by all. The holiday season was made more enjoyable for the people of the Old Soldiers Home and the nearby hospital patients when Cary C caroled with Northwest X. Heading for the lakes in the spring and working on the go-cart for the Grand Prix' provided enjoyment and relaxation at the close of nine memorable months.

Again this year Unit D displayed its usual hospitality and friendliness by opening its lounges after football games to serve doughnuts and hot coffee to chilled sports fans. For the second consecutive year, Unit D won the annual Cary tricycle race. The Unit D Leader, the Cary Club independent newspaper, celebrated its fifth anniversary and expanded its coverage to other Cary units. The holiday season was a busy time, with everyone making arrangements for a Shealy Hall trade party and a splash party at the Co-Rec. Gym. The main spring activities included participation in the Grand Prix, Forensics and several trade dinners.

The Unit queen and her court were pleased to be presented with lovely gifts from Unit D.

A banjo combo can add much excitement to the frequent before dinner get-togethers.

The Easter egg hunt for town children and a Christmas party for orphans were two of the annual projects of the Vikings from Cary Northeast. This fall a hayride and picnic were the first events followed by trade parties with various WRH units. Along with these events, the Vikings sponsored a freshman recognition banquet and the big graduation dinner. Sports were recognized through victory in the campus track meet, Cary Hall archery and swim meet, and the Cary Hall track meet and tennis match. In addition, there were entries from Northeast in the Cary Tricycle Race and the Grand Prix.

Cary Northwest's fabulous small green alligator was the figurehead of the unit activities this year. Buttons were made for trade parties showing Dorque in different situations around the unit. Along the more serious vein of campus living, NW is anticipating its fourth consecutive semester as winner of the Arbuckle Scholarship Trophy, awarded each semester to the highest unit index in Cary. Having the largest turnout of the units at the Cary Club-Excalibur formal dance was also among the Northwest honors this year. The dance was entitled "Sentimental Sleighride," and Ralph Marterie with his Orchestra were featured.

A dinner-dance is impressive but Northwest is thankful that Wednesday evening formal meals are different.

Not all intellectual discussions of serious matters are conducted within the four walls of classrooms.

Having been assured by the Police that they would not be raided, the men of Cary East decided to have a "Gay Nineties" Trade Party. A resemblance of the Al Capone days resulted as the men of Cary acquired slot machines, roulette wheels, and various other gambling equipment. Free money was passed out at the door as royal flushes and poker chips were flying across the tables with many couples breaking the bank. A memorable time was had and even the losers enjoyed themselves. Cary East was also active in sports as it placed second in both the basketball league and in total points for all sports.

A busy year for Cary East started by moving into a newly decorated hall that had been vacant for two years. No time was wasted getting social events started as a trade party with the Saint Elizabeth student nurses and an autumn hayride were among the first events for the new East unit. Open houses after the football games gave all a chance to gather informally with parents, dates and friends. The second semester found East busily planning for the Spring formal. Soon afterwards, the frosh challenged the seniors to a softball game, and after ten innings, the freshmen were declared the winners.

The lower lounge of East has a fine atmosphere for a friendly bridge game between the members.

The men of Cary West were proud to host comedian Shelly Berman during his stay at the University when he appeared in a Victory Varieties program. Following the dinner in his honor, he was made an honorary member of Cary West Falcons with the presentation of an engraved plaque. In the fall, an open house climaxed every home football game, which allowed the ardent fans and their dates to celebrate the game's outcome with a party and a dance. In addition, trade parties and dinners were held periodically with each of the women's residence units.

The dinner-dance given in honor of foreign students at Purdue was held at Cary West this year.

The enactment of a shot-gun wedding adds a delightful touch of spice to a trade party.

One of the high points of the fall program was the "Dogpatch Party" held jointly with Duhme Hall and featuring all of the appropriate Al Capp characters, decorations and costumes. WCCR, the Cary Club radio station, gave a live account of the entire proceedings. This year, the sports minded Falcons planned a strong athletic program to retire the Cary athletic trophy which has been their prize for the past two years. Even though activities were a standout, academics were not neglected—as an added boost to better grades the Falcons instituted an extensive tutoring system.

The Courtiers are responsible for co-ordinating the activities of all of the courts on State Street. Through the joint organization, resident Mike Pritchett was elected Freshman Class President, and unit 1236 was runner-up in exterior Christmas decoration. The winter formal, "Snowflake Fantasy," held in co-operation with H-2, was an important social event. At the two awards dinners held during the year, both the court and individual with the highest index were recognized. To promote activities, the courts have their own radio station, camera club, photo shop, chorus and the Court Jesters combo.

The Fowler House has been the center of activity during the past year. Besides trade parties, they held an exciting house party with the theme "Psycho." Two awards banquets, one for scholarship and one for athletics, were held. As well as holding a Christmas party for the house employees, they got together with State Street Court Six to give a party for underprivileged children. For the last five years Fowler has won either first or second place in the Court's Intramural Competition. With the aid of practice and determination their swimming team won the Campus Championship in the spring.

Everyone shares summer experiences as old friends return to their second home.

The men of Court I together with the rest of the other courts had many social events planned. One of the main events was the "Snowflake Fantasy," which is the spring formal of H-2 and State Street Courts. Court I was not content to have just this one dance. They also planned a dance with a German theme. It was held outdoors with brightly colored lanterns strung far and wide. The dress was German style and the entertainment included a combo that played all kinds of Polkas. Court I also placed second in the annual Grand Prix Race and celebrated their achievement with coffee and doughnuts for the crew and fans.

Members of Court Two held an open-air smoker early in the fall to provide an opportunity for all members to become better acquainted. Following all home football and basketball games, dances with a beach theme and entitled "Casa de Mar" or "Home of the Sea" were held in the Fowler House lounge. In addition the Courtiers annually present the "Snowflake Fantasy," decorating the Fowler House dining room with castles on the tables and snowflakes hanging from castles suspended from the ceiling. Other parties were also popular. A Halloween party with Southwest X and a sock hop with Northeast X added enjoyment.

Court III's fall attraction was the Courtiers Annual Street Dance with WRH held in the WRH Oval. Japanese lanterns and root beer highlighted the event attended by more students than ever before in the ten year history of the dance. After missing last year's Courts intramural championship by ten points, the members renewed their efforts this year, participating in seven different sports. In the spring the group enjoyed working on the entry for the Grand Prix as well as purchasing a social donation from Campus Chest. Court Four had many members interested in campus activities and honoraries including Tomahawk, the Purdue All-American Marching Band and the Order of Zouaves, just to mention a few. This year they were the only housing unit on campus that had one hundred per cent turnout for freshmen elections. Some awards won were the Courtier's scholarship award and second place in the court intramural sports tournament. Informal dances entitled "Court IV Capers" were held after each home basketball game. Other events of the spring semester were several trade dinners and two trade parties held at the Co-Recreational Gym.

It is hard enough for a person to study by himself let alone with an intriguing companion.

Starting this year's social season, the men of Court Five and their dates attended a picnic at Happy Hollow on the first Sunday afternoon of the semester. Sports and games filled the entertainment agenda while hot dogs led the menu. Later on they joined with the men of Court Four for a trade dinner with the girls from Duhme. Between Thanksgiving and Christmas, Court Five along with Warren and Shealy Halls sponsored a dance celebrating the two holidays. With the coming of spring, the residents of Court Five looked forward to enjoying swimming parties and more picnics.

To start the year off, the freshmen of Court VI held their annual serenade of Women's Residence Halls. They followed this up with several trade dances, two of which included the women of Duhme Hall and Vawter Halls. This was followed in December by a Christmas tree decorating affair. After ending the semester with a very high index, this Courtier unit scheduled more social functions to reward itself. Among these was a skating party followed by a dance with the women who live in Wood Hall. The year ended with a great variety of spring functions, including dances and trade parties.

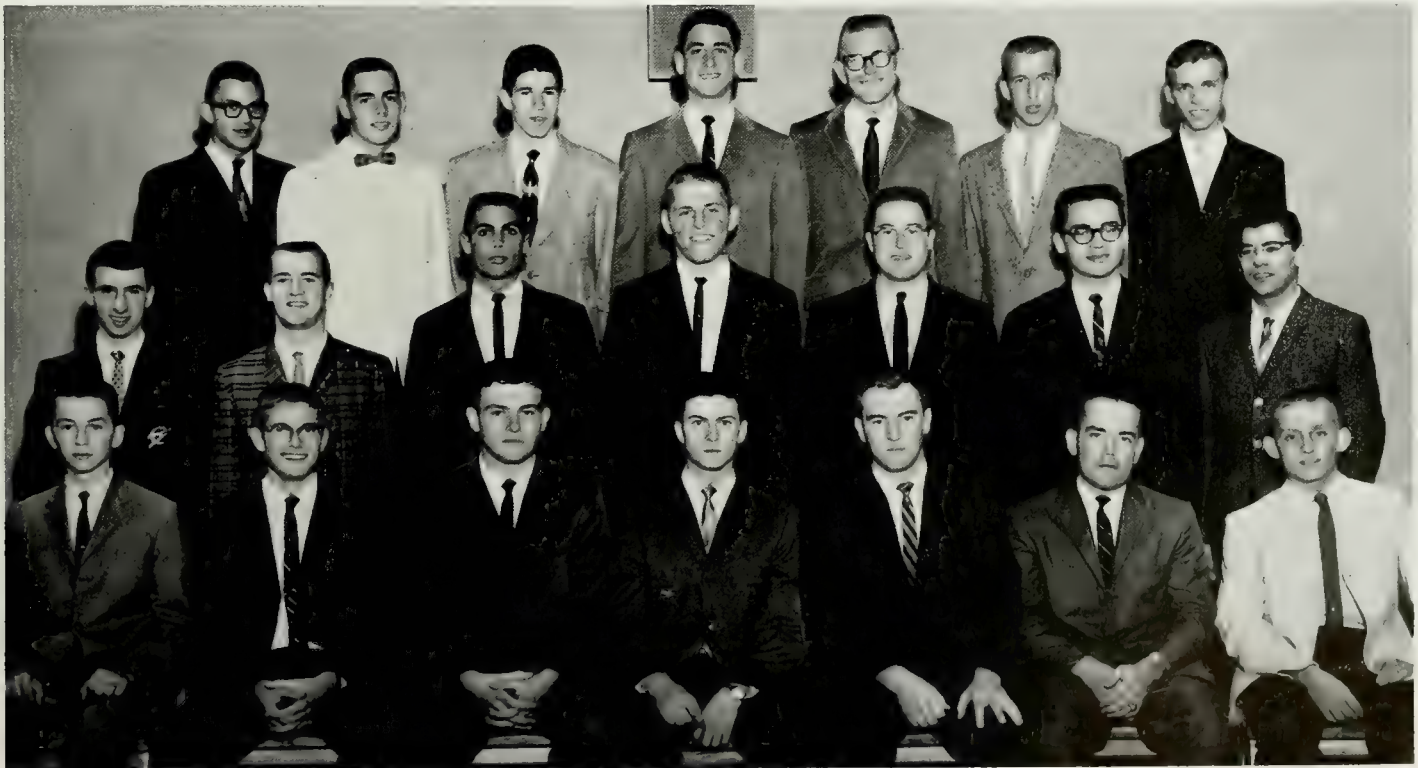

The men of State Street Court VI fully utilize their study time by both reading and deep thinking.

ETAOIN SHRDLU

As the fall semester rolled around, the H-1 council had a retreat and dinner at the Trails to discuss improvement methods for the hall and also its social life. They came up with a Christmas Party for the underprivileged children and made the plans for their formal dance "Blue Enchantment." The decorations included blue-colored water spraying from each table center and blue-colored lighting in the lounges. Late in the spring they had another big dance, "Las Vegas Capers," which had as its theme a gambling atmosphere. Scholarship and Senior banquets brought the year to a close.

As the year rolled by, the members of the H-2 Council promoted many activities for the Halberdiers. First on the program was the Fall Jazz Festival with the Brian Hardy Trio providing the music. On the weekend of the Purdue-IU football game, H-2 sponsored a trade party with Smithwood Hall from IU. For the third year the trade party was a rousing success climaxed by the Bucket Bounce dance held in the H-2 lobby. The Orphan's Party held jointly with the "Fuzzies" and the formal Snowflake Fantasy were two activities held during the spring semester at which the H-2 Camera Club assisted by taking pictures of each event.

The Executive Council worked very hard this year guiding Excalibur Club through its many activities, such as the Christmas Party for needy children, dances and receptions after basketball and football games, the Senior Banquet, the Senate Banquet, and the Recognition Banquets. For the sixth year Excalibur also participated in Varsity Varieties, the Grand Prix Auto Race, and the Old Masters Program. Scholarship money was raised at the Dime-A-Dance. They won the Pendragon award for their Homecoming sign, had an extensive athletic program, and joined with Cary to have the largest house dance on campus.

A letter from home provides needed relaxation after a long day of classes and studying.

The opening of school found Northeast H-1 planning for such events as Beatnik parties, square dances, and picnics. Time was also allotted for pep signs which showed that NE still had the spirit and enthusiasm to show gratitude to the Purdue athletic teams. Intramural athletics were encouraged by athletic leadership awards given to deserving members and the league volleyball championship was won for the second year by Northeast H-1. However, campus life and athletics did not completely dominate. For the first time, scholastic awards were given to high ranking students and an increased unit index was the result achieved.

The smiling faces of little children served to lighten the hearts of everyone at the Christmas Party for needy children given by Northwest H-1. Entertainment for the children and their "foster" fathers was provided by the Northwest unit pep band. Participation in sports gained several honors for NW, including a first place in intramural "A" league basketball and third place in a newly formed bowling league. The spring semester included an ice skating party plus entering in the Grand Prix and University Sing. Monthly trade parties, activities and sports brought about a successful third year.

A good bridge game never fails to foil the best laid study plans, as these students can testify.

Southeast H-1 went all out to achieve the proper atmosphere for the Beatnik Party with Shealy Hall. Not only did everyone dress as a Beatnik, but the entertainment included modern jazz and poetry reading. The Varsity Varieties show found H-1 with Warren Hall practicing "Trouble" until the last moment before curtain time. Southeast was also active with Duhme Hall in making pep rally and Homecoming decorations. For outdoor life, the Unit's freshmen had a tug of war with the Northeast freshmen and avenged last year when Northeast won. A hayride attended by all members of the unit closed the school year.

In preparing the fall formal of Southwest H-1, the officers picked the social atmosphere of the Trails. The SW Hussars must have had good inspiration because many successful events followed for the unit. Amid the trade parties with women's halls, the members also made pep rally signs and carried through with two successful goodwill parties, one a Halloween party for town children and the other a Christmas party for orphans. The winter formal entitled "Las Vegas Capers" was a spicy affair with gambling for play money monopolizing the evening and the dining room decorated similar to the "Reno Club" in Las Vegas.

The H-2 plus 3 singing group has met with enthusiasm while performing for trade parties and dances.

Last year's social program was ushered in with an Hawaiian party followed in turn by the "Snowflake Fantasy," the Halberdier formal dance. Planned for the spring semester was an Oriental Party for which the east dining hall was decorated to resemble a Chinese Tea Garden. Chinese food was eaten with chopsticks in an atmosphere of Oriental incense. Last year, the Halberdier "Eagles" placed second with a prize pep rally sign displaying a Boilermaker in a gold uniform. The close of the semester found the "Eagles" still bragging about the victory which they achieved over Northwest H-2 in a tug-o-war contest.

Northwest Unit of Halberdiers held a "Key Dance" in conjunction with Duhme Hall and NW-X this fall. Decorations followed the key theme, as it was necessary to crawl through a keyhole to gain admittance to the dance. A nightclub was used for the "Club Falcon" party which included a floor show and various refreshments. The H-2 plus 3 entertainment group from H-2 performed for both the NW-SW combined units hayride and the second annual Haunted Cave party which was held near the semester break. The NW unit was in charge of the decorations for the first annual H-2 Fall Festival which stood out as a big success.

When Southeast H-2 returned this fall, they found that their social chairman had many activities planned. The year began with a successful "cave man" trade party with SW-X, to which everyone came dressed in "Alley Oop" style. After chasing dinosaurs and girls, plans were made for a hayride and square dance. Another bright spot for SE was the 3-H's sports league trophy which they won for the second consecutive year. In addition to showing athletic prominence, SE maintained their high scholarship during the fall semester which enabled them to retain the residence hall scholarship trophy for the third year in a row.

A new function was begun this year which Southwest hopes will become annual and that is the "Club Falcon". This is a dance with a night club theme with entertainment provided by the talented members of the unit. Drinks are served in typical night-club fashion with "bouncers" present. Drab November was made enjoyable with a hayride and Fall Festival. December brought a Christmas Party with the "Fuzzies." January and February boasted a unit "date dance", a record hop, and the Snowflake Fantasy. A spring unit dance, hayride, and farewell picnic brought to a close a very eventful year.

The "Club Falcon" dance proved to be refreshing, especially for this decorating committee.

The Norsemen of Northwest H-3 started the year by winning the annual Excalibur Club tug-of-war. The social side included a card party with SE "X" and a Halloween hayride. A campus first was the co-educational dining program initiated with Vawter Hall. Once a week at an evening meal, the Norsemen, along with the Southwest unit, were hosts to the women from Vawter, and simultaneously the men would be invited to dine at Vawter. In athletics, the Norsemen topped the 16 inch softball league and took second in track. In speech, they won the Good-night Speaking Contest and Reisner trophy.

The Grand Prix provided many drivers with thrills they will never receive on peaceful highways.

Firsts in table tennis, golf, tennis, and a second in softball helped Southeast H-3 lead all other H units in intramural sports. A hayride and a come-as-you-are party started the social season and the atmosphere of "Old Reno" abounded at the Casino party. The season ended with the annual spring dinner dance at the Trails. Southeast also proved scholastically successful by having the highest grade average of the hall for the entire year. The unit provided leadership for the Christmas party, homecoming sign, and many other hall activities and entered a Kart in the Grand Prix for the third year in a row.

A Chinese party, including a meal with chop sticks, initiated the social year for Southwest H-3. A number of folk dances, card parties, and hayrides followed. Finally, the year was climaxed with the spring formal at the Trails. The unit also provided a quartet to sing at the Excalibur Christmas party for underprivileged children. With Warren Hall, they hosted Professor Frankkena as their Old Master. Southwest and Northwest, initiated the coed dining program with Vawter Hall each Monday evening. Participation in intramurals was also stressed, and the unit finished third in over-all points for the year.

Trade-picnics on Saturday evenings are a wonderful place to create new friendships.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Traditionally, the Editor's Page marks the completion of the DEBRIS for another year. At the end of this writing, the seventy-fourth volume will be sent to press. The office is quiet now—in preparation for the new staff. Already plans are being made for the 1962 edition.

Looking back just two short months ago, I can see the office crowded with people. The junior editors were working to meet their deadlines, and the workers were laboring even harder to meet the junior editors' deadlines. There were frantic telephone calls concerning the purchase of new photo equipment. Nightly "work sessions" were necessary to keep production at a high peak. Finally the end was in sight. Pictures began pouring in faster than the engraver could handle them. Proofs were returned by the printer. Thanks to a last minute check-up, a few "questionable" pictures were found and retaken. It is at this point that I am writing the last page.

It is hard to believe that the DEBRIS is completed. I must admit that there were times when I worried about meeting the final deadlines. Only with the help of a competent senior staff and a reliable junior staff could the 1961 edition of the DEBRIS have been produced.

I would like to express my deep appreciation to the members of the senior staff, Marilyn, Ron, Sue, Ann, Jim and Bruce. Without your suggestions and complete cooperation, we would never have made the deadlines. All of the juniors should be commended for their work and interest. It was fortunate for the yearbook that each staff member completed his section and carried out his responsibilities. A special thanks to you, Carolyn, for completing the senior section; and to those workers who, along with Jim, did so much extra work in the photography office.

The whole staff joins me in thanking Jim for his four o'clock trips to the Sweet Shop. The cokes and potato chips were "delightful" after a day of classes.

Lastly, good luck to the Editor of the 1962 DEBRIS. I know you will find, as I did, your experience as editor to be challenging and rewarding. I wish to thank everyone for the honor and opportunity to serve Purdue and its students as the editor of the 1961 DEBRIS.
